Sheep dog demonstration on tap for Highland Games

Dr. Gib McLaughlin of Indiana, Pennsylvania will again put his sheep dogs through their routines as a part of the eighth annual Flora Macdonald Highland Games being held the weekend of October 6 and 7.

Special guest will be Congressman Charles Rose who will deliver a short speech at the opening ceremonies on Saturday, October 6, at 11 a.m.

Climaxing the two-day event will be the 10,000 meter road run, a tug-of-war competition and the take-off of several colorful hot air balloons from the site on Sunday afternoon.

Last year was the first time that Dr. McLaughlin, a dentist by profession, brought his sheep dogs to the Highland Games.

To show how the Highlander depended on his dogs to help care for his sheep, several will be herded by the dogs who follow hand signals and voice commands from Dr. McLaughlin.

Two demonstrations will be given on Saturday and one on Sunday.

A school for prospective Scottish athletes will be held on the site of the Highland Games beginning Friday, October 5, and continuing through Sunday.

All events are open to the public and tickets may be purchased in advance from the Flora Macdonald Highland Games, P.O. Box 547, Red Springs, N.C. 28377.

Tickets purchased in advance are $4 each for adults, good for both days.

Say, man... How are you? How am I? Well, I've seen better days. They keep me locked up in this cage and will not let me out. But, I'm really not dismayed because I know that someone out there wants a cute little dog like me to play with and love. Some of my best friends are people. And, I really like the little people, what do you call them? Children, that's right. I like children. Look. Let's get down to cases. I don't like it here. The food is not so good, and I get lonely. Why can't you come out to the Hoke County Animal Shelter and see me, or some of my friends. They don't like the food either.
