This tobacco had an average value of $480.12 per acre, with an average price per 100 pounds of $34.20. As the prices indicate, say tobacco research workers located at the Oxford Tobacco Branch Station who conducted the work, the quality of the leaf was superior, when grown following the soybeans.

Although the index of feedstuff prices has dropped nearly seven points, down to 253.5, this figure is still 47 points higher than when price ceilings were in effect in September and October, he reported.

Hay prices are holding steady due to the light receipts at the principal markets. However, in North Carolina and other Southern States, the demand for hay has remained relatively light because of mild weather.

THANKSGIVINGITIS

Doctor, quick, my whole abdomen Is inflated like a tire, And my fluttery heart is roamin' 'Round a chest that's all on fire. Could it be appendicitis That has seized me in its clutch! Oh! - you say Thanksgivingitis -Heck! I didn't eat so much.

Just a helping of the turkey; Maybe I did pass my plate For a second time; I'm murky As to just how much I ate. Certainly, ate some turnips, Mashed potatoes, Hubbard squash Doc, what makes my stomach churn up? I'm too sick a man to josh.

Yes, I had some giblet gravy, Chestnut stuffing, too - a trace Doc, my vision's geeting wavy, With black spots before my face Yes, some candied sweet potatoes, Onions, celery, mince pie, Two, three spoonfuls of tomatoes-Hurry, Doc, I'm going to die!

Yes, plum pudding, served with some brandy

And a trifle of hard sauce, Piece or two of chocolate candy,
And hard cider — just a toss;
Apple pie? Yes, a la mode a Piece—my innards writhe and roil— Oh! You say — take bicarb soda, Followed — ugh — by castor oil! Ayden Dispatch.
