Hap Hansen
Alvin Timothy "Hap" Hansen, 59, one of the best-known radio personalities in Eastern North Carolina, died Sunday after a long bout with lung cancer.

Hansen, who last year began broadcasting Southern gospel music on his own station - WSMR in Hoke County - hosted an immensely popular all-night country music show, "Interstate 68," for six years while with WPTF in Raleigh.

In 1979, Hansen became farm programming director for WPTF, Channel 28, after co-hosting the Early Bird Farm Show every morning with Johnny Hood. Hansen also had done an early morning TV talk show and was the weatherman on the 6 p.m. news for WPTF-TV.

Hansen bought the 1,000-watt Hoke County radio station in 1984. In an interview, Hansen said: "I belong in Christian radio ... The Lord has finally decided he's going to use me. I want to die doing this. I love radio, and I want the last thing I ever do to be an air shift."

After serving in the Navy during World War II and eight years as a journeyman machinist at the Marine Corps Air Station in Cherry Point, Hansen began his radio career in Jacksonville in 1954 as an announcer for WJNC. Before joining WPTF, Hansen also worked at radio stations in Kinston, Dunn and Benson.

Hansen is survived by his wife, Charlotte Cole Hansen; a son, Bud Hansen of Cary; two daughters, Mrs. Christine Henry of Cary and Mrs. Sandy Jockish of Apex; and four grandchildren. He is also survived by three stepsons, Calvin Cole and Bill Cole of Raleigh and Bobby Cole of Rock Hill.

A funeral was held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at Hayes-Barton Baptist Church. The family received friends at Brown-Wynne Funeral Home, St. Mary's Street, from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday.

In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made to Wake Foundation Inc., 2205 Alexander Road, Raleigh, N.C. 27608.
