Couple honored at parties

Mrs. R.C. Waters and Terry Waters honored Miss Catherine Vaughn Angle with a luncheon on Saturday, October 13, at the Waters' home in Durham. A buffet was served in the dining room and the guests enjoyed dining on the sun porch. Dessert was served in the living room as Miss Angle opened her gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Julian Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. John Balfour and Mr. and Mrs. James Warner Jr., honored the couple with a cocktail party at the Johnson home. The table was centered with an arrangement of fall flowers and an assortment of party foods.

Miss Deborah Faye Davis, Mrs. James F. McPhaul and Mrs. William C. Archer were hostesses for a floating shower honoring Miss Angle. Fall flowers were used as decorations. Punch and assorted refreshments were served. The shower was at the McPhaul home.

A steak dinner was given in honor of the couple by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred K. Leach, Dooie Leach, Miss Jenny Leach and Mr. and Mrs. Tim Hunter on Saturday

Nov. 3. The couple was presented a gift.

After the wedding rehearsal, the family of the groom entertained the wedding party and out of town guests at Jack's Barn in Southern Pines. The bride-elect remembered her attendants with a gift and the groom presented his groomsmen with gifts.

The bride and her attendants were entertained at a luncheon given by Mrs. James L. Warner, Mrs. Roy Wood and Mrs. Richard Warner at the home of Mrs. Eddie Baker, on Friday, November 9.

St. Elizabeth celebrates

By Sr. Patricia McColloch
On Monday, November 19, parishioners of St. Elizabeth of Hungary Catholic Church will celebrate their 25th Anniversary.

Joseph F. Gossman, Bishop of the Raleigh Diocese, will be the main celebrant at a 7 p.m. mass. Joining with the parishioners at the service will be clergy, laity, and sisters of the Fayetteville Deanery and ministers of Raeford.

In 1958, four women from Yonkers, New York donated the funds for building a chapel in North Carolina.

Their employer, Walter J. Black, desired to build a church in the South in memory of his dearly beloved mother and have it called St. Elizabeth after her.

However, he died before he could fulfill his dream; therefore, the women saw it only right to donate the church to perpetuate his memory.

Beard named outstanding ECU alumni

John Jackson Beard III, a native of St. Pauls, was recently named an outstanding alumni of East Carolina University. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Beard of St. Pauls.

Beard is an Emmy Award-winning commentator for KNBC-TV in Los Angeles. He received a BFA from ECU in 1975. His Emmy Awards are for a special "Emergency: Learn and Live" and a five-part series "A Few Good Men, and One Small One."

The series was conceived, written and produced by Beard. Last Christmas he flew to Beirut with video-taped holiday greetings for Los Angeles Marines. He brought back a Lebanese infant to its adoptive parents.

His Alumni Award was presented on Homecoming Day at ECU in Greenville. Awards were also presented to Dr. Sheron Keel Sumner (BS '62), Vice-President of the American Home Economics Association, and Phillip Ray Dixon (BSBA '71), a Greenville attorney who is a leader in local political and civic affairs.
