

Sentences Given For DWI's

A Hoke man and an out-of-towner were given suspended sentences during district court last week for driving while impaired (DWI) charges.

Louis Edward Dockery plead guilty to a DWI charge and was given a one-year suspended sentence on that charge.

Reports show that Dockery had been convicted on a prior DWI charge.

In addition to the suspended sentence, Judge Pate ordered the defendant to spend seven days confined to the Hoke Jail.

Dockery is scheduled to serve his sentence over the next two to three weekends.

Judge Pate also instructed the defendant to enroll and complete the alcohol and drug abuse school within 90 days and pay a $200 fine and court cost in the action.

A second DWI conviction was brought against an Illinois man who plead guilty to that charge during the last district court session.

Gilbert Garcia received a 60-day suspended sentence on that charge and was ordered not to operate a motor vehicle for the next month.

Judge Pate also instructed the defendant to pay a $100 fine and court cost.

A second Hoke resident was given a 90-day suspended sentence after he plead guilty to striking another person in the head with a pipe.

David Icenhour of Lumber Bridge plead guilty to the assault with a deadly weapon charge and received a one-year suspended sentence-with unsupervised probation.

Judge Pate also instructed the defendant to pay a $75 fine and court cost.

Icenhour was also ordered to pay $30 in restitution to the victim.

In further action, Ricky L. Jones of Fayetteville plead guilty to "intentionally" causing a public disturbance at the House of Raeford turkey plant.

Jones, who apparently threatened violence and refused to leave the premises, was given a 90-day suspended sentence with one year of unsupervised probation.

Judge Pate also instructed the defendant to pay a $100 fine and court cost in the action.

Irene P. Martin of Charlotte plead guilty to speeding (69-55) and was given a prayer for judgement upon payment of the court cost.

Billy Crider of Fayetteville plead guilty to failing to reduce speed to avoid an accident and was instructed to pay a $10 fine and court cost.

Jonathan Rutschley of Raeford plead guilty to speeding (67-55) and was given a prayer for judgement upon payment of the court cost.

James David Williams of Candor plead guilty to speeding (70-55) and was given a prayer for judgement upon payment of the court cost.

Robert Lee Walker of Hamlet plead guilty to exceeding a safe speed and was given a prayer for judgement upon payment of the court cost.

Younger F. Snead III of Southern Pines plead guilty to speeding (68-55) and was given a prayer for judgement upon payment of the court cost.

David Lee Ross of Fayetteville plead guilty to careless and reckless driving and was given a 30-day suspended sentence and ordered to pay $50 and court cost in the action.

Michael Anthony Priest of Fifth Avenue in Raeford plead guilty to disorderly conduct and was given a 30-day suspended sentence and instructed to pay a $25 fine and court cost in the action.

Brenda Young Lowery of Pine Bluff plead guilty to permitting an unlicensed driver to operate a motor vehicle and was ordered to pay a $25 fine and court cost in the action.

Coldon Harris of Green Street in Raeford plead guilty to appearing intoxicated in a public place and was given a prayer for judgement on the charge "providing" the defendant stay away from the premises of the Raeford Convenient Food Mart.

Autry Arrives For Calif. Duty

Air Force Capt. David A. Autry, son of Annie B. Autry of 210 N. Bethel Road, Raeford, has arrived for duty at George Air Force Base, California.

Autry, chief of the Contracting Division with the 831st Air Division, was previously assigned at Hellenikon Air Base, Greece.

Equipped for a dentist

Once renovations are completed, the new McCain hospital is already equipped for most of these doctors prison hospital will house a dentist, an ear, nose and with dental equipment and surgical supplies just throat specialist, a surgeon and five staff doctors. The waiting to be used.

... McCain Seeks Support

"We are expecting about 15 such inmates. It will be several months before we are equipped for their needs," Lowe said.

Ramps must be added, doors widened and bathrooms reconstructed before the paraplegics and quadriplegics can be housed.

Female and male geriatrics and inmate workers will round out the resident patients housed at McCain.

McCain will staff five doctors, a dentist, an ear, nose and throat specialist and a surgeon.

In addition, the hospital is developing a well-rounded facility complete with lab, X-ray and physical therapy departments as well as a pharmacy and a surgical floor.

"I think we have a top-notch facility," Lowe said.

"We offer everything that can benefit our patients," she added.

Besides hospital activities, McCain patients can use a day room, an exercise yard and a recreation room. Inmates can also join in rehabilitation therapy classes that are offered every day.

"We don't force anyone to take our classes," one McCain employee said.

"Once they try it, most come back a second time," she added.

"They really enjoy it, even the younger patients."

"I am real proud of what has been accomplished," Lowe said.

In addition to the regular hospital, the new facility will "eventually" operate an emergency room.

"We will be able to serve nearby prison units who have inmates that need immediate treatment," Lowe said.

"That will free up local hospitals and their ambulances," she added.

At present, inmates who need medical attention are transported to local hospitals for treatment and kept under guard.

"That will take some of the burden off local hospitals," Lowe said.

Although the McCain superintendent was not sure when an emergency room would be ready to handle patients she did indicate that plans were "in the works."

"Considering everything, I could not be happier," Lowe said.

"Things are going super," she added.

Congratulations to M.H. Gatlin on being selected as the 1983 Citizen of the Year.

Congratulations to Caroline and also her parents. The article follows:

By Bob Andelman

Clearwater--"Who called you?" Caroline Heyward wanted to know.

Your mother telephoned the Times.

"Oh, my mother--my press agent!" said Miss Howard, laughing across the miles during a telephone interview Friday from Los Angeles.

Sound of Sunshine, Sound of Rain, one of three short animated films nominated for an Academy Award Thursday, featured the 31-year-old Miss Heyward, a 1970 Dunedin High School graduate, as director and designer. She is the daughter of William and Sarah Heyward of Clearwater.

"Now I don't feel bad about not making cheerleading," she said Friday in reference to her days at Dunedin High.

"I'm so happy. It was really unexpected...I've been up all night, had one hour's sleep." Miss Heyward was not out celebrating however; she was working on special laser effects for a Texas bank commercial.

The nominated film, produced for schools and libraries as opposed to movie theaters, is about a day in the life of a blind black child, she said. Sound of Sunshine, Sound of Rain was based on a book by Florence Perry Heide about racism and the rites of passage.

"It sort of brings a tear to your eye," Miss Heyward commented. "When I sit next to people watching it, I hit them when they're supposed to cry. I help them along."

The 14½-minute film is up against a Walt Disney cartoon, Mickey's Christmas Carol and

Sundae in New York in its category, animated short film.

"It's funny. This is really a small thing, made on a low budget, low with half an 'I'. The Academy Awards are so big. I don't put the things together."

Sound of Sunshine, Sound of Rain was made for $40,000. Miss Heyward compared that to a relatively cheap, 30-second commercial costing at least $70,000.

Since leaving home, Miss Heyward received a bachelor's degree in university studies from the University of Mexico and a bachelor of fine arts degree from the University of California's Institute of the Arts.

She went on to work for a year at the Hanna-Barbera animation studios working on Saturday morning cartoons ("if you could hold a pencil, they hired you") before finding a niche doing special and animated effects.

Being associated with a nominated film was still such a surprise that Miss Heyward didn't know what its value might be.

"I freelance...Maybe (the nominations is worth) a job," she said with a note of sarcasm.

"To tell you the truth, I really haven't thought about it. First there's the excitement. There are 35 people on the animated shorts (nominating) committee, I was told. They rate the films on a scale of 1 to 10. Any that make 7.5 or better are shown to the entire committee of 200. Only four films made 7.5. (Only three of those were nominated.) Maybe it was a lean year.

"It just happened so fast, I don't know what it's going to do.

"Hopefully," Miss Heyward said, "I'll be able to make more films with more money. I love doing it."
