the sentence for two years of unsupervised probation.

Bell, 28, was also ordered by the court to pay $80.94 to the phone company as restitution, court records say.

In other court action, a Shannon man is now on probation for manufacturing marijuana.

Winford Jones, also known as Boss Jones, was arrested on August 10 after it was found that he was growing 18 of the illegal plants, records say.

The 55-year-old Jones was given one year in jail suspended for three years unsupervised probation and a $500 fine, according to records.

In another drug related case, Selena Kilman, of Raeford was fined $50 for possession of paraphernalia and possession of marijuana, records say.

The two charges were consolidated for sentencing.

Kilman was charged on August 22, records say.

Lane plead guilty to the charge levied on her on April 28 and received a 60-day suspended sentence and one year unsupervised ed probation and a $100 fine, records say.

Lane received the light sentence because of a previously excellent driving record.

Edgar Malcolm Edge, of Lumber Bridge, was also in court on charges of DWI and transporting an alcoholic beverage in a container other than that made by the manufacturer, records say.

According to records, Edge was arrested on July 13.

Edge received a 90-day suspended sentence, one year unsupervised probation and a $200 fine.

Edge was also ordered by the court not to operate a vehicle on a North Carolina highway for 60 days, records say.

A Shannon man, Dan Locklear, received a 30-day suspended sentence for being drunk and disruptive in a public place and impeding the flow of traffic.

Locklear, 17, was arrested on August 20 and was fined $25 and made to pay the costs of court, records say.

Teddy Paxton, of Raeford, was in court last week charged with threatening to burn down the trailer of Emmett Dressler.

The 28-year-old man received a suspended sentence and probation for one year along with a $100 fine, records say.

Too low?

Not for a crop duster. This pilot was out buzzing fields and ducking telephone wires in the quest to rid farmers of unwanted insects. While crop dusting may not be a very safe job, and insurance for pilots is almost impossible to get, the time saved by a crop duster is worth the effort for some farmers. A plane can spray a field in a matter of minutes.

Guidelines set for health post

By Ed Miller

Steps were taken by the Hoke County Health Board during a specially called meeting Thursday to begin searching for a new Health Services Director.

This move was prompted by last week's resignation of present Health Director Lloyd Horne, who has accepted a finance post at the Cumberland County Mental Health.

Horne, whose resignation is not effective until September 14, was present at the meeting to offer guidance to board members on the hiring procedures.

In a formal motion, the members voted to accept an offer from Horne, who will maintain administrative duties on an hourly basis during evenings and on weekends until a new director can be found.

The agreement is to pay Horne for the time he spends working in this county and to compensate him for travel and other expenses.

Advertisements have been placed announcing the director's position.

State Health Board regulations govern some of the qualifications that were put into the advertisement, Horne said.

According to Horne, to qualify for the position, a person must have a Master's Degree in Health Administration and one year experience or a Master's Degree in any health field and two years experience.

There are a few more options, but the board opted to only consider those applicants with the mentioned qualifications or their equivalency.

Personnel from the State Health Board will be assisting the local board in sorting applications for "paper qualifications" to determine the best five or six applicants to interview, Horne said.

"You will probably get 50 to 60 applications," Horne told the board.

A great number of people will be reached by the advertisement, Horne said adding that the state board will post the position opening in most county health departments around the state.

The board set October 1 as the deadline for receiving applications.

The salary range for the position will be from $20,600 to $25,300, Horne said, adding that the state would not allow them to hire someone under the minimum.

There will be a meeting of the Health Board on October 3 to review the best applications for future interviews.

No bond set in slaying

By Ed Miller

The probable cause hearing for Don Michael Woods, who is charged with killing his estranged wife, has been set for September 27.

Woods was in jail on Tuesday without bond being set, following a ruling by District Court Judge Warren Pate on Thursday.

The 35-year-old Woods was charged and arrested for allegedly shooting Isabelle Henderson Woods to death last week.

According to crime reports, Woods has admitted that the gun went off while he and his wife were struggling.

The Sheriff's Department was alerted that something might have been amiss at Woods' residence when his son told deputies that his father was holding his mother and that he had a gun.

By the time deputies got to the home, Mrs. Woods was dead, reports show.

Cheese giveaway scheduled

The quarterly food commodities distribution of cheese and butter for Hoke County will be held on September 18 from noon until 5 p.m. and on September 19 and 20 from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.

The distribution will occur at the old National Guard Armory.

Food stamp households have received a commodities coupon with the recent mailing of food stamps.

Those households should present that coupon and the white address label card.

The distribution is for Hoke County residents only who either receive foods or qualify under income guidelines.
