

Whirlwind Drive Lifts Town to New Heights in Civic Unity

MONUMENT TO CIVIC PRIDE

A shining example of civic pride may be found in Bedford.

That little city, nestling in the hills of southern Indiana, is fast gaining national fame through its civic progress. Bedford is the center of a new movement. The increasing number of transients, some of them quarry night-workers and others purchasers of building stones, made a new hotel desirable. So by popular subscription a half million dollars was raised in one week for the erection of the new Greystones, America's finest hundred room hotel.

Then Bedford's civic pride demanded a new gymnasium. Hooster sport fans stirred themselves for the contest. Business men, high school students, and mothers joined into the campaign. Eighty thousand dollars was raised in forty-eight hours. And today Bedford has a newly-completed gymnasium, unsurpassed in the mid-South. It combines every modern gym convenience. The spacious structure, artistically designed by Dunlap & Co., Indianapolis architects, is of Indiana limestone, the material used in thousands of the nation's outstanding buildings. Fifty-five hundred fans have been comfortably seated in the vast structure and, incidentally, have called themselves home as the opposing gridirators matched skill for high honors.

that he wanted his boys to have a greater advantage in education than was permitted the boys when he was of school age.

Mrs. J. D. Daniels voiced her hearty approval of the programme for educational advancement, and stated that she was ready to give her full aid to the proposed bond issue.

Dr. C. F. Stromider congratulated the board upon their decision to provide a sinking fund for the retirement of the bonds at their maturity, stating that he did not think bonds should ever be issued without this wise provision.

Dr. T. B. Henderson made a brief, but splendid talk about the value of education, and the short-sightedness of becoming too materialistic in the consideration of self-costs.

Dr. Zeno Wall, introduced by Capt. O'Berry as being a preacher who is interested in all the vital things of civic life, spoke of the disappointment he had when he first compared the educational buildings of the city with the industrial and professional buildings and congratulated the board upon the splendid progress that has been made within the past few years.

Chas. A. Brown compared the advantages he had had with the advantage that every child is entitled to and stated that he always expected to be found behind any movement that men enlarge facilities for the boys and girls.

Joe Rosenthal analyzed the tax rate and demonstrated what it would mean in dollars and cents to the taxpayer.

Capt. A. O. Clement gave his hearty endorsement to the proposition.

Col. Jos. E. Robinson, whose reputation as a lover of our schools is known to every one, spoke convincingly in favor of the bond issue.

A. T. Griffin urged a continued effort to bring to the attention of the people the facts about our schools and the present needs. He stated that if anything the board was subject to criticism for what they had not done rather than what they had done, and that if they had made any mistakes, so had anybody else that had accomplished anything.

T. A. Henly referred to the fact that the Junior Order had last night given the board of trustees a full vote of confidence and endorsed the programme, thus living up to their established policy of support to our schools.

Miss Gertrude Well and Miss Beulah Clayton also made short talks in support of the proposition.

GETS UNFAVORABLE REPORT

RALEIGH, Feb. 13.—The house today received an unfavorable report on the bill introduced by Representative Matthews, of Mecklenburg, which was designed to allow the collection of 8 per cent interest where this was agreed to in writing, in special contracts. Defending the introduction of the bill, Mr. Matthews stated that it was intended to keep brokers from charging more than 8 per cent in "commissions" or "brokerage fees."

Although there was an unfavorable report, there was also a minority report, which means the measure can be brought up for discussion on the floor of the house.

The young negro was given a preliminary hearing, and bound over to the recorder's court. His case will be heard next Monday.

Messrs. Nichols and Dany's stated that most of the stolen cars they found had been defaced of number, and in most cases they were ground away with an emery wheel, but with the process they were using, they were always able to reproduce the numbers, as the numbers were placed on the engine base while the metal was hot, and the numbers were of a different metal and as soon as the preparation was applied the numbers were almost as plain as before they were ground down with the emery wheel.

Georgia Lady, Who Had Lost Too Much Weight, Was Advised to Take Cardui and is Now Well.

Columbus, Ga.—Mrs. George S. Hunter, of this city, writes:
"After I married, thirteen months ago, I suffered with dreadful pains in my sides during... My side hurt so bad it nearly killed me. I had to go to bed and stay some time two weeks at a time. I could not work and I just dragged around the house."
"I got very thin—I went from 135 pounds down to less than 100. My mother had had been a user of Cardui and she knew what a good medicine it was for this trouble, so she told me to get some and take it. I sent to the store after it and before I had taken the first bottle I began to improve."
"My side hurt less and I began to improve in health. The Cardui acted like a fine tonic and I do not feel like the same person. I am so much better. I am now 115 pounds and I have gained ten pounds and am still gaining. My side does not trouble me at all."
"I wish every suffering woman knew about Cardui."

A PRODIGAL SON

(A Short Story Written by BERTHA LANCASTER of the Goldsboro City School)

I knew Sunny was looking on the night life of Greysville, and I hadn't the heart to interrupt; still I never knew it would come to this, but let me get on with the story. Sunny, being the only child of the Grays, meaning me and his Pa, with a niece of ours thrown in for good measure constituted the Gray family. So when I heard Sunny was traveling with the night owls, I just looked back upon my young days, and sighed.

At breakfast this morning I noticed Sunny looked a bit dispirited, so to relieve his feelings and keep his papa from suspecting, I threw a few words of sympathy, and he said, "I'm not feeling so well, are you Sunny?" I threw him.

He grabs at it instantly. "No, I'm not sleeping well," he lets out fully.

"Needs to do more work," he says, "how about coming down and looking after the office this morning?"

"The greases, and I feel relieved. Wash the piece, she says nothing but it looks could bring she'd given him away then, and there.

"Going to the sale?" Pa asked me and Sarah.

The most popular thing you can do in Greysville to attend every sale, whether houses or land.

"No, I yawn," not today I've got to do a little of the family washing, you can't put it all off on the laundry and think it'll keep its buttons or colors."

Pa mumbles something, reaches for a toothbrush and comes by for the daily peck on my cheek, while Sunny goes out for the little bus.

Sarah answered the telephone, and from what I get its name of the girl friends called up about the sale, so when she yells, from the hall, "Aunt Meg I'm going over to Lips, and we're going to the sale," I'm surprised.

I look out the window and slip on sweater and rolled hose are making a busy exit.

I had just finished hanging up Sarah's crossword hose, and looked over the fence to see Mrs. Margot Walters headed my way. I smiled as I knew Margot was the early edition of Greysville's news "Have you heard?" is usually the way she begins, but this time she actually looked fearful. I am beginning to wonder who has kicked off, and how, when she lets out; "Oh, Mrs. Gray it's awful!" and stops. I am thinking of some way to help her on, knowing now Mrs. Jackson has poisoned that lazy husband of hers or when she continues, "Three houses were robbed last night, right here in Greysville, and just think they took every speck of silver, jewelry and everything they could take off."

"Oh" I kinda breathes disappointed like.

She doesn't pay any attention but goes on, and I say I can tell you who took every bit of it, it was that young set that stays up all night, dancing, drinking and playing cards, out at Danny's road house," and before I could come to Sunny's defense knowing full well that's why she told me, the old thing had gathered her belongings and made for the street.

When the boy threw the paper on the porch I was waiting, and sure enough there it was, robbers enter houses on Bartlett street. I read it through with a queer feeling, not because of Sunny as I knew he was innocent, as no child of mine would ever be clever enough to do anything

Curtis B. Moore pledged his hearty support to the proposition, stating

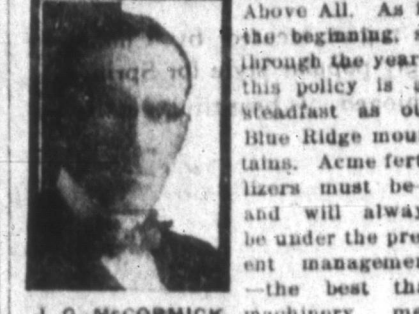

FLAG OF HONOR NAILED TO MAST

For Forty Years, A Hero's Concern, Has Fought For the Farmer's Interest.

By J. G. McCORMICK

When William Greiner began the manufacture of fertilizers forty-two years ago, he determined upon a policy of plain quality.

Above All. As it is the beginning, so through the years this policy is a steadfast as our Blue Ridge mountains. Acme fertilizers must be and will always be abreast of the times in composition and in meeting the demands of changing conditions.

J. G. McCORMICK, Sec. and Treas.

The ingredients of Acme formulae are selected from the best from all over the world. They are manipulated under the supervision of skilful men by the most modern machinery, and in a fine, newly-built plant, Acme's formulae are prepared out by experts in accordance with the latest and most scientific thought and methods. Acme fertilizers are abreast of the times in composition and in meeting the demands of changing conditions.

Every bar of Acme tells the legions within. Every formulae is an "open book." We are not ashamed of anything that goes into Acme—we are proud of the ingredients. We know they are right, and when a farmer pays his good money for Acme fertilizer he is assured of getting value received.

Above explains why the Acme Manufacturing Company has been an outstanding success, why it has progressed and gained thousands of pleased steady customers in the Carolinas. With an honest policy of manufacturing and open and above board treatment of customers, this company has remained an independent home concern; has met the competition of big moneyed competitors.

If you have never used Acme fertilizer, get in touch with one of our dealers before you arrange for your season's supply, or write us. Get the complete facts about Acme—then give it a trial. See the difference in results. You will be pleased with this old, reliable brand.

A. B. Hudson and Sons, Danson, N. C., is a letter to us state:

"We want to say that we have been using and selling Acme fertilizer for the past ten years and we have always obtained the very best results from the use of your brands. We have a good list of satisfied customers. We think it the best to use and sell."

If you have any particular fertilizer problems, I will consider it a pleasure to go over them with you, if you will write me care of the Acme Manufacturing Company, Wilmington, N. C.

For Mayor

TO THE VOTERS OF THE CITY OF GOLDSBORO

After due consideration and a careful survey of the situation I am a candidate for Mayor of the City of Goldsboro to be voted on in the coming Democratic primary. In making this my formal announcement I wish to say I desire to enter and conduct this important race in such a manner that I can come out with the same feeling towards my fellow candidates as I enter—elected or defeated.

I would suggest, too, a first, second and third choice in the first primary and thus possibly avoid the expense of a second primary. I have no promises to make before election, and offer you my record as a citizen of fourteen years with you in making your selection for this important office.

Respectfully,
T. A. HENLEY.
