Burke County Extension Homemakers Club members are cooperating with Department of Public Welfare homemakers and caseworkers on an elder citizen project.

Mrs. Jane C. Arndt, home economics Extension agent, says.

Extension members are providing various types of needles, threads, yarns, materials and patterns needed for different handwork skills.

They are also offering individual help in learning to sew, crochet, knit, hook, quilt and similar techniques.

Mrs. J. T. Satterwhite, Extension County Council President, states, "Last year our club members concentrated on working with young homemakers and brides. This year we want to continue this, but we also wish to do something for our elder citizens. They are an important part of our community and we get so much pleasure from working with them."

Attending an Extension Homemakers sewing class this winter has really paid off for Mrs. Helen Poole of Robbins Community, Moore County.

UPCHURCH OPEN HOUSE - A steady stream of visitors, totaling several hundred, filed through the cafeteria for a cup of refreshing punch as they toured the eight buildings at Upchurch School last Wednesday night. It took both students and teachers to get everyone served. The buildings were spotlessly clean and teachers were at their posts in their home room to converse with parents who came by.

One way to help a home shed its weary winter look is by using dyes to freshen or change the color of curtains made of vinyl plastic - which has a special affinity for dye. This takes only 10 to 15 minutes of actual work, plus easy-to-use dyes which put no strain on any budget.

Before refurbishing vinyl window or shower curtains, make sure that they are sewn instead of glued together. Next, wash with warm soap and detergent suds and rinses - either in a bathtub, deep wash tub or washer. This is essential to remove soil which would prevent the dye from "taking" evenly.

Then follow directions on the dye package as to the correct quantity and procedure.

Dyeing will renew and perk up the original color of vinyl plastic curtains, or will cover the old color with a new one. And don't overlook the exciting possibilities of dyeing color on color. Suppose there is a light blue design on a white background. Use pink dye, and presto! - a flower-fresh lilac and pink print.

After dyeing, rinse the tinted curtains carefully and either wipe each piece dry on both sides or hang it to drip dry.

Local Business

The role of the free newspaper is misrepresented perennially by politicians who lose elections. Many supporters of former Vice President Humphrey trace his defeat to a "biased" press.

Often the distorted picture is deliberate, because experienced public officials know better. They know that the press attempts to be as fair as possible in its news columns. But a public which does not always understand the various functions of its newspaper may be misled by half-truths.

Traditionally, the free editor reserves the right to express his own opinion in editorials. The "stand" of the newspaper is judged by editorial expressions.

Yet, in news sections, and in letters to the editor, more space is often given to an opposing viewpoint. In spite of victories during the Roosevelt and Truman elections, Democrats attacked the press. Supporters of Mr. Goldwater have given similar vent to their frustrations.

Both parties, unwittingly, have commended the press. For, as every editor knows, new columns have far more to do with the formation of opinion than editorial expression.

Like the advertiser, the politician presents his offerings. Newspapers give space worth billions of dollars to opposing sides. Before a campaign ends the American voter is saturated with information about major candidates.

Mrs. Ava Mintz, Liberty, Rt. 2, discovered a unique way to pay for draperies in her new home. Each time the Alamance County homemaker received a silver quarter or dime in change she put it into a bag. Her children also added to the collection.

When Mrs. Mintz moved into her new house, she carried the bag of coins to the store and purchased draperies for all but one room. Mrs. Rachel K. Kinlaw, home economics Extension agent, relates.

Homemakers continue to look for ways to cut down on the weekly grocery bill.

In addition to making a shopping list, comparing prices and trying various other dollar stretching techniques, a group of Durham County homemakers noticed a decrease in their grocery costs after they started shopping alone.

The homemakers observed that their husbands had a tendency to pick up foods they liked whether these items were on a shopping list or not. Also, the men were impatient when it came to comparative buying.

According to Mrs. Mary J. Whitmore, assistant home economics Extension agent, "one homemaker says she noticed a decline of at least 15 per cent on her monthly bill after she went shopping alone."
