

Retiring Rector Honored By Local Episcopalians

Rev. Jack Rountree, who has served as rector of the Farmville Episcopal parish for sixteen years, and Mrs. Rountree, were honored at a barbecue and Brunswick stew buffet supper at the parish house on Thursday night. Rev. Rountree, who was recently relieved as rector of the Farmville Church, preached his last official sermon on the past Sunday. The decorations for the occasion were in the fall and Halloween motif and were unusually colorful and artistic.

The serving table was centered with horn-of-plenty arrangements of chrysanthemums, grapes and berries and the auxiliary tables were decorated with epermettes also filled with grapes and berries. Large baskets of pyracantha berries and autumn leaves were used in the background, and a large pumpkin with fruit features were used in a realistic setting of corn ears and stalks. Mrs. W. C. Murray, decoration chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Harry Byers.

After supper, J. W. Joyner, senior warden, presented a deep freezer to Rev. and Mrs. Rountree, on behalf of the church in recognition and appreciation of their 16 years of service to the church. The freezer was camouflaged during the supper as a background decoration and when uncovered was a large white package tied with a big red bow.

Mrs. F. A. Williams was food chairman and Misses Dorothy Lucas and Mary Frances Joyner assisted in serving.

Out-of-town guests attending the supper in addition to Rev. and Mrs. Rountree were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lang and Mrs. Wayne Mitchell, Jr., of Kinston.

Ayden Defeats Farmville; Takes District Title

Ayden won the Coastal Conference Championship here last Friday night by defeating the local high school eleven, 23-6.

Farmville started the game with a bang as they blocked an Ayden punt and recovered on the Ayden 35-yard line. Two passes, both from Charlie Fitzgerald to Roy Vick, set up most of the yardage as the local boys went on to score. Fitzgerald went over on the third attempt from the two yard line.

Ayden came right back with a score of its own in the first period. Cannon hit the middle of the Farmville line, and from all indications was stopped at the scrimmage line. However, he spun away and easily scooted 73 yards for the score as the Farmville boys, thinking Cannon was down, failed to give pursuit. Edwards added the extra point on a sneak and Ayden lead 7-6.

Farmville's pass defense lapses were responsible for the other Ayden TD's. All of the remaining scores were the result of long passes in which the receiver cut behind the secondary defense. Ayden could not gain steadily through the Farmville line, which played its best defensive game of the season. However, the forward pass proved to be the more lethal weapon.

Farmville led Ayden in first downs, and completed ten of nineteen attempted passes, which surpassed Ayden's total. However, Ayden led in rushing yardage and in yards gained by passing.

The local boys made several bids for pay dirt after their initial score, but fumbles at crucial times hurt their cause considerably.

Several of the locals made a creditable performance in the game. Among the linemen, Roy Vick, Pascal Barrett, Jimmy Allen, James Fountain performed well while in the backfield Charlie Fitzgerald and Joe Smith were the leaders.

The next home game is with South Edgemont, November 2.

Town and Country

(By James B. Hockaday)

Discontinuance of the Norfolk Southern railroad as a mail carrier—the railway is to be replaced on Nov. 1 with a highway post office—will mean one less job for Bob Barrett, who has been making his daily trips between the Farmville post office and the Norfolk Southern station almost since the time the memory of man runneth not to the contrary. For more than 30 years, Mr. Barrett has been faithfully meeting the trains in all kinds of weather and under all conditions, doing his share to keep the community in contact with sections far and near. Postmaster Henry D. Johnson, informed that the highway office will mean better postal service for Farmville, opines that operators of the motorized office have a real job on their hands if they deliver the mail from town to town any better than Bob has been covering the distance between the depot and the local office.

While the highway post office may mean improved service for the town, no improvements are in sight for the building itself, which is certainly not in keeping with the size of the town nor the volume of business transacted. Chances are, however, that a new P. O. would be under construction by now if land values had not shot upward overnight when Uncle Sam announced that he was in the market for a lot on which to build an office.

This election time in the Kiwanis club, and the next president, whoever he may be, will find his task easier by virtue of the outstanding work this year by President Charles Edwards. Not only has the club successfully carried on a wide range of outside activities—all designed to benefit the community in general and young folks in particular—but the case, with which Charles presides over the meetings has drawn many compliments, and his sense of humor has been the bright spot of more than one meeting. And, better yet, he is humorous without stooping to indulge in off-color jokes.

Farmville citizens of both races will welcome the announcement that the local colored school will henceforth bear the name of its principal, H. B. Sugg. The honor that has come to the highly-respected school head is well-deserved, and it is good that the honor is bestowed upon him while he is alive. Professor Sugg is the type of man needed by both races, and relations between the groups would not be strained as they are today if his ideas and ideals were practiced more generally.

THOMAS C. HUGHES

Thomas Cleveland Hughes, 67, died suddenly at his home near Farmville about 5:45 Friday afternoon of a heart attack. Surviving are his wife, the former Lila Fields; five sons, Joe J., of New Bern, Thomas M., of Washington, D. C.; W. Ralph, J. Denver and Julius L. of the home. Four daughters, Mrs. J. F. McGrath and Mrs. J. D. Batson of Eatontown, N. J.; Mrs. W. I. Little of Riverside, Md.; and Mrs. J. W. Hardison of Snow Hill; one brother, Julius L., and one sister, Minnie, of New Bern and 13 grandchildren. Funeral rites were conducted at the home Sunday afternoon by the Rev. J. R. Phipps, former pastor of Croatan Presbyterian Church of which the deceased was a member, assisted by Rev. Thomas Ellis, adult Christian minister. Burial was in the Snow Hill cemetery.

The show will feature the same type horses as the Virginia, South Carolina and Georgia shows shown recently at the Wilson and Greenville fairs.

Arch Flannagan Sees Farm Bureau Over 1951 Quota

Arch Flannagan, Farmville, chairman of the County Farm Bureau membership drive, said today that "Pitt County is going all-out to lead the State in membership again this year."

The Farm Bureau leader pointed out that Pitt County has 3665 members on their voluntary quota of 4000.

"The drive is going well in most sections of the county," Flannagan said, "but there are still some townships that are behind in their quotas."

He urged all township workers to "leave no stone unturned in our drive for this year's Farm Bureau membership in Pitt."

Flannagan said that today the farmers have more problems than they have ever had. "We must have a strong Farm Bureau organization to combat these problems if we expect to earn a living wage on the farm," he said.

Flannagan called attention to the fact that the net farm income in this county has decreased over 5 billion since 1946. He said that this net income would continue to decline even further if farm prices are not more in line with the things the farmers have to buy.

"The general public has been grossly misinformed by the so-called farmers-getting-rich line," he said, "but if they could realize that the farmer receives only 69 cents an hour for his work in comparison to the $1.46 average hourly wage other groups receive they would be more sympathetic toward him."

Flannagan said that the Farm Bureau would continue to lead the fight for a fair share of the national income for farm families, and called on every serious minded farmer in Pitt County to "stand behind this organization."

Townships in the county that have already exceeded their membership quotas are: Ayden with 425 members; Beaver Dam with 183 members; Bethel with 382 members; Carolina with 289 members; Falkland with 233 members; Farmville with 479 members; Fountain with 141 members.

Rev. Neilson Will Hold Revival At Baptist Church

Revival services will begin at the Farmville Baptist Church next Sunday morning, October 28, and will continue through the following Sunday. Rev. J. A. Neilson, pastor of the Emmanuel Baptist Church of Greenville, will be the visiting evangelist. Mr. J. Harrell Groves, minister of music at Edenton Street Methodist Church in Raleigh, will lead the singing. Mr. Groves is a graduate of the Westminster Choir School.

Rev. Holmes will preach Sunday morning on the subject "Do we want a revival?" On Sunday night Rev. Mr. Neilson will preach on the subject "Are you being honest with God?" The Worship Choir will sing at the morning service and the Youth Choir will sing at the evening hour.

The Rev. Neilson was born in Palermo, Italy, of Scottish parents, who were missionaries from Great Britain. He attended grammar school in England, high school in Canada and received his university and seminary education in the United States. He is a graduate of the Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky.

Rev. Neilson started his ministry as an assistant to the pastor in the First Baptist Church in Wilmington and served his first full pastorate at the Southport Baptist Church. From there he went to Winter Park Home Baptist Church in Thomasville. He has been pastor of the Greenville Church for 5 years.

Midgets Easily Win From Light Tarboro Eleven

The Farmville Midget football squad was a rude host last Saturday night when they roughly entertained the Tarboro team and came out on top of a 35-0 score. The locals, eager to break into the win column, caught fire quickly and when the half ended, they had racked up a 27-0 score at the expense of a smaller and inexperienced Tarboro squad. Despite the weight disadvantage though, the visitors came back strong in the second half to hold Farmville to two touchdowns. Hard tackling and down-field blocking by the Red Devils gave an indication that the "little boys" were beginning to learn fundamental football. Several times the rugged linemen were seen throwing key blocks down field that enabled the backs to break loose for long gains.

Right halfback Billy Ellis had a good night. Slipping through holes in the line and around end, he scored three times on runs of 57, 70, 30 yards. The entire line was praised for their hard play. Quarterback Mack Holmes handled the ball much smoother and showed more precision than in previous games this season.

The whole team looked much improved. The Midgets played a strong team from Selma last night of the local field. Results to appear in next week's paper.

"LITTLE BUD" FIELDS RETIRES FROM DUTY ON POLICE FORCE

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Proctor of Route 3, Walstonburg, announce the birth of a son, James Elmer, on October 23. Mrs. Proctor is the former Ruth Wainright of Farmville.

Postal service from Farmville westward to Raleigh, and northward to Norfolk, will be provided by a highway postoffice which will supersede the Norfolk Southern railroad on November 1, as a mail carrier in the Raleigh-Norfolk territory.

Details of the new service have been furnished Postmaster Henry D. Johnson, who announces that the motorized postoffice will make two visits daily, Sunday excepted. The mail is scheduled to leave here for Norfolk at 8:21 each morning, as compared with 10 o'clock under the present train schedule. The west-bound mail leaves at 2:29 in the afternoon, also approximately hours earlier than the train schedule.

The highway postoffice will handle only first class mail and paper. Parcel post and packages will also be handled by truck. The contract for this service has been awarded to Nordan Contracting Company of Raleigh. It is practically impossible for this type of transfer service, but the trucks will follow closely behind the highway postoffice.

Postmaster Johnson says that the change is certain to result in better postal service for the community. In other sections where the trucks have superseded trains, the results have been quite satisfactory.

From Farmville, the northbound truck goes to Bell Arthur and Greenville. The westbound mail carrier goes to Walstonburg, Saratoga, Stantonburg, and then to Wilson. The change means additional service for Saratoga, which is not on the Norfolk Southern.

At The Kiwanis Club

Miss Willa Rae Harper, sweetheart of the Kiwanis club, rendered a program Monday night at the club which proved that she was just as good as any of the "other members" when it comes to entertaining the group. Miss Harper, a talented vocalist, rendered several numbers. She was accompanied by Miss Carolyn Roebuck.

Nominations were presented for club officers who will be elected next Monday night. Nominations are: President—Bernice Turnage and Glasgow Smith; vice-president—Jake Fields, Chad Cox, Dan Jones and Jim Hockaday; treasurer, Jack Lewis, Tommy Lang and Seth Barrow; directors—Dr. S. H. Aycock; Ernest Petteway, Dan Jones, Herman Baker, Gordon Lee, Vassar Fields, Jim Hockaday, C. L. Ivey, Lewis Williams and John Wright.

Among the guests at the meeting Monday were: Milton Calpepper, guest of Frank Allen; Major William Lewis, guest of Jack Lewis; and Mayor Walter Jones, guest of Billy Smith. Dr. John Messick of Greenville was a visiting Kiwanian. Sam Bundy had as his guests four officials of the Christian Laymen's League.

Market Will Sell Nearly 31 Million

Farmville continued to be the best market in the eastern belt, according to unofficial averages appearing in daily newspapers.

Sales Supervisor Fred Moore stated that through Wednesday of this week the market had sold 25,160,000 pounds for an average of $56.60. It is expected that the market will sell 30 1/2 million pounds this season.

Warehouses are reminding growers that there is plenty of space in Farmville, and that the market is maintaining its place as the leader.
