

Instructors publish manual to help Sandhills students

There are potential respiratory therapists in Hoke County, perhaps some are already enrolled in classes on the Hoke County campus of Sandhills Community College.

"The respiratory therapy student," notes Dan Grady, Director of Clinical Education in the Sandhills Community College Respiratory Therapy Program, "wants to serve people who are attracted to the medical field, and want to move into a profession that promises employment and income."

In order to help the respiratory therapy student more easily gain proficiency in the techniques of their field, Grady and Program Coordinator Bill Byrtus have recently written and had accepted for publication a lab manual for first-year students.

Unlike existing lab manuals, the Grady/Byrtus text deals with 50 different topics and over 250 procedures with innovative sections on safety and recommended laboratory techniques.

The material in Laboratory Exercise in Respiratory Care was evolved over several years as Grady and Byrtus have worked with students in the Program.

Individuals entering the Respiratory Therapy Program range from the new high school graduate looking for a first career to the older, returning student working toward a first or new career.

The Program is demanding but rewarding thanks to the wide-

Reviewing text

Bill Byrtus, Coordinator of the Respiratory Therapy program at Sandhills Community College and Dan Grady, Program Director of Clinical Education, review the manuscript of their soon-to-be published lab manual, Laboratory Exercises in Respiratory Care.

Grady, who has done the major portion of the writing in this current project, has been a member of the S.C.C. faculty since 1980. Prior to that time he served as Neonatal and Pediatric Supervisor at Duke University Medical Center and Staff Therapist in the Respiratory Therapy Department of Duke University.

Barnhart sworn in at Sandhills

The Sandhills Community College Board of Trustees held its initial meeting for 1985-86 on September 9.

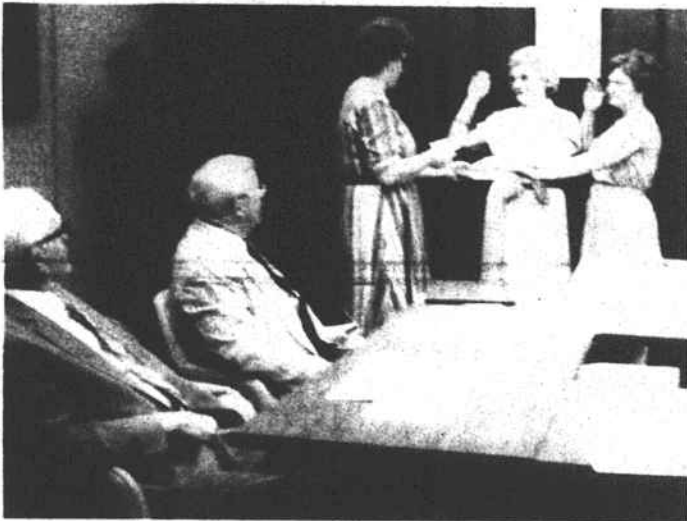

The meeting, preceded by dinner, opened with the swearing in of new board members Evelyn Monroe of Moore County and Elizabeth Barnhart of Hoke County.

Mrs. Monroe, appointed by the Moore County Board of Education, and Mrs. Barnhart, appointed by Governor Martin, joined the Board members in hearing opening remarks by Board Chairman J.E. Causey.

S.C.C. President Raymond Stone nominated Barnhart to serve on the College Foundation through December 31, 1987 and Larry Caddell to serve through December 31, 1989.

Dr. Stone introduced to the Board the new Public Information Officer Sharon Shaw and reviewed names of new faculty and staff members.

The Board reviewed and accepted a revised Personnel Handbook and discussed proposed new buildings for the S.C.C. campus

Bratcher appointed to Center board

Sandhills Center for Mental Health, Mental Retardation, and Substance Abuse Services announced the appointment of Hoke County Commissioner Cleo Bratcher of Raeford to its Area Board.

Bratcher, a native of Hoke County, is a local businessman.

He is also a member of the Hoke County Health Board, a board member of the Hoke County Emergency Medical Services and a member of the Sandhills Youth Center Board.

Bratcher is the Chairman of the Board of Trustees for McLaughlin Chapel A.M.E. Zion Church, where he is also the Sunday School Superintendent.

Bratcher is married and has three children.

Sandhills Center provides mental health, mental retardation, and substance abuse services to the Counties of Anson, Hoke, Montgomery, Moore, and Richmond.

The Area Board, a 16-member volunteer citizen board, is the governing agent of the Center with the responsibility of setting policy and procedures for staff and for service delivery.

The Board, which includes a county commissioner from each county, is composed of several citizens from each of the five counties the center serves.

The Hoke County unit of Sandhills Center is located at 132 West Elwood Avenue.

The phone number is 875-8156.

Carrie Carter Heffney coordinating ABE/GED activities.

New ABE/GED supervisor appointed at Sandhills

Carrie Carter Heffney, named by the State Department of Community Colleges as Outstanding Adult Basic Instructor from Sandhills Community College, has recently assumed the position of Coordinator of the S.C.C. ABE/GED programs for Moore and Hoke Counties.

Mrs. Heffney has served Sandhills Community College for the past 10 years as instructor and supervisor of ABE/GED classes. "I am pleased that these years of experience can be more fully used to promote adult education, an area I take very seriously."

A member of the Marketing Committee at Sandhills Community College and Southern Regional Representative for the state in the Adult Basic Education curriculum, Mrs. Heffney outlines two priorities in her new role: "We must provide strong leadership in curriculum and instruction for our part-time instructors, many of whom have had no previous teaching experience."

Little receives 2nd service medal

CPT Bobby A. Little, son of Ernest and Mary Little of Raeford, received his second Meritorious Service Medal for his performance while instructing in the Army Reserved Officer Training Corps (ROTC) program at the University of Wisconsin-LaCrosse (UW-L).

As a freshman class ROTC instructor, Little was also responsible for recruitment, enrollment and retention of qualified college students training to become U.S. Army officers. Little's classroom skills and personal counseling techniques, as well as his genuine concern for the ROTC students, contributed to a record breaking year for the ROTC program at UW-L.

Capt. Little will be attending Syracuse University in the fall, obtaining a Master's Degree in Journalism.

Black completes ROTC basic camp

Mark E. Black, son of John A. Black of Rural Route 3 and Brenda F. Money of Covington Street, both of Raeford, has completed training in fundamental military skills of the Army ROTC basic camp at Fort Knox, Kentucky.

During the encampment, cadets received training in basic rifle marksmanship, military drill and ceremonies, communications and individual and small unit tactics.
