Lt. Governor welcomed

Hoke County school officials gathered last Thursday at Upchurch Junior High School to welcome North Carolina Lt. Governor Jimmy Green. Green was in Raeford to tour the junior high school and set the "Jimmy Green Program" at work. Green, who arrived around the lunch 9:30 a.m., visited every class, talked with the students and ate lunch with them before leaving. The program, which began this school year, involves 50 seventh-graders who are academically qualified for the program. The program includes vocational training in business machines, computers, carpentry and welding. Upchurch received $32,000 this year for the program. According to Upchurch Principal Allen Edwards, $10,500 of that money has gone for teacher's s salaries with the remainder being used for materials and supplies used in the program. "It is the least restrictive money I have ever had," Edwards said. (Photo by Pam Frederick)

"We may not get all the money we are asking for, but I think we will at least get a portion," Hayes
