Lovely Parties Continue To Honor Miss Joyner

Miss Verona Lee Joyner, whose marriage to Fred Timms Langford, of Columbia, S. C., and Greenville, will take place in the Methodist Church, Saturday, November 16, at noon, continued to be the inspiration for varied and lovely social events here and in nearby towns this week. The members of the Bethel Home Demonstration Club and their husbands were hosts at a buffet supper, Monday evening, at the Bethel Community Building, honoring Miss Joyner and her fiancé, Fred T. Langford. The spacious reception room was decorated with quantities of white chrysanthemums and lighted tapers, and the twenty tables, seating eighty guests, were laid with white refreshment covers and centered with miniature arrangements of white flowers. The place of the bride-elect was marked by a corsage. Mrs. R. H. Mayo, pianist, played selections throughout the supper hour, and Mrs. Wadie Ward and Mrs. Ralph Carson sang "I Love You Truly" as a duet in the program of entertainment, which followed. Attorney Everett was master of ceremonies and offered advice to the honoree in a witty speech. Miss Joyner was presented silver in her chosen pattern by the hosts. Miss Joyner was honored, on Tuesday, at a lovely bridge luncheon, given by Mrs. S. Lindsey and Mrs. Charles V. Wilkinson at the home of the latter on Evans street, in Greenville. The tables were spread with refreshment cloths and centered with arrangements of pompon chrysanthemums. White chrysanthemums and burning white candles were used in further decoration of the home. The luncheon, consisting of tomato cocktail, a chicken salad course, ice cream and fruit cake was served at 1:00 o'clock. The place of the bride-elect was marked by a corsage. Cocktails were served during the afternoon. In the progressive contract games, played afterwards, the honoree compiled high score and was awarded a home box. She also retained the slam prize, netting Mrs. Curtis L. Flanagan was given stationery as runner-up award. Miss Joyner was presented silver in her pattern by the hostesses. Out-of-town guests were: Mrs. T. E. Joyner, Sr., mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. Nonie Barrett, her grandmother, Mrs. T. E. Joyner, Jr., Mrs. Robert F. Monk, Mrs. Archie Speight, Mrs. Frank Davis, Jr., Mrs. Curtis L. Flanagan, Miss Bertha Lang and Mrs. Robert P. Wheelan, of Farmville; Mrs. Don Langston, Mrs. Oled Castalo, Mrs. D. T. McLawhorn and Miss Patsy McLawhorn, of Winterville.

which she attended recently. The Chapter voted to purchase two histories of the U. D. G. in North Carolina relating to its activities during the past fifty years.

Mrs. F. M. Davis, Sr., whose birthday fell on this date, was remembered by the Chapter with a corsage at this time. A delicious fruit salad was served with saltines, stuffed dates, cheese straws and coffee. Junior Woman's Club Mrs. Bill Rollins and Mrs. Frank Williams delightfully entertained the members of the Junior Woman's Club and guests, Miss Mary Thorne Tyson and Mrs. Robert Fields, at the former's home, Tuesday evening. Lovely stillness, chrysanthemums and nasturtiums were used with pleasing effect in the Rollins' home. Mrs. J. T. Nolan, president, opened the meeting with the pledge, followed by reports on the Scout activities given by Mrs. R. T. Williams, Mrs. Sam Lewis and Mrs. George Farr, leaders. The club agreed to sponsor the sale of V.F.W. poppies, on Saturday, and the Scouts will sell the little red flowers. Several members volunteered to help the girls during the day. A committee, composed of Mrs. Frank Allen, Mrs. C. S. Hotchkiss, Miss Rosemary Holmes, Mrs. Robert Harris, Mrs. Bill Garner and Miss Margaret Smith, will prepare a float to be entered in the Book Week parade, November 16. Yearbooks were distributed by the chairman of that committee, Mrs. Mable H. Pollard, who stated that her assistants in preparing them were Mrs. W. C. Garner and Mrs. Joseph D. Joyner. A report from the N. C. Clubwoman was given by Mrs. C. S. Hotchkiss. Continuing the five-minute parliamentary law studies, Mrs. W. Jesse Moye talked about how to amend a motion. Mrs. C. S. Hotchkiss, program chairman, introduced Sam D. Bundy as her guest speaker. Mr. Bundy, basing his talk on the subject, "Five Ways to Face the Future," brought out these points: (1) Face it with a strong determination that you are going to count for something, (2) with mental honesty, (3) with the determination that you are not going to make this a mere declaration but a program of demonstration, (4) with a sense of responsibility and (5) as a positive factor in which you seek to establish freedom, a just brotherhood and peace. The meeting adjourned by repeating the Collect in union. Strawberry shortcake and coffee were served in the delightful social period. Literary Club An interesting and enjoyable meeting of the Literary Club was held, Wednesday afternoon, at the home of Miss Tabitha M. DeVincenti. Roses and potted plants were used in providing a floral setting for the meeting, which was presided over by Miss Elizabeth Davis. Mrs. B. S. Sheppard gave current events as gleaned from the Time Club Bureau, and Mrs. William P. Easley developed the program from the topic "What is Wrong With American Protestantism?" Mrs. Easley discussed American Protestantism from the angles of what is wrong with its doctrine and organization and internally. At the conclusion of the program, the hostess served ambrosia and individual devil food cakes. Contract Club Members of the Contract Club and additional guests, Mrs. R. O. Lang, Sr., and Mrs. W. M. Willis, enjoyed an afternoon of bridge, Tuesday, in the home of Mrs. Mark E. Dixon, which was artistically decorated throughout with chrysanthemums, marigolds and narcissus. Mrs. M. V. Horton and Mrs. B. O. Lang, Sr., scored high for members and guests and received bric-a-brac; Mrs. Z. M. Whitehurst, as runner-up, received coasters, and Mrs. Arthur P. Joyner was given two rubbers as consolation prize. A frozen marshmallow salad, saltines, cheese straws, pickles, nuts and coffee were served after the games. As long as one case of tuberculosis remains in your community it is a real danger to all. We must not stop short of complete eradication. Through August the CCC had purchased 33 million pounds of canned horse meat and another 6 million pounds of cured horse meat for the UNRRA program.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

Troop 1, of the Girl Scouts, was charming hostesses at a lovely Halloween square dance, Saturday evening, having as their guests the Boy Scouts. The Halloween motif was carried out in the decorations of orange and black crepe paper suspended overhead, the cutouts of witches, skeletons and pumpkins attached to the wall and the orange covered lights and glowing candles in jack o' lanterns which shed a soft glow on the scene. The refreshments were attractively packaged in gaily decorated boxes and consisted of sandwiches, pickles, cakes, candies, peanuts and pop-corns. Bobbing for apples and several contests were enjoyed. The winners received prizes of candy. The leaders, Mrs. J. M. Carraway and Mrs. W. H. Moore, Jr. were special guests. ATTEND GAME Among those attending the Duke-Georgia Tech game in Durham, Saturday, were Dr. and Mrs. G. L. Gilchrist, Mr. and Mrs. Frank K.
