

State Legion Plans For Memorial Building

The campaign to raise funds to erect a State American Legion Headquarters building as a "living memorial" to the veterans of World Wars I and II will get underway at an early date, Joe L. Blythe, of Charlotte, chairman of the Legion's memorial building fund committee, has notified Legion officials in all sections of the State.

The proposed building will serve as State headquarters not only for the North Carolina Department of the American Legion but will also be headquarters for the American Legion Auxiliary and the Forty and Eight, the Legion's fun and honor society.

Chairman Blythe announced that Governor R. Gregg Cherry, a past State commander of the Legion and still an active Legionnaire, has accepted the honorary chairmanship of the building fund committee. All other past State commanders are also honorary members of the committee.

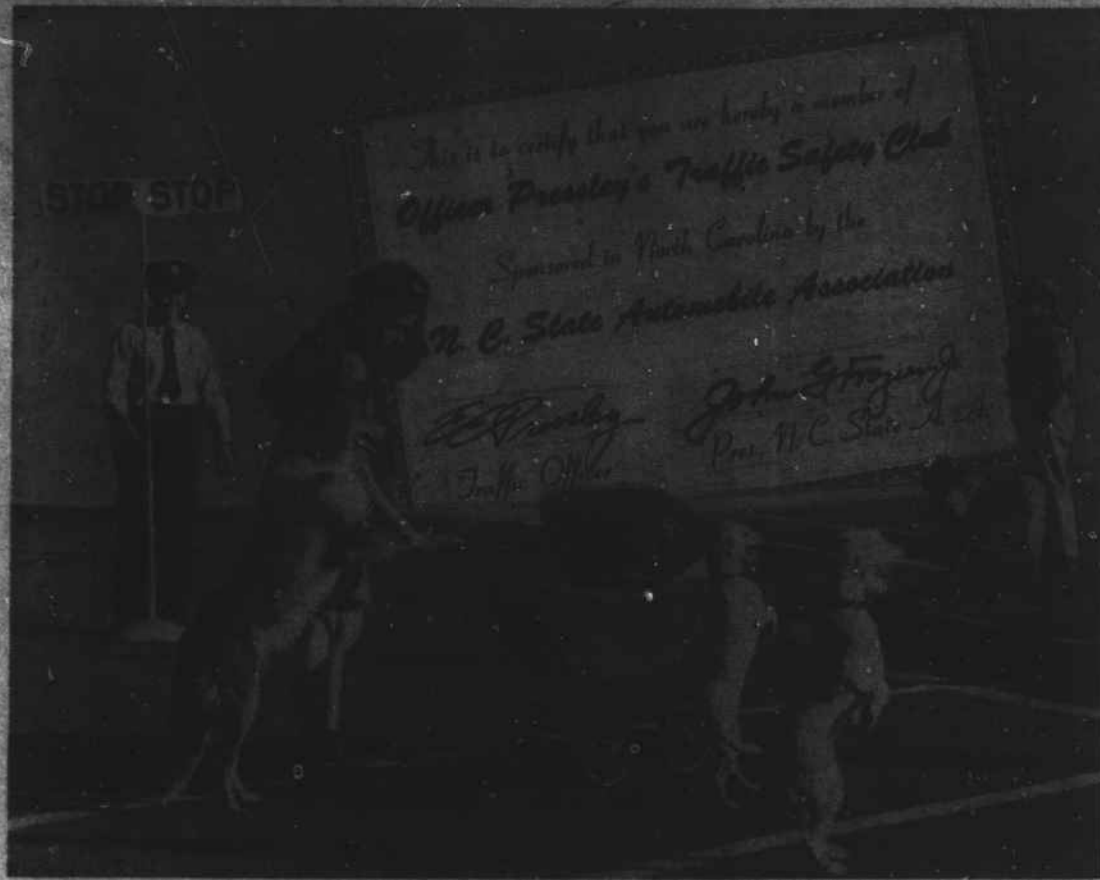

Others named by Chairman Blythe to assist him in the drive are: Thurmond Chatham, of Winston-Salem; Herman Cone, of Greensboro; Harry L. Dalton, of Charlotte; Don Elias, of Asheville; Ralph Gardner, of Shelby; Gordon Gray, of Winston-Salem; James J. Harris, of Charlotte; Everett Jordan, of Saxapahaw; W. T. Joyner, of Raleigh; Andrew Joyner, of Greensboro; John L. Morehead, of Charlotte; Frank C. Patton, of Morganton; Don E. Scott, of Graham; Senator William B. Umstead, of Durham; William M. York, of Greensboro; B. B. Gossett, of Charlotte, and Brown Wilson, of Gastonia.

Present plans call for the writing into the archives of the building the names of all North Carolina men and women who answered the call to the colors. Engraved upon the walls will be the names of those who made the supreme sacrifice. Battle flags and insignias of the armies, divisions, and fleets with which Tar Heels served will also be kept on display.

County quotas are being assigned and counties that reach or exceed their assigned quotas will have their names etched in marble over the columns of the proposed three-story structure.

Governor Cherry is calling upon all North Carolinians to make a contribution, however large or small, to the building fund, Blythe said, adding:

Officer Ernest E. Pressley, of the Charlotte Police Department, who is now presenting his famous traffic dog safety show to all the school children in North Carolina under the sponsorship of the North Carolina State Automobile Association, announces that his Junior Traffic Safety Club has swelled its membership in the State to more than 100,000. He estimates that by the end of 1947 more than 200,000 boys and girls will have passed his stiff traffic safety examinations and will have become members of his Junior Traffic Safety Club. Local civic groups interested in having the show presented in the Farmville school are invited to write the North Carolina State Automobile Association, Inc., Selwyn Hotel Building, Charlotte. All expenses are paid by the sponsoring organization.

lina the Legion headquarters will mean, because the Legion is always an ever alert vigilant guardian of the rights of Americans, a guarantee of the constitution. . . an ever ready contributor to the welfare of the whole community. . . a supporter and helpmate to the youth of the State through its athletic program, Boy Scout, Americanism, child welfare, and aid to widows and orphans of those who died that freedom might live."

It was emphasized that the headquarters will not be reserved exclusively for Legionnaires, pointing out that any veteran may feel free to visit headquarters at any time for advice and assistance with his or her problems.

Shrine Meets at Morehead City May 21-22

Morehead City, May 8—"Sandstorm and Deep Water Spring Ceremonial of Sudan Shrine Temple" to be held here, on Atlantic Beach and in Beaufort on May 21, 22 is expected to be attended by up to 8,000 persons, an official in charge of arrangements stated this week. It will be one of the most gala ceremonies in the history of the Temple's 21 years of work.

Some of the events planned include a mammoth salt water fishing rodeo with prizes for record catches, the Potentate's banquet, the program by the drum and bugle corps of the temple, exhibitions by the Arab patrol of the temple, picnic-lunches, tea dances, street parades with many high school bands participating, band programs, and grand balls.

During the ceremonial, the USS Domato, one of the Navy's fighting destroyers, will be in port and open to the visiting Shriners.

LEGION WILL PICK QUEEN AT STATE CONVENTION

Some lucky Tar Heel Miss will be crowned "Miss North Carolina American Legion" during the state convention of American Legion posts scheduled to be held at Carolina Beach June 14, 15, 16 and 17, it was announced in Wilmington several days ago by W. L. Farmer, convention chairman.

The Legion queen, to be chosen for personality and beauty of face and form, will be selected during a beauty contest to be staged at Carolina Beach on Sunday, June 15, under auspices of the Carolina Beach post.

All American Legion posts in the state are being invited by Farmer to sponsor local beauty contests in order to have an entrant selected before June 1 for the state competition.

Winner of the state contest, along with two runners-up, will be guests of the Carolina Beach post for an all-expense-paid week's vacation at that resort anytime during the summer. In addition, the three top contestants will receive clothes, accessories and other merchandise.

CECAL COCCIDIOSIS THREAT IN SPRING

An extremely prevalent disease in chickens at this time of year is cecal coccidiosis, an acute infection caused by microscopic, one-cell organisms called coccidia. This disease attacks chicks and growing birds on what is practically a nation-wide scale. Occurrence of cecal coccidiosis is most frequent in the spring and early summer.

This acute form of coccidiosis appears in the flock suddenly. Affected birds may lose appetite, appear listless, huddle where it is warm, and show other general symptoms of infection. The first positive symptom of cecal coccidiosis is bloody droppings; these come from hemorrhaging of the ceca, where the infection localizes.

Cecal coccidiosis may spread swiftly through the flock. In the event of an outbreak, the flockowner should act immediately to check the spread. This may be accomplished by giving the flock certain arsenic compounds (such as 3-nitro-4-hydroxy phenylarsonic acid) or certain sulfas.

Both of these families of drugs have proven effective in controlling cecal coccidiosis.

Sanitary measures are highly important in controlling outbreaks of cecal coccidiosis, as well as in preventing them. In either case, the poultry house or yard should be kept as clean and dry as possible. Although the importance of moisture in the development of the disease is disputed by some poultry disease specialists, dampness does seem to be a predisposing factor in many outbreaks.

Water founts and feed hoppers should be kept clean and sanitary. During an outbreak disinfect them at least once daily. Stir up the litter of the house. Stimulate consumption of feed.

Although cecal coccidiosis is certainly one of the leading deadly diseases of young chickens, it can be rather effectively controlled through careful sanitation and management.
