PENNSYLVANIA OVERTHROWS OLD GUARD

Evolution Bout Ends In Draw At Raleigh

SUPPORTERS ABOUT EVENLY DIVIDED

Students Root For Metcalf and the Townfolk For Riley

PULLEN HALL IS RUN OVER FOR DEBATE

RALEIGH, May 17.—Divine and scientist, both professed Christians, met in combat at State college this afternoon and before a crowd that jammed Pullen hall fought for 75 minutes over diverging contentions as to the origin of man and the evolution of matter.

Who won, the scribes at the ring-side would not venture to say. The fight was hot, and both claimed victory, with support from their partisans liberal and enthusiastic. But what the great audience, composed of State college students and Raleigh church-goers, gained from the heated and ridiculing discussion of religious and scientific contentions is too difficult to estimate, in the absence of a capable superior to sit in judgment.

A real fight, it was a minister of the gospel and an instructor of youths pitted against each other.

Riley Against Metcalf On the one side was Rev. W. R. Riley, D. D., pastor of the First Baptist church of Minneapolis, author of numerous text-books on religious subjects and a recognized authority on the Bible.

On the opposing side was Dr. Z. P. Metcalf, professor of zoology and entomology at State college, and member of a half dozen scientific societies of national and world-wide prominence.

"Resolved, that evolution is a demonstrated fact," was the query, and if perhaps, neither stuck any too close to the subject, both gave to their audience a mass of contentions and declarations that were, to say the least, highly illuminating.

The audience was almost as interesting within itself as the discussion. Most of it was on hand a half hour before the advertised time for the contest to begin, seeking assurance of a seat and full-view of the whole affair. Many were turned away, while scores pushed into the doorways, occupied emergency seats in the aisles or lined the walls. The hall seats 1,500 there must have been 2,000 or more within the building.

Town Folk Against College The catalysis of applause which fell upon both speakers when they mounted the platform and at intervals during the speeches, was clearly divided between State college students and Raleigh people; the former, with exceptions, wildly supporting their professor, and the latter with exceptions heaping their words of cheer and approbation upon the minister.

R. L. McMillan acted as referee, and John A. Park and W. T. Boat were time keepers. Dr. Metcalf, leading with his affirmative arguments prefaced his declarations with the assertion that he is a Christian, belongs to a Christian church, yet has "accepted in its entirety" the fact of evolution and I have found nothing in evolution to shake my faith in the fundamentals of the Christian religion.

The rest of his argument he gave from a prepared manuscript. Each speaker had thirty minutes, with Dr. Metcalf a 10 minute rejoinder and Dr. Riley's fifteen minutes of rebuttal argument. Dr. Riley had no manuscript, debating on the subject as presented in the affirmative argument.

Riley Resorts to Ridicule Dr. Metcalf was intensely serious throughout his main presentation and in his rejoinders at times apparently becoming a little heated over a point or two. Dr. Riley resorted frequently to ridicule. Dr. Metcalf offered as evidence that religious leaders have sought to thwart the efforts of scientists by declaring the theories of evolution as the biblical theories of earth evolved rather than the sun and moon. Religious leaders, said he, later ridiculed Harvey's discovery of the circulation of the blood and the classification of plants and animals. They also discounted Darwin, he held. With these declarations he exclaimed:

"We should not shut out the light of a new day in the name of Christianity." In refuting these contentions during his principal declarations, Dr. Riley facetiously said "that not all the mistakes of the past are not the mistakes of the future." He named over a long list of false prophets among the scientists as evidence.

Apologizes for Moses As to Harvey's discovery, Dr. Riley said Moses was 2,000 years ahead of him, this author of the first four books of the Bible having informed the people that "Life is in the Blood." Coming back in his first rejoinder, Dr. Metcalf said trees do not have blood, and he offered to show thousands of animals that have not blood.

Dr. Riley had an answer for this in his rejoinder, apologizing for Moses' failure to specify the different types of blood and reminding that he did not

PINCHOT APPEARS AS WINNER OVER ALTER IN KEYSTONE STATE

Remains of Penrose Machine Backed Attorney General in Race

"REBUKE TO NATIONAL ADMINISTRATION"—HILL

PHILADELPHIA, May 17.—Gifford Pinchot, former State forester, had increased his lead over Attorney General George E. Alter in the race for the Republican nomination for governor tonight to 476 on unofficial returns of yesterday's primaries. With only 619 district out of a total of 7934 to be heard from the vote for Alter was 483,774; Pinchot 488,539.

Organization leaders who had backed Alter conceded Pinchot's nomination this afternoon when unofficial returns showed Alter's majority steadily decreasing. Earlier in the day Harris Baker, secretary of the Republican State committee, said that Alter was not defeated but as further returns were received from Allegheny county, the home of the attorney general and they failed to show increased majority, the secretary conceded the victory to Pinchot.

Alter, according to the unofficial returns, carries only seven counties of the fifty seven. They included Philadelphia which gave Alter a majority of 83,948 and Allegheny in which Pittsburgh is located, which, with 63 or the 1316 missing, turned in an Alter majority of 42,936.

Dauphin county, which includes Harrisburg and Dauphin county, the home of Governor Spruell, who supported Alter, turned in small majorities for the attorney general.

United States Senator George Washington Pepper, candidate for the unpaid term of the late Senator Penrose was nominated by a large majority over Congressman at Large Wm. Jack Burke, unofficial returns from 6,236 districts out of the 7,934, giving him a majority of more than 211,000.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Cordell Hull, chairman of the National Democratic committee, declared in a statement tonight that the success of "the Pennsylvania Republican revolt against the reactionary leadership of their party, following the lead of Indiana Republicans in nominating a few regular republican organization, is a defeat for the party organization in the State and a rebuke for the party organization in the nation."

The reported defeat of six administration candidates for congress, he added, "emphasizes the rebuke to the national administration. The regular republican organizations in Pennsylvania and Indiana, now destroyed, were controlling factors in the Republican national convention of 1920 and have been functioning in closest political, personal and official co-operation with the present national administration."

Goldsboro Girl Gets Compliment From Mr. Brown

At the annual State musical contest for high schools which was held Saturday, May sixth, in the auditorium of the North Carolina College for Women, Miss Edna Weidman, thirteen year old pupil of the Hurst Studio, of Goldsboro, represented Wayne county and after a study of only six months came next to the prize winner and was invited to play at the Sunday morning service at the First Methodist church in Greensboro. Her artistic touch and unusual ability was especially complimented by Professor Wade R. Brown, of the Music department of the North Carolina College for Women—the compliment itself being an unusual triumph for little Miss Weidman and for the Goldsboro Music School.

SPECTATOR DRAWS ONE STRAY BULLET

PINEVILLE, Ky., May 17.—Riley Ball is dead, his uncle, Frank Ball and John Hurst, probably fatally, were shot by Clay Colson and Elmer Dunsen. Hurst was wounded as a result of a bullet from the Colson-Ball feud in the hall of the Bell county court house here today. Five men were arrested and extra deputy sheriffs and police were patrolling the streets. The opposing feudists met in the office of the circuit clerk of court and immediately opened fire. The battle moved from the clerk's office to the hall and down the stairway to a corridor on the first floor. Riley Ball was instantly killed. Frank Ball was shot through the head and probably will die. Hurst was wounded in the abdomen, possibly fatally. Clay Colson received a flesh wound in the shoulder and McDaniel a spectator, was shot in the foot by a stray bullet.

Heflin Warms the Hearts of Southerners In Address At Charlotte Girls' School

Distinguished Orator Mingles Metaphors and Mirth in a Rhapsody of the Southland's Glory; Discusses Many Things

CHARLOTTE, May 17.—In an address that caused the audience to tingle with patriotism and love for the southland, replete with pride and glory in the wonderful future and glorious past of Dixie, carrying the nation to a half-tear in one minute, a whole-hearted laugh in the next and giving proof of his nationally known ability as an orator, Senator J. Thomas Heflin of Alabama spoke at the commencement exercises at Queens college yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

During the course of his speech Senator Heflin spoke of the glorious opportunities presented to the youth of the day; of the makers of history the south has produced; of the part southern men played in the winning of the independence of the country; of the part North Carolina and men of this state played in the struggle for the country's independence; of the glory days of the civil war; of the glory of the womanhood of the south; of the glorious industrial and manufacturing future of the south; of the history of the United States; of democracy as the solution for questions of the day; of the part the south is playing in the immigration problem; of the reconstruction days of the civil war; of the purity of the womanhood of the south; of Woodrow Wilson and the part he played in the world war; of the strength of the Americans at Chateau-Thierry; and of the love of the citizens of the south for the United States.

In beginning his address Senator Heflin said that he must give a brief outline of the history of the state from which he hailed, "Alabama," he stated, "is the beautiful daughter of the Mississippi territory. After her marriage with Uncle Sam, they lived happily together until the days of 1850, when he violated the marriage contract. She abandoned him and instituted a suit for divorce in the court of arms. Alabama lost the suit and a reconciliation was effected, both parties burying all thoughts of the past. Now, when Uncle Sam places his arms and Alabama's maidenly form and asks, 'Who's sweet? Alabama leans her head on his manly form and says: 'Bofe us.'"

Southern Men Leaders Senator Heflin spoke of the hardships of our ancestors during the early days of the century, saying that the first step towards the independence of the colonies came from Virginia, and telling of the work of Patrick Henry, Richard Henry Lee, Thomas Jefferson, writer of the Declaration of Independence, and of George Washington, the commander of the continental armies. "All of these men," Senator Heflin pointed out, "came from the south. The last battle of the continental army for independence was on southern soil when Cornwallis surrendered at Yorktown. Following this George Washington was elected president of the new republic and James Madison wrote the constitution of the United States. Jackson, another southerner, distinguished himself in the war of 1812, when it was established

BEAUFORT PAPER IS FOR MISS JOHNSON

Morehead City Coaster Pays Handsome Tribute to One of Wayne Candidates

Under the caption "Miss Johnson Should Win," a recent issue of the Morehead City Coaster contained the following editorial with reference to the candidacy of Miss Maggie Johnson, of this county, for register of deeds:

Miss Mamie Johnson, of Wayne county, for the past eight months (since in the local graded schools, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the office of Register of Deeds in her home county. On account of Miss Johnson's popularity with the people of this community the people of Morehead City are keenly interested in her candidacy for the office she seeks. Presuming that the good people of the county of Wayne are as well acquainted with her as the people of this city it is an easy matter for us to predict that she will run away with the nomination thumbs down.

Miss Johnson received her teacher training at the University of Virginia State College and the East Carolina Teachers College. She taught school for four years in her home county, resigning this work to engage in war work.

For eighteen months she "saw service" in Washington when she was connected with the Quarter Masters Corps of the War Department, the last six months of her service she was engaged in Liberty Loan work. Her business experience is not, however, limited to the length of her service with the War Department for she has capably filled a number of positions and engaged in doing office work. She is worthy and well-qualified to perform every duty connected with the office of Register of Deeds, practically all work in such offices is done by a woman anyway.

We understand that Miss Johnson will have three opponents in the race for the nomination and they are all mighty men, but none of them are regarded more highly, we feel, than Miss Johnson whose efficient services in the local schools has endeared her to scholars and patrons alike.

WHITFIELD DENIES HE'S OUT OF RACE; SO DOES WILLIAMS

Two Candidates Insist That Grape Vine Reports in Error

SEVEN CANDIDATES MAKE STATEMENTS

The telephone buzzed unusually loud in the News office yesterday afternoon when the man at the other end of the wire asked to talk to "anybody who can take a statement and take it quick."

"Please say for me," came over the wire from Clinton, "that I am in this congressional race until June third. No one is authorized to withdraw me and when I get out I will give it all the publicity it needs." Thus spoke Captain Fitzhugh Whitfield.

Hardly had the receiver been hung up at the other end of the line before he walked Hampton D. Williams, the philosophical candidate from Duplin, who was at the other end of it when he was withdrawing from the race for Congress?" he demanded of the office force.

Still Very Much In It "Man alive," he shouted, "I'm in this race and I am going to win. Just say for me that I'm running for all I'm worth and when the voting is over there are going to be some surprises."

Notwithstanding persistent reports that both these gentlemen were to retire from the race, and rumors that their retirement would follow closely upon the heels of the withdrawal of Rivers D. Johnson, both yesterday entered most vigorous protests to the statement.

And the campaign with seven running went merrily on. The indigna with which two gentlemen resented the publication of a report that they might withdraw is seconded in comprehensiveness only by the optimistic statements of the seven candidates concerning the status of their respective campaigns.

What the Seven Are Saying As printed in some of the district papers a few days ago, the various candidates have said with reference to their candidacy:

Charles L. Abernethy "I am confident that I will be elected congressman from the third con-

WAKE FOREST AGREES AND WOOLEN IS GIVEN ASSURANCE OF CROWD

Local Alumni Offers Expense Guarantee And Entertainment

BATTLE TO BE PLAYED EARLY IN OCTOBER

An almost irrefutable argument for playing the annual Carolina-Wake Forest griddon classic in Goldsboro this fall, probably the first week in October, has just been forwarded to Graduate Manager of Athletics, Charles T. Wagon, of the University. Local alumni of Wake Forest, with the co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce, previously secured the agreement of the Wake Forest team to play the game here.

An effort was made to get this game here last year but the Goldsboro "bid" was too late and the drive to get it for this year has been well under way for some time. A few days ago S. F. Teague, chairman of the Carolina alumni for Wake, received a letter from Graduate Manager Woollen asking, particularly if Goldsboro's civic organizations would meet the expense of the two teams by a guarantee and requesting certain information about the grounds, train schedules and entertainment.

In reply to these questions, the information has been furnished in a letter sent a few days ago by Leslie Wolf, Ben F. Aycock (of Fremont) and Dr. Teague. It follows:

Your favor of the 24th inst. asking for certain information about the availability of Goldsboro as a place to stage the Carolina Wake Forest football game this fall, and specifically in answer to the three questions asked, the committee begs to submit the following information:

1. The grounds we have to play a football game on is ideal as to topography, being level. It is in the Wayne County Fair Ground and has a grand stand seating 2500 people, the bottom seat of which is 150 feet from the side line. We would be willing to build bleachers on the opposite end of the griddon bleachers seating 1000 to 1500. This would make the ground suitable as a place to play both from the standpoint of players and spectators.

2. The Chamber of Commerce, University Wayne County Alumni Association and the Wake Forest Alumni Association will be willing to guarantee the expense money of both teams, and the above organizations and the entire city will boost the game and advertise it and do all in their power to get a big crowd. The Algonquin Club will give a dance or some other entertainment and make the stay of both players and visitors pleasant.

3. The game ought to draw from Raleigh and intermediate points on the west; from Tarboro, Rocky Mount, Wilson and Greenville on the north; from New Bern and Kinston and intermediate points on the east and from Wilmington and Fayetteville and intermediate points on the south, both by train and automobile, as the train schedule, hereto attached, is convenient, and as good roads make it possible for one to leave home in any of the towns mentioned, except Wilmington, after dinner and reach here in time for the game and return home before bed time the same day. The population of the territory within 50 miles of Goldsboro is about 300,000. Such towns as the following are within 50 miles of Goldsboro: Tarboro with a population of 4568; Rocky Mount 12,742; Wilson 10,612; Greenville 5772; New Bern 12,198; Kinston 9771; Fayetteville 8877; Raleigh 24,418 and Goldsboro 17,296; there are the towns of 1000 to 3000 population as follows: Clayton, Smithfield, Selma, Dunn, Clinton, Warsaw Mount Olive La Grange, Fremont, Elm City, Keely, Enfield, Farmville and Snow Hill not to name the thickly settled country in this section. We can reasonably expect 2000 to 3500 people, and if the weather is good and the rivalry keen more.

The University alumni are more than 100 strong in Wayne county. The Wake Forest following is also strong. No college team plays either football or baseball east of Raleigh, while Greensboro, Winston Salem and Charlotte get games from some of the colleges and the University each year both in football and baseball. Eastern North Carolina deserves a game of football in the fall and a baseball in the spring. The University alumni are determined to get one of each if pulling and begging will do any good.

The Wayne County Alumni of the University and the Wake Forest College Alumni of Wayne County think that Goldsboro is the logical place to play the 1922 Carolina Wake Forest football game, and therefore, such association has appointed a committee to request the athletic committee of their respective alma mater to play the game here. The Wake Forest College Athletic Committee, we understand, have
