Rice - Faircloth vows exchanged

A double ring ceremony united Miss Patricia Renee Faircloth and Joe Slade Rice on Saturday, September 8. The Rev. Billy C. Beaver officiated in the First Baptist Church of Raeford.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Faircloth of Raeford. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rice of Conrad, Montana. The church altar was decorated with two spiral candelabra, the unity candle, ferns, palms, and an arrangement of pink shasta daisies, spider mums, white mums and white carnations.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Elga Langdon, pianist. Soloist Kent Locklear sang "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Escorted by her father and given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a wedding gown of taffeta with a basque waist and full, scalloped chapel train. The Queen Anne neck and the long tapered sleeves were embroidered with seed pearls, the bodice featured re-embroidered alencon lace. Her small-brimmed hat and fingertip veil had the same lace. She carried a bouquet of mixed pink silk rosebuds and daisies, which had been made by her mother.

Mrs. Jenny Scarboro, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a mauve taffeta gown with a fitted bodice, spaghetti straps, a softly gathered skirt, and a bolero jacket. She carried an arm bouquet of long-stemmed pink silk lilies. In her hair she wore a garland of rosebuds, lily of the valley and daisies made by her mother.

Bridesmaids wore gowns and headpieces like those of the matron of honor. They were Mrs. Marie McBee of Honolulu, Hawaii, and Mrs. Jane Bowers of Raeford, sisters of the bride. Miss Holly Scarboro, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. They each carried a mixed arrangement of long-stemmed silk flowers.

Miss Tina Faircloth, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a long pink-flowered dress with ruffles at the neckline and skirt and a sash at the waistline.

Lloyd Rice of Conrad, Montana served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Jim Faircloth of Ft. Knox and Jerry Scarboro of Raeford. Junior usher was Paul Nethery of Raeford. The groom and his groomsmen all wore silver grey tuxedos.

The mother of the bride wore blue taffeta. The gown had a ruffled neckline, gathered bodice, and chiffon sleeves and skirt overlay. The mother of the groom wore a pale green gown with an empire waist. Both mothers had corsages of white carnations.

Honored guests were Mrs. Virginia Faircloth, grandmother of the bride, and Fred Riley of Aberdeen.

Mrs. Mary Lee Chalaire directed the wedding.

A reception, given by the parents of the bride, followed the ceremony. In the fellowship hall of the church, a lace covered table held a three-tiered cake. Cake was served by Betty Massey of West End. Punch was poured by Virginia Hayman of Carthage. Kim Bounds of Raeford and Robin Palmerton of West End also helped serve.

After a wedding trip to Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, the couple will live at 901 Wall McLean Road, Raeford.

Putting a halt to allergies

Identifying the substance responsible for an allergic attack is difficult, but it can be done. Ask yourself about the season and the time of day it happens. Summertime attacks are linked to pollen in the air. During damp weather, mold sensitivity reaches its height.

To control mold, change the filters in the air conditioner and keep closets dry. Spray with Lysol. If an attack occurs, antihistamine pills are effective when taking them around the clock without interruption.
