Rangerettes To Hold Drawing April 3

MISS RANGERETTE -- Lisa Usher is Miss Rangerette for 1982. She is shown with Woodmen of the World local field representative Carson Davis. Miss Usher was selected in November for the honor.

Saturday, April 3 at 6 p.m. The Rangerette Unit 1404 of Raeford will hold a drawing for a raffle of $200 worth of groceries.

The tickets are $1 each. To obtain a ticket for the raffle one may purchase one from any of the Rangerettes, Patti Lunsford, WOW field representative, or Clyde Register, Manager of the A&P.

The girls are trying to raise money in order to purchase a bus for their transportation.

They have already achieved a great many of their goals of a growing organization for the youths of the community.

'Tax Clinic' Starts Monday

A "Tax Clinic" on state and federal taxations of individuals will be held every Monday through March 8, starting February 8, from 10 a.m. to noon, at the Hoke County Public Library.

The teacher will be Ray Graichen of Pinehurst, a retired CPA. Students not pre-registered may register at the library, for a fee of $9.54. People over 65 will be admitted without charge.

The classes will cover: state and local economics February 8; property taxes February 15; personal income tax February 22; gift tax March 1; and inheritance/estate tax March 8.

March Of Dimes Telethon

On February 6 and 7 WKFT TV 40 will telecast Fayetteville's first Telethon for the Cape Fear Chapter, March of Dimes.

It will begin at 11 p.m. Saturday and conclude at 6 p.m. Sunday. Wesley Eure of "Days of Our Lives" will host several segments. His co-hosts will include local personalities such as Bobby McLamb, Peggy Townsend and Randy Jenkins of WFNC.

Out of town talent will include The Pilgrims from the Grand Old Opry Nashville, Tenn., and The Music Express.

For more information, call the March of Dimes office at 483-3691.

Background Scripture?
John 4: 7-26
Devotional Reading—
Psalms 96: 1-9.

Of course the Samaritan woman by Jacob's well at Sychar didn't realize to whom she was speaking. Nevertheless, we can hardly escape the feeling that she missed the opportunity of a lifetime. Confronted by the man whom she was later to recognize as God's Messiah, instead of asking a truly profound and troubling question, she contented herself with a question that was trite and insignificant: "our father worshipped on this mountain (Mt. Gerezim); and you say that in Jerusalem is the place where men ought to worship" (John 4: 20).

It was not a unique issue: for centuries the Jews and the Samaritans had carried on this dispute. The right place to worship, said the Samaritans, is Mt. Gerezim. Certainly not, retorted the Jews, God's Holy City is Jerusalem and only Jerusalem. In a sense the dispute could be likened to two small children protesting, "My mountain is better than your mountain!" Recognizing that Jesus was possibly a prophet, the woman was curious to see how he would settle this ancient dispute.

To us today the whole dispute sounds silly. Indeed! Whose mountain is the "right" one? How ridiculous! Yet, at the same time, the question has a contemporary ring to it and, if we substitute the word "church" for "mountain," the question can be as embarrassing to us as it should have been to the Samaritan woman. Oh, we may not state it so plainly as "Which church is the right church?" but we raise it nevertheless. Or, perhaps, we assume we know the answer: "My church is better (or "truer," "more Biblical," "more holy," etc.) than yours."

Layman Beecher was a famous preacher in New England during the 18th century. It is told that he became very disturbed when a somewhat unorthodox (in his judgment, at least) church was begun in the same neighborhood as his. His judgment against the neighboring congregation was that it taught "false doctrine." Thus, when one day the church burned to the ground, on the following Sunday in his sermon, Beecher declared that the fire was God's judgment of the church's false doctrine.

Before the week had ended, however, Beecher's church burned down too!

We need to let Christ tell us again what he said to the Samaritan woman when she asked her silly "which mountain?" question: "The hour is coming, and now is, when the true worshippers will worship the father in spirit and truth" (John 4: 23). The true worshipper is the one who doesn't worry about "which mountain?" or argue over "which doctrine;" but knows that "God is spirit" and thus worships him "in spirit and truth" alone.
