

Teen sexuality session scheduled for Upchurch

By Jodie Willis
Hoke Health Department
 When it comes to talking about sexuality most parents don't...Where does your teen get information about sex? You? Peers? T.V.? Movies? If you feel this information should come from you as a parent come join us October 8 at 7:30 p.m., especially if your child is in the seventh grade at Upchurch.

Upchurch school is going to try a new approach in family life material.

It is an approach that is being tried in many areas in the state.

It is called Postponing Sexual Involvement.

The series is produced by Emory University and Grady Memorial Hospital in Atlanta, Georgia.

The goals of the Postponing Sexual Involvement Series are:

- To help young teens understand the pressures in our society which influence young people's sexual behavior.

- To help young teens understand their rights in social relationships.

- To help young teens deal with pressure situations through the use of assertive responses.

- To help young teens postpone sexual involvement.

- To help parents understand the pressures in our society which influence young people's sexual behavior.

- To give parents tools to help young teens postpone sexual involvement.

In past programs adults thought teens needed to be given an array of alternatives.

Recent research has shown that this is a good teaching technique for older teens, but most 12 to 16 year olds have not developed the cognitive ability to think through alternatives.

So this program is designed for 12 to 16 year olds and teaches how to say "no."

According to the services. Postponing Sexual Involvement, this knowledge and these skills should help young teens deal with problem situations so that they can postpone sexual involvement until a time when they are better able to make decisions which have a long range impact on their lives.

The program also includes an educational series for parents.

The program would not be successful without the parents involvement.

A parents' night for seventh graders at Upchurch Junior High School is scheduled for October 8 at 7:30 p.m.

All other parents of the county are welcomed.

Hendrix honored for 4-H service

Janet L. Hendrix, leader of the Hillcrest 4-H Club received the Outstanding Leaders Award from the Southeast District Leaders Association.

Mrs. Hendrix has served on the 4-H and Youth Committee, the County Council Planning Committee, helped plan District "Area" meeting for volunteer leaders, conducted county leader training session, and attended the Volunteer Leaders Recognition Banquet. Members also gave programs to EFNEP youth at Day Camp, and erected a new 4-H sign in Hoke County.

Mrs. Hendrix attended State

4-H Congress last year along with several members of her club. She has attended junior and senior 4-H Retreats, District Activity Day and 4-H State Council meetings.

Members of her club helped plan, design the scenery and program for the Fashion Revue, helped teach modeling classes, and helped plan and carry out the Volunteer Leaders Recognition Banquet. Members also gave programs to EFNEP youth at Day Camp, and erected a new 4-H sign in Hoke County.

Calloway becomes literacy tutor

Mrs. Doris Calloway, a volunteer tutor with Hoke Reading/Literacy Council has met all requirements of Laubach Literacy Action to become a Senior Tutor.

In making the announcement a spokesperson for the local council said Mrs. Calloway would receive the "Each One Teach One" pin, a Senior Tutor certificate and one year's membership in Laubach Literacy Action.

Mrs. Calloway, an active member of First Baptist Church, received her tutor training in April of this year. She sees tutoring as a means of expanding her mission work.

Recruitment and Training chairman, Anna Jordan, in extending congratulations to the recipient said, "We know that the problems of illiteracy can't be solved overnight. But everytime a tutor receives another certificate we are closer to acquiring the expertise and commitment needed to solve the problem."

Hobnob supper on tap

A Hobnob fund raising barbecue supper is scheduled to be held prior to the homecoming game at Hoke High on October 12.

Funds raised at the supper will go to insure that next year's community festival will be a success, a spokesman for the Hobnob Board of Directors said.

Barbecue, coleslaw, apple crunch and Eddie McNeill's famous hush puppies will be served from 5 p.m. until 8 p.m. and will be available for eating in or taking out.

Plates are $3.50. Tickets for the event will be available at the door, or in advance from the Hoke County Library, Howell Drug, Western Auto and The News-Journal.

Everyone is urged to attend to help make the Hobnob a successful community event.

Scotland Cotton Festival on tap for October 12-13

The First ANNUAL JOHN BLUE COTTON FESTIVAL will be held on Friday, October 12 and Saturday, October 13 on the grounds of the Historical John Blue House in Laurinburg.

The Festival will feature a variety of interesting and enjoyable things for folks of all ages. Old farm skills will be demonstrated, antiques exhibited, a petting farm will feature a variety of animals, a cotton exhibit will be featured, horse and buggy rides, and lots of entertainment. Square dancing, clogging, folk music, gospel music, scottish dancers, bagpipes and the present time fad of break dancing will be featured during the two day event.

A Cotton Craft Contest will be held in conjunction with the Festival and is open to crafters of all ages. The Craft must contain cotton in its natural state, such as cotton burrs and bolls. All entries must be received by 10:00 AM on Saturday October 13. Judging will take place at that time and crafts will be on display the remainder of the day.

Friday, October 12 will be "school day" at the Festival. School groups throughout Scotland County will be bused in all during the day. Other spectators will also be welcome during the 9:00 AM until 2:00 PM day.

The John Blue Cotton Festival is sponsored by Scotland County Parks and Recreation Commission and the Scotland County Schools.

County residents serving on Hunt 'Sportsman Coalition'

Citing Gov. Jim Hunt's "unmatched commitment to protecting our air, land, and water," J. Robert Gordon of Laurinburg announced the formation of the statewide "Sportsmen for Hunt Coalition."

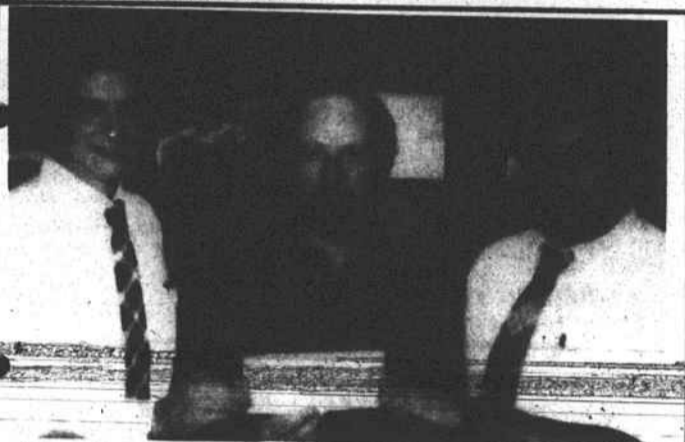

Brownie Hendrix and Clyde Upchurch, both of Raeford, are representing Hoke County on the coalition.

Gordon, a Laurinburg attorney, a member of Ducks Unlimited and the Chairman of the State Wildlife Commission, praised Hunt for his unwavering dedication to protecting and preserving North Carolina's environment during his eight years as Governor. "Jim Hunt deserves credit for reviving the Wildlife Resources Commission, and for getting sportsmen throughout the state involved in managing our natural resources through the Wildlife Advisory Committee," Gordon said.

Gordon said Hunt could be counted on to show the same kind of commitment to sportsmen in the U.S. Senate. "Jim Hunt can be counted on to stand up to the polluters and spoilers and to defend the sportsmen's point of view in Washington," he said.

Gordon also praised Hunt for his staunch support of the constitutional right to bear arms. "As a gun owner, Jim Hunt opposes the registration of firearms. He opposes the licensing of people who purchase and own firearms. He supports hunter education and firearms safety education," he said.

Donation made
 The Burlington Industries Foundation presented a $800 donation to the Hoke County Rescue Squad on September 18. The funds will be used to help purchase a No. 1 crash truck specially equipped to handle serious medical emergencies.
