40 GREENE COUNTY CORN GROWERS AVERAGE 79 BUSHELS PER ACRE

Forty corn demonstrations carried out by 4-H club members in Greene county this year averaged 79 bushels an acre. A summary of these projects shows that the average member used approximately 400 pounds of fertilizer at planting and top-dressed with 400 pounds of nitrate of soda or its equivalent. The cost of fertilizer for each bushel of corn produced was 23.3 cents.

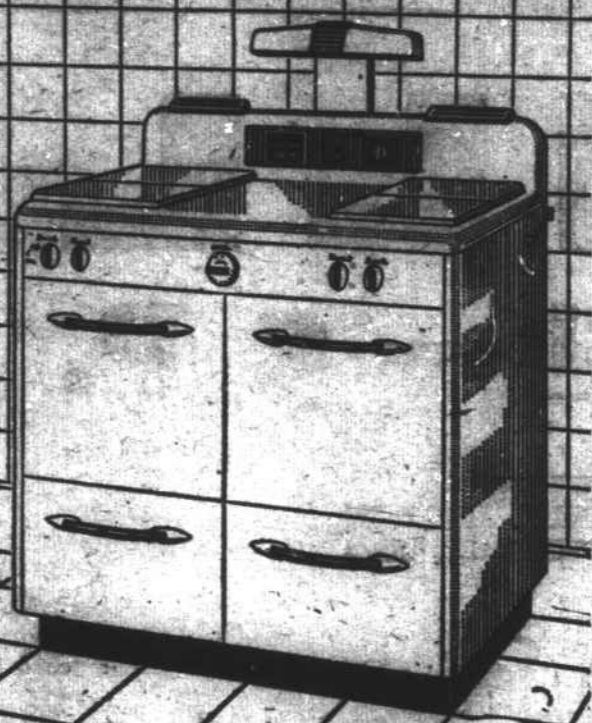

The corn averaged 7577 stalks per acre which is equal to a 20-inch spacing in a three and a half foot row, although the higher yields were made on acres having their corn spaced closer than 20 inches in the row.
