Due to the conical shape it produces a different action of the traveler running on the ring. The traveler force is outward and downward with the traveler riding on the top and conical face of the ring, leaving the bottom foot of the traveler free to act as a compensating factor to the yarn. This naturally reduces breakage of the yarn and produces higher quality with increased production and reduced waste.

Ingenious design features built into the Herr Conical Ring provide scientifically controlled lubrication. Oil of the correct physical characteristics is carried from the reservoirs by capillaries to positions on the top surface and conical surface.

The traveler distributes and rides on this microscopic oil film. Its life is increased. Such a small amount of oil is used that clean yarn is maintained and maximum spindle speeds achieved. There is NO REWICKING of the Herr Conical Ring.
