ARROUNCEMENT. He who believes it is child's play to make a newspaper needs only a little experience to merease his wisdom. The four years we have given to newspaper work have been filled with the barder work of our life.

The time has come when to make so weekly newspaper one man's labor may well be applied to preparing matter for its columns. The business interests of the paper cannor also be hept at white heat by him who has this work to do. So many and so exacting are the duties now resting upon therone editor that the business demarkment of the paper is two weeks or more behind. It is necessary to employ, temperarily if not permanently, es of another man.

We believe we have happily secured the right man for this work and feel ne ordinary pleasure in announcing Mr. Will Y. Watren as our local reporter and business manager. He will go late harness next Monday morning and ence his work of soliciting and collecting subscriptions, receiving ordera for advertising and job work, and taking all the news he can hear of. edy well and favorably known to the Gustonia public, we bespeak for him a cordial reception in his new capacity by the public at large, and fract our seaders will throw all the besiness they can across his path.

If the sound money sentiment abroad in the land will save us from mischief and disas er it must be crystalized and combined and made immediately active. It is dangerous to overlook the fact that a vast numb of our people with acant opportunity thus far to examine the question in all its aspects, have nevertheless been in-geniously pressed with specious sug-gestions which, in this time of mis-fortune and dissension, found willing The minister, it is to be regretted, will lose something over a mouth's salary. Correspondent Wynne says he likes the listeners to give credence to any scheme listeners to give credence to any scheme which is plausibly prescribed as a remedy for their unfortunate condition. What is now more needed than anything else is a plain and simple prescriation of the argument in favor of sound money. In other words, it is a time for the American people to rescon together as members of a great nation which can promise them. The early divulgence saves some trouble as well as subary. The South's Wost Permidable Wesper in Decreased Acrenge-The Fear of It Working Good. Therioste Observer, 16th.

NEW YORK, April 15-There had come into sight up to Friday last in-clusive, according to the Financial Chronicle, 9,343,348 bales against 6,-Chronicle, 9,363,326 bales against 0,569,322 the same date last year and 6,113,634 in 1806, but the visible supply at the weekly reported interior points and United States purts last Friday was only 983,350 against 838,488 last year, 1,007,002 in 1898. In other words while the amount brought into sight is 2,474,068 more than last year there is only of this excess 103, 863 left in this country. What is more surprising is, that while there has been brought into sight 3,120,444 more than two years ago there is an actual deficit in the visible supply in this country as compared with 1893 of 75,252.

The fear of decreased acronge is having its effect, and it is the most for-midable weapon the South can make use of in assisting to a higher plane of values. Cottou production in America can be made one of the greatest and most legitimate monupolities of the age by confluing the production to 7.000. oy contains the production to 7,000,-000 for a few years, with a consequent diversifying of crops and more atten-tion to mechanical and industrial pur-suits and enterprises. The New Emgland Cotton Manufactu pers' Visit South.

urers' fleepril. The recent visit of a few of the foremost cotton manufacturers of New England to the South is a matter of more than ordinary interest. These gentlemen, representing some of the oldest, largest and most prosperous ootton manufacturing companies of the North, went South purely on a ful personal investigation of the gen eral conditions surrounding the manufacture of cotton. They were not there in any official capacity, nor were they in any way whatever connected with the discussion of labor questions which resulted in the recent visit of the Massachusetts legislative committee. In fact, the plans for this trip were matured long before the legislative committee had thought of grang South. These gentlemen had in view the study of the South's general advantages rather than those of specific localities. They wanted to see for themselves the character of help employed in Southern with all the second s ployed in Southern mills, all the con ditions surrounding labor and every-thing else that would enable them to form an accurate judgment us to the form an accurate jadgment us to the wisdom of New England people making large lovestments in Southern cotton alils. It is gratifying to be able to say that after a careful investigation of many untils in the Carolinas and Georgia, every member of the New England party was greatly impressed with the operatives in Southern mills. They freely admitted that they were and with anding that Southern mill operatives were, as a general thing, so bright, quick and in-telligent, and also that all of the mills appearance of comfort and couventence for the operatives.

A half century ago New England mills had native American help, many of the operatives being from the fami-lies of farmers. With the growth of the towns and cities and th to towns and cires and the increase in employment, American help gradually turned to other work, and it became necessary to fall back upon foreigners as mill operatives. The majority of the operatives in New England mills of the product of the product of the product of the increase of land mills at present are French Canadana. To say that New England mill help is better than Southern would simply be to say that the lower class simply be to say that the lower classes of foreigners are more intelligent and more quick-witted than the native. American. One prominent New England gentleman (not of this party, however,) recently expressed it by saying that, having passed through the war as an officer, and realizing the shifty, the energy and the courage of the Southern soldier, and especially of thousands from the mountain districts. the Southern soldier, and especially of thousands from the mountain districts of the South with whom he especially and to deal, he had always been got vinced that their children must be of more than average ability, and he was satisfied that they would prove, when put to the test, to be the very boat possible operatives in manufacturing oterprises.

As already stated, this trip was not with a view to selecting any particular locality for cotton milis, but was mere y designed as a general tour of in wee tigation. It was intended that if the results of these investigations proved entirely satisfactory, that then the men who want to build mills would men who want to build mile have expert investigations made as to the most desirable sites.

The Manufacturers' Record believes that the result of this trip will prove of very great value to the South. It has given some of the leading men of New England a clearer insight into the South and Its business conditions than they have ever had before. What vantages and attractions will natural by for some weeks to some form the subject of innumerable private dis-cussions as well us of newspaper talk throughout New England.
