

A week of music set as Hobnob kicks off at library

By Elizabeth Burgess

The activities for the Hoke County Heritage Hobnob Arts Festival are set, and the library staff is looking forward to the many events and performances that will be taking place in the Hoke County Public Library.

On Monday evening at 7:30, there will be a Jazz Concert. The Hoke County Public Library Board of Trustees is hosting the reception following the performance.

On Tuesday evening at 7:30, Diane Upchurch Guthrie and Joy Cogswell from Fayetteville, will present a concert. The Chaminade Music Club of Raeford will host the reception following the performance.

On Wednesday Carol Walters, librarian and storyteller from Troy and Paula Larke, musician and dramatist from Winston Salem, will perform for all kindergarten, first, and second graders in the Hoke County School System.

At 11 a.m. there will be a community performance for children and adults.

On Thursday a Blue Grass band from Sanford will perform on the lawn outside the library. Please come at 12:15 p.m. and bring your lawn chair. Sandwiches, potato chips, brownies, and drinks will be catered by Mrs. J.W. Walker.

The sandwich plate will be $1. Come have lunch and enjoy the music while you picnic.

On Friday Olive Jenkins, harpist from Durham, will provide music in the library from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. Come admire the exhibits and listen to beautiful music on Friday.

The Garden Department of the Raeford Woman's Club is providing flowers for the library during the festival week.

Arts and crafts will be on display in the library during the entire week.

These new books were received this week by the Hoke County Public Library, a member of the Sandhill Regional Library System. They are available at the public library and bookmobile in Raeford:
