Bryan will be there, and Darrow ill be there, and many others lesser r greater lights, depending upon how on look at the question, and the hole facial process will begin. People who continually strive to bring into conflict science and religion do not have enough of either to spare. It is a pitiful speciacle. Many people fearing a nameless something, they know not what seek to escape by shutting their ears to everything that savors of the confict and go about with their eyes closed and their ears deaf to all ideas. That is to go to a desert island or on an Artic expedition.

The importance of the Scopes trial from the standpoint of both science and religion has been grossly exaggerated. The country has a microscope instead of a telescope turned upon the events at Dayton and the result is something that is both false and artificial.

The constitutional qualities of the law will be tested. That is the sole and only excuse for the trial. And
