Giving clues

Hoke County Extension Agent Alice Pettitt gives about 25 participants clues on quick meals during Monday's workshop.

Time saved in RJWC workshop

A demonstration entitled "Quick Meals for Busy Homemakers" was presented Monday night by Alice Pettitt, Home Economics Extension Agent.

The program, presented by the Agricultural Extension Service, in cooperation with the Raeford Junior Woman's Club, gave time saving tips and recipes.

Pettitt told the audience that they can serve delicious, home-cooked meals even when their schedule is busy. The most important thing is planning. An hour spent in planned shopping once a week saves time as well as money, as compared with day to day shopping. Planning meals ahead also enables you to work out more flavorful and more nutritious meals. Contrast of color, flavor and texture should be planned within the menu. The nutritional requirements should be considered when planning meals, also.

Mrs. Pettitt gave several time saving preparation tips and information on freezing foods to use later.

Quick dishes prepared by Pettitt:

Impossible Chicken 'n Broccoli Pie
1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen chopped broccoli

1 1/2 cups cut-up chicken, cooked

Taco Casserole

1-1 1/2 lbs. ground beef
