STOMACH TROUBLE FOR FIVE YEARS

Majority of Friends Thought Mr. Hughes Would Die, But One Helped Him to Recovery.

Pomeroyton, Ky.—In interesting advices from this place, Mr. A. J. Hughes writes as follows: "I was down with stomach trouble for five (5) years, and would have sick headache so bad, at times, that I thought surely I would die. I tried different treatments, but they did not seem to do me any good. I got so bad, I could not eat or sleep, and all my friends, except one, thought I would die. He advised me to try Theford's Black-Draught, and quit taking other medicines. I decided to take his advice, although I did not have any confidence in it. I have now been taking Black-Draught for three months, and it has cured me—haven't had those awful sick headaches since I began using it. I am so thankful for what Black-Draught has done for me." Theford's Black-Draught has been found a very valuable medicine for derangements of the stomach and liver. It is composed of pure, vegetable herbs, and contains no dangerous ingredients, and acts gently, yet surely. It can be freely used by young and old, and should be kept in every family chest. ### ROYAL MUMMIES IN MUSEUM

Once Mighty Kings and Queens of Egypt Now Merely the Subjects of Scientific Examination.

The mummies of some fifty kings and queens now lie side by side in the Cairo museum, a grim reminder of the unstable fabric of earthly glory, remarks the Dundee Advertiser. Professor Elliot Smith is not wholly unmindful of that earthly glory, nor of the violated sentiments involved in thus displaying and cataloging these remnants of royal power. He reminds us that but for the museum authorities these mummies would have been destroyed by robbers, and as a slight return for the protection thus afforded he claims the right of a respectful scientific examination. Indeed, the examination has already been made. Many of the bodies have been carefully unwrapped and so we know for the first time that King Sagnounri, who reigned 2,000 B. C., was murdered, his "battered skull and wounded body" testifying eloquently to that fact. Doubtless the event made quite a stir in its day, but tariff discussion, prize fights and the like have driven it from the modern memory. We know now that Menephtha, the Pharaoh of the exodus, erroneously supposed to have been drowned in the Red sea, was a corpulent man, nearly bald, with a fringe of white hair over the temples.

TO MAKE COAL MINING SAFE

Simple Test for Fire Damp Said to Be the Only That Has So Far Been Put Forward.

One of the simplest of the many suggested tests for firedamp in mines is that described by Henry Briggs to the Scottish Society of Arts. It is an attachment that may be applied to any oil or spirit safety lamp, and consists of a loop of copper wire supported on a brass rod passing through the oil vessel. To make a test the loop is moved into the flame. This becomes instantly non-luminous, but if firedamp is present in the air the gas cap is clearly seen. The test can be made in a moment at any time without turning down or putting out the light.

It is claimed that the percentage of firedamp this method will detect is exceedingly small, and the results of trials on both laboratory and mine go to show that this is one of the most sensitive, accurate and expeditious means of revealing the presence of inflammable gas in mine or other air.

SCHOOL FOR ADULTS.

"People's high schools," as they are called, have been flourishing in Denmark for a long time. In that country there are 70 such schools, with 8,000 pupils, and one school at Askov, in South Jutland, has been in existence since 1863. One-tenth of the population of Denmark, it is estimated, has passed through these schools, which now are given small state subsidies, though there is no state interference with the institution. The schools are not technical or "practical." They seek only to develop minds on broadly cultural lines. There are no examinations for admission or for leaving; much of the instruction is given by lectures, and the teacher is given wide latitude. Norway and Sweden, it may be added, have experimented successfully with similar institutions.

NEW WAY TO MEASURE LAND

Tennesseean Has System of Weighing Which May Yet Be Brought to Perfection.

A Tennesseean has discovered a new way to measure large areas of land. He weighs it—rather, he weighs his map and computes the measurements from the scale records. Louis C. Mathey of Spot, Tenn., writes to Engineering News that he has for thirty-four years been obtaining land areas by the simple process of accurately plotting the survey to scale on good paper, then cutting away the paper outside the boundary with a sharp knife and weighing the folded plot of the tract on a chemist's or jeweler's scale accurately to one sixty-fourth grain.

He sends a sample map of a tract of 16,651 acres, plotted on a scale of 80 rods to the inch on a sheet of 18x24-inch paper which weighed 42 8-32 grains. Engineering News comments:

"While the plan might serve as a rough check on computations, the limit of error in plotting and trimming, as well as in weighing, would make the scheme only applicable where land is of very low value."

But still she doesn't understand it.—Kansas City Star.

NO MONOPOLY OF LOYALTY.
A South side man and his wife, who have no children but who keep a dog, were discussing the fidelity of dumb friends last night, when she said:

"Isn't it remarkable how a dog will love some worthless old fellow, even though he might be a murderer? I can't understand it—it seems as though even a dog would understand what a brute some men are. Some dogs will stick to their masters through anything."

"So will some women," remarked her husband. And he cited a recent Kansas City case to prove it.

BURGLAR WITH KIND HEART

Returns Stolen Money When He Learns for What Purpose It Has Been Saved.

North Carolina, Surry County. C. H. Haynes, ex-Sheriff of the County of Surry, do hereby certify that the following described real estate in said county and state, to-wit: All one hundred and fifty acres of land in Bryan Township, Surry County and listed on tax books in R. J. Smith name, was, on the 2 day of June 1913, duly sold by me, in the manner provided by law, for the delinquent taxes of R. J. Smith for the year 1910 amounting to Three and ten 100 dollars, including interest and penalty thereon and costs allowed by law, when and where S. M. Arnold purchased said real estate at the price of $20.00, he being the best and highest bidder for the same. And I do hereby certify that unless redemption for.

Mayfield added to the fund in the box from day to day, but did not know how much he had deposited. One night a burglar forced his way into the stand and stole the wooden savings bank. Mayfield discovered the theft of his nest egg and told the story of the theft to many persons who stopped to make purchases at the stand. He mourned the theft, he said, chiefly because his vacation was called off.

Then he received a letter, which inclosed $56 in currency and the following note: "I burgled the stand, but I do not want to keep your vacation money. Your Burglar Friend."

"I know now that I had saved up $56," said Mayfield, and now I can take my vacation. I guess the burglar heard my hard-luck story over the counter."—San Francisco Chronicle.
