Cookout held

Sabrina Livingston and Richard Warner were honored Saturday, September 15 at a cookout at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holland.

Co-hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Mike McDuffie and Mr. and Mrs. Mackie Lewis.

The dining room was decorated with red and white checked table cloths with fruit baskets for center pieces.

The guests were served hamburgers, baked beans, potato chips and chocolate cake for dessert.

Afterwards the hostesses honored the couple with many gifts.

Leaving but not forgotten

After four and one half years working at the Sandhill Mental Health Center in Raeford, Vicki Haveman is leaving. Haveman, who was in charge of the Center's computer, the receptionist, the secretary and the clerk is moving with her husband to Newport News, Virginia. "I'm going to miss a lot of people in this community," Vicki said.

Symphony coming

Tickets for the Raeford performance of the North Carolina Symphony are now on sale.

The performance is October 4 at 8 p.m. at Upchurch Junior High School.

Buying a ticket gives one membership in the North Carolina Symphony Society. Hoke Board members have tickets for sale and they are available at the Hoke Co. Public Library.

Raeford and Hoke County have the distinction of being the smallest community in North Carolina with such a Symphony program.

The enthusiasm of everyone is essential to help this vibrant program continue.

Junior Woman's Club plans active year of projects

An active year of projects is on tap for members of the Raeford Junior Woman's Club who held their September meeting on Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the Civic Center.

Mrs. Boyce Falls, president, welcomed members back.

The business meeting was opened with a presentation of the budget, made by Mrs. Walter Barnhill, treasurer.

Department projects were next with each department reporting on their various plans for the year.

Home Life will conduct a program with the extension service.

Public Affairs has made arrangements to help the Health Department with a pregnancy health fair on November 27.

The Arts Department will be handling the Arts Festival in January and Education expressed interest in a filmstrip to be used with pre-schoolers on preventing sexual abuse.

All departments will be very active in the coming year.

Ways and Means presented several fund raisers for the clubs.

A Christmas Home Tour was accepted as well as bingo in March.

Also a fashion show featuring fashions from The Gingham Edition will be staged October 27 at the Civic Center.

The club voted to make a donation to the Symphony for its visit to the county.

Those attending the district meeting of NCFWC will be Mrs. Andy Pasternak and Mrs. Boyce Falls.

The meeting was then adjourned. Members were served ice cream cake roll, cookies, nuts and soft drinks.

Warren selected to head Hefner county campaign

David C. Warren, a prominent Hoke County farmer, has been named Chairman of the Bill Hefner for Congress Committee in Hoke County. Warren, who lives at Route 3, Raeford, has been farming for 28 years. He is an active Kiwanian and a member of the Methodist Church. Warren and his wife Anne have three children.

In accepting the Bill Hefner for Congress Chairmanship, Warren said, "My strong support for Bill comes because I know he will look out for the interest of Hoke County."

"In addition," continued Warren, "Bill has done a lot for agriculture while in Congress. For example, he recently brought the U.S. House Agriculture Committee to North Carolina to get input for the 1985 Federal Farm Bill."

"I believe North Carolina has an influential voice in Congress because of Bill's position on the powerful House Appropriations Committee and the House Budget Committee. He also is the Chairman of the Military Construction Subcommittee, which is important to North Carolina military installations."

"Congressman Hefner said it is an honor to have someone of David C. Warren's high quality heading up his Hoke County campaign."
