She also is a graduate of Hoke County High School. To make the dean's list at UNC-G, students must earn a grade point ratio of 3.5 or better and have no grade below a "C" for the semester. Students must be carrying 12 or more semester hours of course work graded on an A, B, C, D, or F basis in order to be eligible for the dean's list. Altogether, 992 UNC-G students out of a total undergraduate enrollment of 7,325 attained the dean's list. UNC-G also has 2,764 graduate students.

Outstanding students have been honored in the annual directory since 1934. Nichols lives on W. Donaldson Avenue, Raeford.

The Dean's Honor Roll recognizes freshmen and sophomores who have earned a minimum grade point average of 3.25 and juniors and seniors who have a grade point average of at least 3.5.

CP&L helping with heating

Ken Witherspoon believes making a donation to the energy-assistance program Project Share is like extending a helping hand directly to your neighbors. "People know exactly where their money is going when they give to the program," said Witherspoon, director of Hoke County's Department of Social Services. Project Share is a program that helps low-income, handicapped and elderly Hoke County citizens pay their winter heating bills, regardless of the fuel they use. It is sponsored by Carolina Power & Light Co. CP&L collects donations from its customers and employees and matches the money dollar-for-dollar up to $150,000. County social services agencies distribute the money to those in need. Recipients must be customers of the utility. "Project Share has come in handy numerous times," Witherspoon said, "especially during the cold snaps we've had." So far this heating season, 30 Hoke County families have been helped through Project Share, Witherspoon said. "It's early March and we can still have some cold weather," he added, reminding Hoke County citizens that they still have time to contribute to the program before the heating season ends. "We've been more than grateful for their contributions so far," Witherspoon said. He called Project Share a good partnership between the private sector and local government. Since CP&L and the local agencies cover all administrative costs of the program, all funds collected go directly to pay heating bills. The matching funds come from the shareholders of CP&L. For more information about the energy-assistance program, visit or call CP&L.
