Activities fill book week

By Elizabeth Burgess
Hoke County Librarian
The Hoke County Public Library celebrated Children's Book Week with library tours, story hours, and a special display in the window of McLaughlin Hardware Company. The elementary schools and the public library displayed books, posters, art work, and projects in the McLaughlin store window. We thank Jimmy McPhaul for allowing us to use his window for the display.

We hope that many young readers will come to the public library to check out some of the new books that were on display during Children's Book Week, and we also hope that they will take advantage of the story hours offered at the public library.

A special thank you to Mrs. Sara Maxwell for arranging a special exhibit of her brother-in-law's art work. Earl Park is a most talented artist and we are delighted to have his work on exhibit in the library. If you have not seen the paintings, please do come by the library.
