Hoke Board of Ed sets guidelines for free meals

The Hoke County Board of Education last week announced it's policy for free and reduced price meals for children unable to pay the full price of meals served under the National School Lunch, and/or School Breakfast Programs.

Each school and the central office has a copy of the policy, which may be reviewed by any interested party.

Eligibility will be determined on the following household size and income:

	auu.

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced price meals.

Application forms are being sent to all homes with a letter to parents or guardians. To apply for free or reduced price meals, households should fill out the application and return it to the school.

Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school.

The information provided on the application will be used for the purpose of determining eligibility.

Household income may be verified at any time during the school year by school or other program officials. For the school officials to determine eligibility, the household must provide the following information listed on the application: names of all household members, social security numbers of all adult household members or a statement that the household member does not possess one; total household income; and the signature of an adult household member certifying that the information provided is correct.

Households are required to report increases in household in-come of over $50 per month or $600 per year and decreases in household size.

Household receiving food stams may provide their food stamp case number instead of income information. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year. Under the provisions of the free and reduced price policy the school principals or his designee will review applications and determine eligibility.

If a parent or guardian is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis.

If the parent wishes to make a formal appeal, he may make a re-quest either orally or in writing to Dr. Robert A. Nelson, Superintendent, Hoke County Schools, 310 Wooley Street, Raeford, N.C. 28376 for a hearing to appeal the decision.

The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure. If a household member becomes unemployed or if the household size changes, the family should contact the school.

Such changes may make the children of the household eligible for reduced price meals, or for additional benefits such as free meals if the family income falls at or below the levels shown above.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a household has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals for them, the household should so advise the school on the application.

The information provided by the household is confidential and will be used only for purposes of determining eligibility and verifying data.

In the operation of Child The U.S. Department of Agriculture, no child will be discriminated against because of race, color, sex, national origin, age or handicap.

If any member of a household believes they have been discriminated against, they should write immediately to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Toads in your garden should always be a welcome sight. One toad eats up to 10,000 insects in one summer.

CD scores low

Both Raeford and Hoke scored the maximum 100 points dealing with the consistency with state policy and programs criteria.

According to Craver, there were 1,000 points available for the total application.

Hoke County scored 680 and Raeford received 685 points.

The last project funded, or the one with the least number of points that still received funding, was the Macelesfield project.

That application scored 735 points in the rating and the town received a total of $601,285 for two projects.

According to Craver, there are so staff members from the two Releigh office of the N.C. NRCD that will be traveling to regional offices to set up appointments for examining applications with officials of governmental bodies. "I think most people understand the competitive nature of the grants," said Craver. The Lumber River Council of Governments handled the county's application for the CD funds, while the private consultant Skip Green applied for the city's funds. Hoke County had hoped to rehabilitate housing and drainage in the Tylertown area. Raeford was planning to improve living conditions on Wooley Street.

It was the second year in a row that both governmental bodies have applied for the funds and failed.

Forgotten funds await Hoke County residents

More than $350,000 has been paid to 1,516 people throughout North Carolina as a result of last year's concerted effort to restore unclaimed and abandoned property to its proper owners, State Treasurer Harlan Boyles said.

This year over $1,700 is waiting for 16 Hoke County residents.

In the current year, Boyles said, an even greater efort is being made to return property to its rightful owners.

If the owners cannot be found, the money is invested by the Department of the State Treasurer, and the interest is used to provide educational loans for qualifying North Carolina students in the State's colleges and universities.

By law, lists of owners of unclaimed property are sent each year to each Clerk of Court in the State.

This year, as in past years, local lists are being supplied to newspapers along with a request that they be published as a public service. "I know that people are very grateful when they read in the paper that there is money waiting for them," Boyles asserted, "and our Department is gratified by this help as well." During the past year tion Assistance Authority received $2,488,304 in interest this year for the educational loans.

To get information about unclaimed property, owners are asked to write the Abandoned Property Office, Department of State Treasurer, 325 North Salisbury Street, Raleigh, North Carolina 27611, or call (919) 733-4440.

Six-year-old Tarrina Carpenter was the winner of the pretty red Dr. Pepper go cart that sat atop a display shelf at A&P for awhile. The little win-ner is just about to enter school at J.W. Turlington School. She lives on Lamont Street in Raeford and has three brothers to help her enjoy her new toy. The contest was sponsored by A&P working in conjunction with Coke of Aberdeen.
