CHARLES M. JOHNSON TOSSES HIS HAT INTO GUBERNATORIAL RACE

Ballentine, Horton and Albright Are Expected to Join State Treasurer
In Race To Succeed R.
Gregg Cherry

Charles M. Johnson, State treasurer, who has made no bones about the fact that he was going to run for governor in 1948, officially announced his candidacy yesterday and pried the lid off a race which is expected to find several other outstanding North Carolinians competing for the Democratic nomination.

Olla Ray Boyd of Pinetown has already announced. Others expected to join Johnson and Boyd as major contenders are R. Mayne Albright, Wilkins P. Horton and W. B. Ballentine, who now serves as lieutenant-governor.

Mr. Johnson's statement announcing his candidacy follows:

"This is an announcement of my candidacy for Governor of North Carolina subject to the Democratic Primary of 1948. It is intended only as a statement of my candidacy. In the months ahead, I shall give full information as to my aims and policies.

"As State Treasurer, as Director of Local Government, and as a member of many of the most important State Boards and Commissions, I have had an opportunity to learn the workings of the State Government and to know the problems and needs of the people of North Carolina. I believe that my experience and training in the business of government, on both the state and local government levels, will be of value in the years just ahead.

"If elected, I will be free to assume the office of Governor with only one commitment—a promise to do what I believe to be best for all the people of the State.

"While I will not go into detail as to my program at this time, I do wish to make one simple statement which I hope to make the keynote of the service I desire to render. I shall always keep in mind that government is justified only by the high character of service rendered by its officials as servants of the people and seek to emphasize the human as well as material values by meeting the needs of the underprivileged and those afflicted and handicapped in life. Above all, we must protect and provide for the needs of our children through a wise and adequate program of health and education.

"I take pride in the magnificent record of progress in North Carolina made under the leadership of the Democratic Party. I heartily endorse this record and wish to see us go forward to even higher levels of achievement.

"The limitless opportunities for service which the great office of Governor affords, challenges the best there is in any man and it is my sincere desire, with the support of our people, to undertake this leadership for the good I hope and believe I can do."
