

Raeford man appealing bat assault conviction

An 18-year-old Raeford man has appealed a six month prison term given him after he was convicted of assaulting another man with a baseball bat, Hoke County District Court records show.

Richard Lee Harris was placed under a $3,000 appeal bond by District Court Judge Warren Pate, according to records.

Harris was issued a warrant in the matter on November 10 of last year, records say.

According to the judgement made against Harris, the man was given a two year sentence but had it suspended for two years of special supervised probation and the six month active sentence, records say.

Harris was also ordered by the court to pay $600 restitution to the victim, John Franklin Davis, according to records.

Another Raeford man, Henry John Prucha, was sentenced to 30 days in jail after he was convicted of trespassing where a prior court order had denied him access, records say.

The 34-year-old man was convicted of "domestic criminal trespassing" after being arrested on December 26, records say.

According to the records, Prucha started his sentence last Friday.

There were 11 cases of driving while impaired heard in Hoke County District Court last week, according to records.

Charles Edward Powell, of Ft. Bragg, was sentenced to serve 14 days in the Hoke County Jail after being convicted of his second offense of DWI, records say.

Powell, 25, was arrested and charged with DWI and driving with his license revoked on November 25 of last year, records say.

Powell was also given a two year suspended sentence, two years on special supervised probation and fined $300, records say.

Another Ft. Bragg man, Thomas Canada, 37, was sentenced to seven days active jail time after being convicted of DWI, records say.

Canada was also sentenced to two years special supervised probation and ordered to pay a fine of $300, according to records.

The November 7 offense was Canada's second, records say.

Norman Clarence McNeill, of Raeford, was found guilty of DWI in court last week and sentenced to two years special supervised probation and placed in jail for seven days, records say.

McNeill was charged on November 17, according to court records.

To accompany the other parts of the sentence, McNeill, 44, was also fined $350, records say.

Mae Jones Blue, of Raeford, was given a seven day active sentence after being convicted of her second offense of DWI, records say.

Blue, 34, was arrested and charged on December 23, records say.

She was placed on special supervised probation for two years and fined $200, say records.

James Edward Hunt, of Raeford, was sentenced to spend three days in the Hoke County Jail to accompany three years of unsupervised probation and a $400 after being convicted of DWI, records say.

Hunt, 54, was arrested on December 16, say records.

Another Raeford man, Charles Edward Johnson, was given a 48 hour jail term after being convicted of leaving the scene of an accident and DWI, records say.

Johnson, 24, was also given two years unsupervised probation and fined $200 for the November 21 offense, records say.

Martin McLauchlin, of Raeford, was sentenced to 60 days suspended for one year unsupervised probation and fined $100 for his

DWI conviction last Thursday, records say.

McLauchlin, 27, was arrested on last Christmas Eve.

Norris Gore, of Ft. Bragg, was given one year unsupervised probation, ordered to serve 24 hours in community service and fined $100 for a DWI conviction, records say.

The 24-year-old was arrested on January 18, records say.
