Storyteller Visits Library

Third and fourth grade students from McLaughlin Elementary School were entertained last Wednesday morning by Carol Walters, librarian and storyteller from Troy.

Mrs. Walters read stories, poems, and told students about interesting books they could find in the public library.

The students were encouraged to visit the Hoke County Public Library and to have their parents get them a library card.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Walters was the guest storyteller for two RIF programs at South Hoke Elementary School.

Wanda Ingram, media specialist at South Hoke, coordinated the program with Elizabeth Burgess.

Mrs. Walters again entertained the second graders with her special talent of making stories and poems come to life.

Movie and television star, "Pancho" (left) from the television series "The Cisco Kid" was in Hoke County Tuesday morning. He is presenting his new book, Tales of The West and Mexican Folklore to Marilyn Semones (right), the Hoke County Director of Instruction. Each library in the school system will receive three copies.

NC State Honors Raeford Students

Two Hoke County residents were among 2,298 students who earned Dean's List honors during the fall semester at North Carolina State University.

Randy Ashburn and Chau M. Tran were honored for maintaining a "B-plus" average or better.

Ashburn is majoring in civil engineering and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A.R. Ashburn of Wright Street in Raeford.

Tran, who is the son of C.V. Tran and C.H. Huynh of West Fifth Avenue in Raeford, is a physical mathematics and science major.

Students from 96 North Carolina counties, 32 other states outside of North Carolina, and 20 foreign countries were among the students to achieve the honor. NCSU's enrollment is more than 22,500.

To make the Dean's List, students must earn an academic average of 3.25 or higher if they are carrying 15 or more hours, or 3.5 or better if they are carrying 12 to 14 hours.

E. Carolina Honors Hoke Co. Students

Four Hoke County residents were among students earning academic honors at East Carolina University during the fall.

Linda Rose Sizemore of Rt. 3 Raeford was named to the "most elite of honors" by making all A's.

David Earl Conoly, Carl Purcell, both of Raeford and Sally L. Maxwell of Shannon were named to the honor roll.

The honor roll includes students with a B average and no grade below C.

Raeford Pair Receive Honors

Susan Ashley Jones and Kevin Wayne Markham, both of Raeford, have been named to the Dean's List at University of North Carolina at Wilmington for the fall semester 1983.

To qualify for academic distinction of UNCW, students carrying 12 to 14 hours must earn a quality point average of 3.5 or better with no grade lower than a B. Students carrying 15 or more hours must earn a 3.2 average with no grade less than B.

Drinking Mothers Should Be Aware Fetus Problems

The President and congress of the United States have proclaimed the week of January 15-21 as Fetal Alcohol Syndrome Awareness Week.

This week is meant to bring national attention to a serious health hazard for pregnant women and those likely to become pregnant.

Excessive use of alcohol by women during pregnancy can result in a series of abnormalities in the newborn infant, called, the Fetal Alcohol Syndrome (FAS).

About one in 750 babies or between three and 6,000 babies per year are born with FAS.

Infants born with FAS usually have lower birth weight, physical defects, mental defects, growth disorders or any combination of these.

The National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism has said the women who are pregnant or likely to become pregnant should be aware that drinking may have an effect on their baby.

Since safe drinking levels are unknown, pregnant women and those likely to become pregnant should discuss their drinking habits and the potential dangers with their physicians or contact Ed Hamblin, a Substance Abuse Counselor at Sandhills Center, at 875-8156.
