Miss Niven, Mr. Daniel Speak Wedding Vows In Georgia

Lisa Renee Niven and Dennis James Daniel pledged their marriage vows before family and friends on September fourth at two o'clock in Fayette Presbyterian Church in Fayetteville, Georgia. Reverend David R. Black officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride, daughter of MSG (Ret.) and Mrs. Julius J. Niven, Jr. of Summerville, South Carolina, is a graduate of Summerville High School. She will continue her education in Columbia, South Carolina this fall.

The groom, son of Mrs. Robert L. Luikens of Spring, Texas and James S. Daniel of Stockbridge, Georgia, is a graduate of Clayton Christian School in Morrow, Georgia. He is now serving in the United States Army at Fort Jackson, South Carolina.

A program of traditional nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Thelma Walden, organist. After an introductory message from David F. Gillette, Miss Mary Spearman sang "The Lord's Prayer". She sang "Whither Thou Goest" later in the ceremony.

A white fifteen-branch arch of lighted tapers with a spray of silk roses, chrysanthemums, daisies, and Queen Anne lace in pale shades of peach, blue, coral, and yellow set the background for the offering table on which the cross was flanked by the open family Bible and the keepsake wedding candle and two spiral tapers which the couple used to signify their union. A pair of similarly-adorned seven-branched candelabra stood at the ends of the offering table. White bows marked the family pews.

Escorted by her father, and given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a formal gown which featured a modified-empire bodice of re-embroidered Alencon lace with Queen Anne neckline edged with seed pearls. The A-line skirt and cathedral train of white organza were encircled with a re-embroidered Alencon lace hemline. The skirt featured a large triangular motif of the lace at the front. Motifs of the same lace formed the lower portion of the long, tapered organza sleeves and were scattered on the skirt and train of the gown. Her fingertip illusion veil was attached to a Camelot cap of silk venise lace beaded in pearl. Her only ornaments were a gold-and-diamond pendant, a past gift from the groom, and diamond earrings borrowed from the groom's mother. She carried an S-shaped arrangement of Sonia roses, rosebuds, tiger lilies, apple blossoms, and field flowers in her selected colors with stephanotis and fern which was attached to a white lace cover on the Bible the groom gave her in 1979.

The bride was attended by Miss Robin R. Black of Albemarle, North Carolina as maid of honor; Miss Lorie L. Luikens, step-sister of the groom, of Houston, Texas as bridesmaid; and Miss Angela D. Tarleton, cousin of the bride, of Virginia Beach, Virginia as junior bridesmaid. Each wore an empire-waisted gown of smoke blue Georgette over matching coup de ville with scoop neckline, capelet sleeves, and A-line skirt. The maid of honor and bridesmaid carried white lace fans enhanced by roses, rosebuds, apple blossoms, and field flowers in the bride's colors with cascading blue and white lace ribbon. The junior bridesmaid carried a natural wicker basket filled with rosebuds, daisies, apple blossoms, and field flowers of the same colors with the same cascading blue and white lace ribbon. They each wore a floral comb.

James S. Daniel served as his son's best man. Groomsman were David J. Niven, brother of the bride; Rodney S. Daniel, brother of the groom; Scott W. Evans of Morrow, Georgia; and Robert A. Hurst, Jr. of Ellenwood, Georgia.

The groom was attired in an oxford gray cutaway with black and gray striped trousers, pearl gray vest, and silk ascot with wing collar. The best man and groomsman were similarly attired with oxford gray strollers and four-in-hand ties. The father of the bride and the groom's step-father wore similar stroller attire.

The mother of the bride wore a cocktail-length dress of slate gray coup-de-ville designed and made for the occasion. A handkerchief-style cape covered the bodice; and skirt's hemline and two overlays were of like design.

The groom's mother selected a street-length dress of brocade gray-blue with high ruffled collar and long sleeves. The groom's step-mother chose a street-length dress in mauve-colored ribbed shadow stripe with blouson bodice and dropped-shoulder sleeves.

Honored guests were Mrs. Julius Niven of Aberdeen, North Carolina and A.M. (Mac) Tarleton of Summerville, South Carolina, grandparents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Maner of Rex, Georgia and Mr. and Mrs. Syl P. Daniel of Forest Park, Georgia, grandparents of the groom. Mrs. Dorothy M. Tarleton of Fort Pierce, Florida, grandmother of the bride, was remembered with flowers and a cassette recording of the wedding ceremony.

The parents of the bride entertained guests with a reception after the wedding ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church. Guests were received by the bridal couple, their mothers, and the bride's attendants. Mrs. Julius Niven, grandmother of the bride, presided at the Bride's Book. Angela Tarleton, cousin of the bride, presented each guest with a scroll containing a verse adapted from I Corinthians 13.

Tables for the reception were covered with white satin cloths overlaid with white lace. The refreshment table featured two silver candelabra, each of which held a center arrangement of silk roses, chrysanthemums, daisies and Queen Anne lace in the bride's chosen colors surrounded by four pale blue tapers. The four-tiered wedding cake trimmed with pale pink, blue, and yellow forget-me-nots was topped by a pair of white doves amid flowers of the bride's colors. Mrs. Berder G. Niven, great-aunt of the bride, was assisted in serving the cake and other refreshments by Mrs. Mac Tarleton, Jr. and Mrs. Steve Butler, aunts of the bride. Along with wedding cake, the guests enjoyed puff pastries filled with chicken salad and ham salad, cheese straws, mixed nuts, and mixed fruit from a decorative fruit bowl. Punch was served from a flower-trimmed fountain.

As the couple departed for a honeymoon trip to Jekyll Island, Georgia, they were showered with rice tossed from blue, yellow, pink, and white satin rosebuds each guest received as a remembrance from the bride. For travel, the bride wore a linen sundress with light gray skirt and white bodice with a matching gray jacket. The couple will return September 14 to make their home in Hopkins, South Carolina.

After the reception, Mr. and Mrs. James Daniel entertained at their home with a cocktail hour for friends and family members of the bridal couple.

After the rehearsal Friday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Luikens hosted a pool party for the wedding party and relatives at the home of the groom's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. J.M. Coody of Fayetteville, Georgia. Guests enjoyed a meal of grilled beef brisket, potato salad, baked beans, Brunswick stew, and assorted relishes. Before the groom's cake was served, the bride and groom remembered their attendants with gifts.

Saturday morning, the parents of the bride hosted a breakfast for the wedding party and relatives and friends from out-of-town.
