Hoke People Honored As Volunteers

The Hoke County Citizens Affairs Committee of the Governor's Office of Citizen Affairs for North Carolina announced the following individuals and groups as winners for Hoke County.

-Individual Human Service Volunteer - Mrs. Sarah Howard. Mrs. Howard has given many hours of her time in service to Moore Memorial Hospital.

-Individual Community Volunteer Leader - Chris Watkins. Chris Watkins has given Raeford and Hoke County Community many musical, cultural, and inspirational opportunities for service.

-Administrator/Coordinator of Volunteers - Mrs. Kay Thomas. Mrs. Thomas has served on many committees taking the leadership necessary to see that these committees functioned and were successful.

-Youth Volunteer - Miss Tammy Hendrix. Miss Hendrix has been very active giving of her time in church, school, and other groups as a volunteer.

-Senior Citizen Volunteer - James Hubbard. Hubbard has given many hours of volunteer work with Social Service, directing the efforts of others in carrying out many of the programs.

-School Volunteer - Miss Teresa Pickett. Miss Pickett has given much of her time in volunteer school work. She has held many areas of responsibility.

-Community Volunteer Organizations - Raeford Women's Club. The club has sponsored "Child to Camp Program" for underprivileged children, "Share a Christmas" and promoted "Individual Volunteerism" in the Raeford Women's Club.

-Church/Religious Volunteer Group - United Methodist Women of Raeford United Methodist Church. The United Methodist Women has volunteered many hours of work and financial to the Hoke County Reading/Literacy Program.

-Business/Industry Volunteer Involvement - Burlington Industries. Burlington has given land to provide the means for furthering Hoke County's positive efforts to improve its recreational facilities. Volunteers for leadership also come from the ranks of the employees of Burlington Industries, which help to make the various projects successful.

Ashwell Harward, chairman of the Governor's Affairs Committee for Hoke County, stated that a time later on would be set by the Governor's Office to recognize these individuals selected.

These individuals selected are to be congratulated for the fine and outstanding job by volunteering their services. This is what makes Hoke County a better place in which to live.

With Raeford Plant

Phillips Has 30 Years

Alton V. Phillips recently completed 30 years continuous service with the Raeford Plant of Burlington Industries.

He began working in the Weave Department as a cleaner and later was promoted to weaver. For the last four years, Phillips has served as a warp changer.

Upon completion of 30 years, he was given a diamond pin and a Cross pen and pencil set.

HOKE COUNTY'S WATER SUPPLY

On January 11, I had an opportunity to attend the kick-off program of Hoke County NC 2000, chaired by Mrs. Betsy Ann McNeill.

The entire program pointed out the excellent foresight needed by adequately planning for Hoke County's future.

I would like to emphasize in this article that portion of the NC 2000 Program presented by Robert Gatlin which again brought to the attention of all present a feasible way of providing an additional water source in Hoke County. This water source could be used for recreation, municipal and industrial water supply. The area proposed is north of Raeford along Nicholson Creek, which could be developed into a 300 acre lake.

As I look at our agriculture, industrial development, and the development of communities it becomes quite evident that water use and water quality is a very timely subject for Hoke County citizens to seriously address.

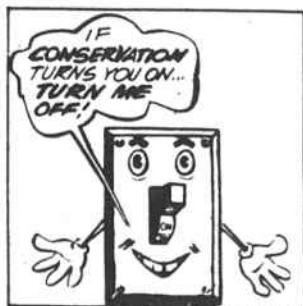

He said cities have to be prepared to share water sources.

B. EVERETT JORDAN LAKE

On May 1, the B. Everett Jordan Lake was formally dedicated. One of the project's major intended benefits is municipal and industrial water supply. The Office of Water Resources, in the Department of Natural Resources and Community Development, has prepared a booklet describing for local governments the physical availability and cost of water supply from Jordan Lake.

The Jordan Lake is larger and will serve a greater area than what is proposed north of Raeford on Nicholson Creek. However, the need for Hoke County is just as evident as for Wake and counties adjacent to the Jordan Lake. The proposal presented by Mr. Gatlin appeared to have been well thought out and a plan that should receive the attention of such groups as the Rural Development Panel, Recreation Commission, Industrial Development Commission, and persons responsible for city and county planning.

On behalf of the Agricultural Extension Service, I certainly support the kind of long range planning shown in this kick-off meeting of NC 2000 and pledge the support of the Hoke County staff and the resources of N.C. State and A. & T. State Universities in accomplishing the goals set as a result of these plans.

GOVERNOR'S COMMENT ON WATER

Gov. James B. Hunt, Jr., and three former North Carolina governors, Dan K. Moore, Robert W. Scott, and James E. Holshouser, said in a recent one-hour television program that water resources were among the state's greatest needs for the future. The governors were participating in a program moderated by UNC President William C. Friday to look at needs for the 21st Century.

Moore, Governor from 1965 to 1969, said there's a need for planning future water supplies and environmental protection. "The present national administration is not as concerned as it should be about the water and air problems", he said.

Speaking also about the water issue, former Governor Scott said the state should begin to designate areas for future reservoirs and to protect them from development.
