Vets Get WAA Goods

Have you a little surplus property in your home? The War Assets Administration says that veterans have snagged a billion and 250 million dollars worth of the 18 1/2 billion dollars surplus property inventory and can still get plenty more if they want it.

The catch is that 60 per cent of the 7 billion in surplus war property still on hand is "heavy" stuff like industrial plants, real estate, heavy machine tools, etc., in which veterans have little interest.

Right now, however, War Assets is getting ready to offer veterans $16 million worth of scarce equipment now stored in the Navy's Norfolk Supply depot. Items include typewriters, tools, office equipment, household equipment and personal supplies and all will be offered to veterans through the WAA Customer Service Centers in that region.

Besides the millions of veterans who have bought surplus property from WAA for personal or home use, WAA says more than 16,000 have been able to get enough surplus to go into business for themselves and now operate businesses which employ 250,000 other veterans.

If they could do it, why can't you? The Charlotte Regional Office of the WAA has done its part, according to C. G. Carile, Regional Director. He stated that over 2 1/2 million dollars of war surplus had been sold to veterans exclusively since Sept. 1, 1946. "This doesn't count the many millions of dollars worth of war surplus that veterans bought in competitive bid and other types of sale," Mr. Carile explained.

During the next two weeks, the Customer Service Centers in the Charlotte region—Charlotte, Greensboro and Wilmington—have planned sales of scarce items such as typewriters and other small equipment. Mr. Carile stated that the Charlotte region is doing everything possible to dispose of as much war surplus property as possible to veterans.

ATTRACTIVE COOK BOOK
OFFERS N. C. RECIPES

Nearly 20,000 copies of the cook book "Favorite Recipes of North Carolina" have been distributed by the State Department of Agriculture since the attractive books first went on sale two years ago, the department's Publications Division reports.

Although the cook book has never been advertised, orders for copies come in every day and it has been sent to individuals in all 48 states and in many foreign countries. It has won fame by word of mouth and through letters from homemakers.

The hundreds of recipes in the book were selected from suggested recipes sent by 17,000 North Carolina women. The cook book is illustrated and contains 128 pages. Each recipe requires a dairy product. All recipes have been tested by North Carolina homemakers and by home economists.

Price of the book by mail is 50 cents, which covers only the actual cost of printing and mailing.

THREE FROM GREENE GET
FREE TRIPS TO CHICAGO

Mrs. Nell Butler, home agent, B. J. Davis, superintendent Greene county schools, and A. J. Harrell, county agent, represented Greene county at a meeting in Wilmington on Nov. 14. The meeting was sponsored by the Tide Water Power company and was called for the purpose of discussing the "Better Farming for Better Living" contest and to make plans for the contest in 1948.

Mrs. J. M. Boykin of Walstonburg, C. K. Grantham, R-2, Stantonburg, and J. C. Edmundson, R-3, Snow Hill, were the lucky winners in the drawing for free trips to Chicago given by the county and State Farm Bureau to the National Convention to be held in Chicago the first of December.

M. E. Smith, Jr., of Charlotte owns a farm in Speight's Bridge township that includes approximately 125 acres of woodland. In February of this year, John L. Gray, extension forester, assisted Mr. Smith in marking and estimating the pine timber on one tract of this woodland and leaving seed trees for regeneration. Now plans are now coming up where this timber was cut for market.

Mr. Smith now plans to property this a third tract of about 100 acres of this woodland, leaving the seed trees for future timber.

Town Bonds Will Be Sold Next Tuesday

$186,000 of power bonds will be sold by the Local Government Commission next Tuesday for the Town of Farmville.

Bonds, approved more than a year ago by voters of the town, will pay for the new power plant unit which Supt. W. A. McAdams and his men are installing. The plant should be ready early next year and will greatly relieve current facilities, taxed to capacity.

FARMERS WARNED TO GET THEIR FERTILIZER NOW

North Carolina farmers were advised by D. S. Coltrane, assistant State Commissioner of Agriculture, to place orders early for fertilizer in order to be assured of sufficient plant food for their crops next year. Coltrane emphasized the necessity for an early movement of fertilizer because of a potential shortage of boxcars, lack of storage space and prospective insufficient supplies of fertilizer on a national basis.

"It seems that our farmers are rather complacent with regard to supplies of fertilizer for the coming year," he commented.

Leaders of the fertilizer industry are anticipating no reduction in the volume of fertilizer used in North Carolina despite a prospective sharp cut in tobacco acreage next year. They see increased use of fertilizer for corn, cotton and pastures, and larger applications of fertilizer on the tobacco acreage put into cultivation.

Few new fertilizer plants are serving the tobacco area, and consumption of fertilizer is nearly double what it was six or seven years ago. Coltrane said farmers would be making a mistake to postpone ordering fertilizer because of the impending reduction in tobacco acreage and low tobacco prices. To be safe, they should get their fertilizer before January, he declared.

clusive effect on the course of civilization." He did not say an "important" effect, or a "major effect," but a "decisive effect."

While this special passage had no direct connection with the United States relation with other powers through the United Nations, the President repeated this country's attitude toward the new world organization.

He first pointed out that the United States had "participated fully and gladly in the growth of the United Nations." Then he added, in explanation of Secretary of State George C. Marshall's broad program presented to the General Assembly: "We seek now to strengthen and improve it."

If his arguments for asking for aid to keep western Europe from collapse this winter, then to be followed by a long-range assistance program, could be spelled out in one sentence, perhaps the following does it the best: "What happens beyond our shores determines how we live our own lives."

Thus, succinctly, the President resolved the European aid appeal into a direct plea for aid to save the United States. Aid to Europe, he was saying, was but for the other side of a coin labeled self-preservation.

Panting and perspiring, 2 Irishmen on a tandem bicycle at last got to the top of the steep hill.

"That was a stiff climb, Pat," said Mike. "And if I hadn't kept the brakes on, we would have gone backward."

Mrs. E. C. Beaman was hostess to the Episcopal auxiliary Monday afternoon with Miss Helen Smith, president, giving the devotional and leading in prayer. The following nominating committee was appointed: Mrs. J. W. Joyner, Mrs. T. S. Ryan and Mrs. Charles S. Edwards.

After Mrs. John D. Dixon, chairman of the arrangements committee for the parish supper gave a report, the group voted to hold only one meeting in December. Mrs. G. Alex Rouse was asked to arrange a Christmas program.

A study of a book dealing with evangelism, "Why Do People Go into Mission Fields?" was begun by Mrs. Jack Lewis, educational chairman, who told how a missionary has to dedicate himself to his work and give up friends and family in order to carry on his job.

A cordial welcome was extended to Mrs. W. D. Creekmur, a new member.
