Hoke students get jump on Dental Health Month

Many K-6 school children throughout Hoke County are getting a head start on Children's Dental Health Month - 1986.

February is traditionally Children's Dental Health Month in North Carolina; however, classroom activities can be completed at the teacher's discretion anytime between September 1985 and February 14, 1986, according to Dr. Michael D. White, Hoke County chairman of the 1985-86 Children's Dental Health Month Committee.

"Rather than focusing on one month in the year, the committee felt that the importance of dental health care could be greater emphasized by increasing the overall time for completing specific activities in the classroom," he continued. "This would also allow teachers to plan more extensive dental health activities and to fit them more easily into their school work plans."

Children's Dental Health Month is sponsored annually by the N.C. Dental Society; the N.C. Department of Public Instruction; the Dental Health Section of the N.C. Department of Human Resources, Division of Health Services; our Raeford Dentists, Dr. Larry Bullard, Dr. Mark Thompson, Dr.

Don Johnson, and Dr. Zack Smith; as well as the Hoke County Health Center.

White said that school principals and teachers decide whether their schools will participate in the dental health activities. Schools that participate may earn points by completing specific activities such as having a dental display, holding a sugar-free snack day, conducting PTA programs related to dental health, and a variety of other events.

Classroom teachers may achieve points for their schools by scheduling dental health activities such as rinsing with fluoride mouthrinse or asking a dentist to talk to the students. Principals, superintendents, and/or administrators may also boost the participating schools' scores by completing suggested activities. However, schoolwide and superintendents' activities must be planned and completed during the two weeks of February 3-14. This will still allow the recognition of February as Children's Dental Health Month.

The N.C. Dental Society will provide a plaque and cash award to schools that achieve 1,200 points or more. District dental societies will present a plaque and cash award to schools achieving 1,000-1,199 points. Schools that achieve 800 points or more will receive a special certificate of appreciation, awarded jointly by the N.C. Dental Society, N.C. Department of Public Instruction, and the Dental Health Section of the Division of Health Services and our Raeford Dentists.

"We're asking our dentists and our dental society to urge schools in their areas to participate and to offer assistance," White stated. "Their support is needed to emphasize to our young people the importance of good dental care."
