HINT - Mildew stains are not a summer problem if treated properly.

In order to prevent permanent mildew stains, Anna Peele, the assistant home extension agent, has the following tips:

- Remove mildew stains as soon as they are discovered, time permits the fabric to rot and weaken.
- Brush off surface growth outdoors, sun and dry thoroughly.
- To remove mildew stains use lemon juice, salt, and the sun as a bleach. Moisten the stain with lemon juice and salt and spread in the sun, rinse thoroughly then dry. Use with caution on colored fabrics.
- Diluted household chlorine bleach can also be used to remove mildew stains. Dip the stain into the solution and rinse thoroughly. Colored fabrics should be pretested for color change. Never use a chlorine bleach on silk or wool.
- Nonwashable articles with mildew stains should be dry cleaned.

Lane - Brock Couple Married Saturday At Ephesus Baptist Church

Larue C. Brock of Raeford, and William Robert Lane, Jr., of High Point, were married at 3 p.m. on Saturday, June 18, at Ephesus Baptist Church. Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. C.C. Ansley.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hunter S. Carroll of Raeford. The bridegroom is the son of William R. Lane, Sr. of High Point, and the late Mozelle Hester Lane.

A program of nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Darrell Garner, organist, and vocalists, Miss Julie Frazier and Don R. Brock, son of the bride, who sang "The Twelfth of Never," "Let It Be Me," and "The Wedding Prayer."

The church decor included palms and standing arrangements of yellow roses with bronze and yellow mums, gladioli and carnations interspersed with babies' breath. The center arch candelabrum of yellow tapers was flanked by two spiral candelabra. A double kneeling bench entwined with ivy was used for the benediction.

Escorted by her son, Marion D. Brock, the bride wore a formal gown of ivory Quiana featuring long sleeves and a sweetheart neckline trimmed with Venice lace. The high back swept into a chapel-length train. Her fingertip mantilla of illusion was trimmed with matching lace.

The bride carried a cascade bouquet of ivory cymbidium orchids, yellow roses, and babies' breath. For something old, she carried an ivory Irish linen handkerchief, belonging to her paternal grandmother.

Serving as her mother's matron of honor was Carolyn Walsh of Pasadena, Texas. She wore a sleeveless formal gown of ivory batiste with a burgandy floral and butterfly print. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and bronze and yellow carnations, pompons and daisies.

Flower girl was Miss Dana Sue Hagins of Raeford, niece of the bride. Her formal gown was of white pique, featuring a ruffled hemline and yellow sash. She carried a basket of yellow and bronze daisies and pompons with yellow streamers.

Ring bearer was the bride's grandson, David Walsh of Pasadena, Texas. He carried a white satin pillow trimmed with lace and accented by a pair of yellow gold wedding bands.

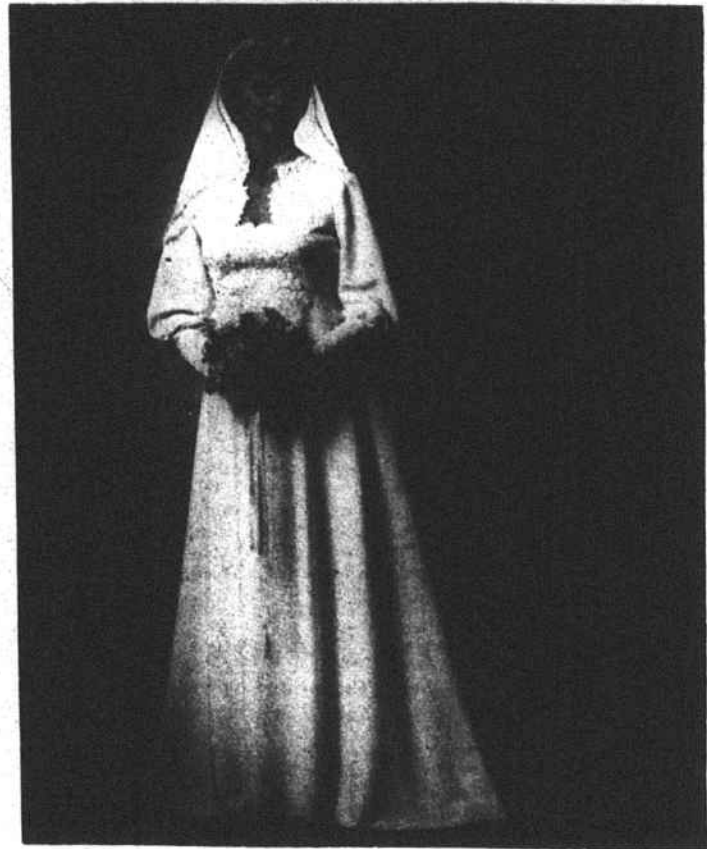

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Bill R. Hagins of Greensboro, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Wade Hendrix of Charlotte, sister of the bride. They wore dresses identical to that of the honor attendant and carried matching bouquets. All attendants wore headpieces of flowers matching their bouquets.

Bill R. Hagins of Greensboro served as best man. Ushers were Tim Lane of High Point and Mark Lane of Greensboro, both sons of the bridegroom, Lanny Joe Shock of Pasadena, Texas and Gary Hagins of Greensboro. They wore boutonnières of yellow roses.

The mother of the bride chose for her daughter's wedding a street-length dress of sage green knit. Her corsage was of cymbidium orchids.

The maternal grandmother of the bridegroom wore a street-length dress of blue and white floral silk. Her corsage was also of cymbidium orchids.

For travel the bride was attired in a navy and white slack suit with
