

...Burglary charged

 Brunson had been out that night to Evan's Center, a local nightclub, and had seen Mrs. Peterson's husband there, he said in the statement.
 When Brunson arrived home, he wanted a cigarette and thought that Peterson must have arrived home because he saw a light on in the house.
 He just walked in, the statement says, and sheriff's reports show nothing concerning evidence of forced entry.

 Mrs. Peterson was alone in the house with five children, reports say.
 When Peterson arrived home, his wife went to a neighbor's house and called the Sheriff's Department, reports say.
 Upon the deputy's arrival, Mr. and Mrs. Peterson were sitting in the living room of the house with Brunson, reports say.

Steadfast
 No matter what happens, this stallion will never move. It is an old hitching post. Hardly anyone uses it anymore, and there is no telling how long it stood in its present position. But it still stands there on its metal pole--stationary--steadfast.
