Every One Registered Urged To Vote Nov. 5

Raleigh, Oct. 31.—Expressing the hope that the Democratic vote at the General Election on November 5 will be the greatest ever recorded, William B. Umstead, Chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, today urged every citizen to go to the polls and vote the straight Democratic ticket next Tuesday. "The Democratic party has demonstrated that it is the party of sound and progressive government in North Carolina," declared Mr. Umstead in his statement. "The Democratic party in the nation has stood for the rights of free men. Humanitarian government has come about under Democratic administration, and the people during the years the Democratic party has been in power have made more advances in wages, farm incomes, social benefits and in other ways than ever before in the history of the nation. Umstead invited all young people and returned soldiers to enter actively into participation in the affairs of the state by voting the Democratic ticket next Tuesday. He asserted that "the Democratic party offers them the best means in North Carolina whereby they may participate in molding the affairs of the state and adding their contribution to good and progressive government for the people of the Commonwealth as a whole."

State College Answers Timely Farm Questions

Question: When should we try to market our turkeys? Answer: Now that the supply of meat is short, C. F. Parrish of State College, in charge of Extension Poultry, says that turkey growers should make every effort possible to process and sell all turkeys that are ready for market. He thinks that the price will probably be better now than later, when the supply of meat is more plentiful. Question: What about whole milk sales in future years? Answer: "John Arey of State College, in charge of Extension Dairying, says that we are not beginning to supply the actual milk needs in the cities and towns and on the farms. He believes that many people are just beginning to drink milk and that the demand will increase. He points to some interesting figures presented by the 1945 U. S. Census. Milk production has increased about 70 per cent in North Carolina during the last 25 years and yet sales of whole milk have gone up 700 per cent of that sold in 1920. Surveys show that diets can be greatly improved through a wider use of milk and its products. Question: Will cyanamid control both diseases and weeds on tobacco plant beds. Answer: Cyanamid alone is used for weed control but the State College Extension Service recommends a mixture of uranon and cyanamid for control of both diseases and weeds in permanent plant bed sites. If you are interested in full information, write the Agricultural Editor, State College, Raleigh, for a free copy of Folder 70. Either one of these jobs must be carefully done to obtain the best of results. For example, if live weed seeds are brought up to the soil surface in applying the fertilizer and seeding, you may have a greater weed growth than normal. No woman, idealistic though she may be, cares about a man who isn't interested." Four-year rotations for tobacco with cotton, corn and peanuts has been found effective in the control of root knot, says the N. C. Agricultural Experiment Station experts. Rowan County tobacco growers saved about 4,000 work days last year by chemically treating their beds, according to County Agent W. L. McGhee of the State College Extension Service.
