England Makes Plans For Royal Wedding
There is no chance that Princess Elizabeth will be left waiting at the altar by a bridegroom who doesn't show up, the minute-by-minute program for her wedding ceremony on Nov. 20 discloses.

Wales has offered some of its native-mined gold for the making of Princess Elizabeth's wedding ring, in accordance with an old tradition that wedding rings of the British Royal Family should be made from Welsh Gold.

The numerous wedding gifts for Princess Elizabeth will include a new wing to the Ipswich Old Folks Home.
The new wing took its place among the silver and gold and other expensive presents coming from all parts of the world when the citizens of Ipswich decided to dedicate it to the Princess as a gift.
