affiliated with regional banks to which the government advances certain sums of money without interest. The regional banks, which are co-operative in character, lend this free money to the local banks at a low rate and they in turn loan to the farmer. These banks are not operated for the purpose of earning dividends, are in many cases safeguarded by the unlimited liability of their members, and furnish the best European illustration of state aided agricultural credit.

Credit Agricole 3 1-2 Per Cent Rate.

Attention has been called in America to the Credit Agricole 3 1-2 per cent interest rate, and it is an actual fact that these banks really loan money to farmers at 3 1-2 per cent, but this is due to a government subsidy and would be looked upon as abnormal from the standpoint of Americans. The government has compelled The Bank of France to furnish it a large sum of money without interest, to be used for the advancement of agriculture, and as outlined in the above brief explanation of the Credit Agricole, the government loans this money to the branches or regional banks free of interest. These regional banks loan to local banks at 3 per cent and in some parts of France the local banks loans to the farmer at 3 1-2 per cent. This system is de plored by many leading bankers in France as tending to develop a false idea of the value of credit and in liable to discontinuation some time in the future. Furthermore, some of the individual banks of the Credit Agricole system occasionally exhaust all of the money that has been allotted to them by the government and in order to continue the extension of credit they are compelled to rediscount farmers' notes with The Bank of France, and as they are loaning to the farmer at 3 1-2 per cent and sometimes rediscounting with The Bank of France at a higher rate. it follows that the more business they do under such conditions the larger amount of money they lose, and this is an unreasonable and unsatisfactory foundation for any system of banking.

This, in condensed form, is the story of farm finance in Europe, and our people here in America cannot do a greater national service than to study carefully and push forward this great question of farm finance, which concerns so directly the financing of the "back to the soil" movement, which in its turn is fundamental and concerns vitally the future prosperity of our nation.

LOCAL No. 1671.

Dear Editor: If you will allow me space in your valuable paper, the Union Farmer, I will tell you what our Local is doing. We organized about three years ago with six members, and at present we have about sixty, but we have a few weak-kneed ones.

We started a store nearly two years ago and now we are doing fine business. We have about seven hundred dollars in the store, and do most of our business through the Business Agent. The store is doing more business than any other store in Grantsboro.

N. F. Dixon is our General Manager and he is well fitted for the business. I take the Carolina Union Farmer and I certainly do enjoy reading it. It is the best paper printed. I wish more of the farmers would subscribe for the Union Farmer.

Hoping to hear from some one else that knows more how to write than I. Grantsboro, N. C. A MEMBER.

The first purpose to which food is devoted is to supply wasting tissues and support of the body. All over that amount goes to the manufacture of eggs, providing the food is not of such a nature as to cause fat.

IN MEMORIAM.

Whereas, it was the will of our heavenly Father to remove from our midst our Brother, J. J. Draper; therefore, be it resolved by the members of the Draper Local:

(1) That while we bow in humble submission to the will of our heavenly Father, we cannot but feel the removal of our beloved brother has left a void which the healing influence of time alone can fill. (2) That we will cherish with melancholy remembrance the virtues of our deceased brother, and that we deeply deplore and sincerely lament the afflictions thus sent to the members of his beloved family

(3) That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes, a copy be sent to the bereaved family and a copy furnished the Carolina Union Farmer for publication. W. P. THROWER,

SPRING CREEK (TENN.), No. 22.

Dear Editor:-Thought I would let you know how this local is getting on. I succeeded in getting several subscribers for your paper and I like it fine. About four months ago I thought our local was dead, but three or four of us kept working and talking and got the interest started up and now the brethren are stronger than ever before and we are on rising ground. We have thirty-four male and twenty-one lady members. A few went back and traded with "skinners" and they took the hide and a little of the meat and they came back home, like the prodigal son, willing to be a hired servant of the Union, rather than remain with the "skinners." We now have a co-operative store house and will have goods in same in a few days. We are going to operate a business of our own and try to live like farmers ought to live, and instead of giving our money to those who do not need it we will keep it at home. We have been organized a little over a year and have saved a good deal on such stuff as the farmers use.
