Odd Name for Legislature.

The first legislature of the state of California is known in the political history of that commonwealth as "the Legislature of a Thousand Drinks." There are various theories as to how it earned this sobriquet, the most popular being that it is simply an allusion to the well-known tendency exhibited by the early Californians to get in the habit of everything from a mode of entertaining potential constituents to a balm for the defeated candidate.

But the term probably originated not from this drinking custom, but from a man named Green, who conducted a saloon near the state house in San Jose, where the body met. When the legislature adjourned it was his custom to meet the lawmakers at the door and call out, "Come on, boys, let's take a thousand drinks!"

police force gets many unusual calls, but today it was forced to perform one of the most peculiar duties in its history, when bluecoats had to use moral persuasion on 58 third-class passengers on the President Adams, who had held that vessel up for seven hours in the harbor, by refusing to go to Hoffman's Island for delousing.

When examining doctors at Quarantine ordered 11 passengers, found to be vermin-infested, to go off the ship, only ten answered the call. Then the authorities said that all the third-class passengers would have to be taken to Hoffman's Island. This announcement caused the 429 third-class passengers to break into debating society groups, with the result that a group of 58 who said they were American citizens, refused to budge unless the first-class passengers were taken along.

For seven hours the debate continued with increasing warmth until Captain Pendlebury sent an S. O. S. call to the harbor police, which was answered by the patrol boat Manhattan, loaded with bluecoats. A phalanx of policemen with drawn rifles approached the hold-outs and talked to them earnestly. For a while the air was filled with all the well-known varieties of oral arguments, but the policemen had their way and finally the third-class passengers were loaded on a cutter which took them and their coodle pals to the coastly graveyard.

The President Adams was from London, Cherbourg and Queenstown.

INFANT DRIVER ESCAPES.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 21.—Releasing the brake of an automobile, as it was parked on a steep hill in Ogden street, Clayton, the two-year-old son of R. Woodrow Wilson, of Uniontown, had a wild joy ride down a grade 300 feet long. The car was almost completely demolished, but the little fellow escaped virtually unharmed.

Just as Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were ready to return home in their automobile Clayton, who had seen his father manipulate the brake of the car, was placed in the front seat while the good-bys were being said. He sat once took a healthy kick at the wheel and away started the machine. When the car reached the foot of the hill it turned into the driveway of the Third Ward School yard, went across the lawn and smashed into the building.

The two-year-old "driver" was thrown from the front seat into the bottom of the automobile, but managed to escape with only a few scratches, showing no other ill effects from his wild ride. The mother of the baby really suffered from shock more than he did from his injuries.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 1/8 cent, under overnight selling pressure. Liverpool was a little better than expected, while local traders commented upon the near eastern news as more cheerful, but active months sold about 8 to 13 points net lower during the early trading. NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 21.—Better cables than due caused a rise to 2 to 7 points on the strongest months in the cotton market during the first call today, but immediately after better weather over the belt and an unfavorable construction of foreign news depressed the trading positions until they were 11 to 17 points under the close of yesterday. October rose to 20.45 and fell back to 20.22. At the end of the first hour of business prices were back at about the level of yesterday's close on cablegrams from Paris to local brokers concerns to the effect that peace prospects were brighter.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Wheat had a downward tendency in price today during the early dealings, Liverpool and Winnipeg quotations having gone lower and no word of any actual fighting at the Dardanelles being at hand. Moderate export business on this side of the Atlantic did a good deal also to check bullish sentiment. Active profit-taking was noticeable. The opening, which ranged from half cent decline to 1-8 cent advance, was followed by a material setback all around and then a moderate rally.

Corn and oats eased down with wheat. After opening quarter cent off to 1-8 cent up, corn underwent a general decline.

Oats started 1-8 cent lower to a like advance, and later weakened in all deliveries.

Provisions were firmer.

STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Bullish operations were resumed at the opening of the stock market today in independent steel and oil shares, but confused movements took place in other parts of the list. Standard Oil of New Jersey opened more than a point higher and soon extended its gain to nearly 2 1/2 points. Associated oil was pushed up 1-4 and Mexican Petroleum one. Gains of a point each were recorded by Midvale, Crucible, Republic and Gulf Steel. Point gains in Beech Nut and Child Copper brought them to new high levels for the year. Atlantic Coast Line dropped two points and substantial fractional recessions took place in Union Pacific, Atchafalpa and Norfolk and Western. New York Air Brake and Caden also were quite reactionary.

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., Sept. 21.—Motorists who imbibe too freely in intoxicating liquor and try to drive an automobile at the same time are going to be dealt with sternly in Bucks county," said Judge Ryan today as he sentenced three motorists to pay fines of $100 and costs after they had pleaded guilty. "If you cannot stop drinking, stop driving an automobile," said the Court to one defendant.

"There Ain't No Such Animal"

Name ten merchant princes who never advertised. No?

Then name nine. Six? Two? One?

Why, what is the meaning of this?

Simply that "There ain't no such animal." Great commercial successes since the dawn of history have been erected largely by advertising, of one sort or another.
