SUN NEVER SETS

For Over Two Months Old Sol
Never Sinks Behind Horizon, Speaker Says

Featuring a travel talk by Mrs. G. T. Roth, the regular meeting of the Woman's Club held Tuesday afternoon at the Hotel Elkin was one of unusual interest. This followed the routine business and the program opened with a piano solo "For Remembrance" by Ernest Adams, played by Miss Effie Crater. The educational department had charge of the affair. Miss Blanche Dixon introduced Mrs. Roth who prefaced her talk with a statement that it had been her childhood dream to some day visit the North Cape, "The Land of the Midnight Sun". The speaker described the accomplishment of that dream during the past summer. She held her audience in rapt attention while she recounted her travels.

The ocean voyage on a Danish vessel sailing from New York to Norway was made on a perfect ocean, no rough water being encountered even in the far famed North Sea. From Oslo, the capital of Norway a smaller vessel was boarded and the coast line was followed for 1700 miles until North Cape was reached. She explained that this point is as far north of the Arctic Circle as Boston is north of Elkin. When the Arctic Circle was crossed, a gun was fired on board to acquaint the passengers with the exact line.

The party was extremely fortunate in having clear weather to view the strange phenomenon of the sun apparently standing still in a position as it appears to be about half an hour before sunset. This was at midnight and due north of the spectators. To see this view the party was compelled to climb a steep ascent for about two miles and then trudge another mile over the plateau but it was one never to be forgotten.

At this point on the North Cape from the 18th of May to the 28th of July the sun never sinks below the horizon, and there is an equally long night from the 14th of November until the 23rd of January when the sun never rises above the horizon. The land is uninhabited except for the summer weeks.

After returning to the south of Sweden another enjoyable trip was made across the county by canal from Stockholm to Gothenburg. In the course of this journey more locks were encountered than exist in the Panama Canal, there being 16 at one point alone, the boat having to be raised 20 feet in each lock. Rain and wind combined on one of the larger lakes to bring about a genuine case of seasickness.

One of the most interesting spots visited was the island of Gotland, in the Baltic Sea. This capital city of Visby, contains the remains of an ancient city of the Goths dating back to the 10th or 12th century. It is entirely unrestored and contains within the walls the ruins of 17 magnificent churches.

A stop was made at Copenhagen and another at Hamburg where the speaker remarked on the excellent food served. She could well understand why the Germans grow so fat. The trip continued through the Netherlands and Mrs. Roth described the famous home of the Peace Conference at the Hague; also the resort of Scheveningen and the interesting potteries at Delft.

In Belgium a visit was paid to the battlefield of Waterloo but aside from the imposing monument which has been erected to commemorate this historic field there is absolutely nothing except a place where drinks are sold to weary and thirsty travelers.

After two weeks spent in and about Paris, viewing historical Versailles, cathedrals, museums and art galleries, Mrs. Roth fulfilled another dream of her life—that of spending a season at Lucerne. From this as a center she took numerous side trips. Her description of the Jungfrau

Placed To Increase Facilities
of Blanket Making

Increasing their capacity 20 per cent approximately $200,000 worth of new machinery is being installed in the Chatham Manufacturing plants of this city and Winston-Salem.

It is thought that the new equipment will be completely installed by the first of March and will require additional employees. At present more than 700 persons are on the payroll at the local plant.

While many of the mills throughout the country are idle, the Chatham plant has been compelled to continue its day and night forces in turning out huge orders on file.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Chatham Manufacturing Company held Tuesday, Thurmond Chatham was elected president of the organization to succeed his father, the late Hugh Chatham. T. M. Lillard, of this city, was named vice president; A. L. Butler, secretary and H. C. Graham assistant secretary. Mr. Chatham is treasurer of the company.

Russell Hampton and Harley Buellin, local youths are in the Yadkin county jail in default of $1000 bond each following their arrest by United States officer R. C. Brown for violating the federal prohibition law. The boys were taken before U. S. Commissioner J. H. Tharpe and were unable to give the bond and were then sent to jail. The pair was arrested on the Elkin streets Tuesday.

SMALL BLAZE AT THE A. CHATHAM HOME

Fire of undetermined origin caused a small loss at the home of Alex Chatham, president of the Elkin National Bank shortly after 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon when a blaze was discovered on the roof of the home by employees of the Chatham Manufacturing Company.

Because of the snow on the roof and the timely arrival of the fire department the damage was kept to the minimum and was gotten quickly under control.

group of the Swiss Alps presented vivid picture of these snow covered peaks bathed in sunshine and a little later the view she obtained of the Matterhorn, was equally as striking. She saw the first beams of the morning sun touch their jagged, rocky peak and send forth such a rosy glow as to fill her room with light while all about, the mountains below were still in darkness. On another of the side trips the fast express trains traveled 45 minutes through the Simplon tunnel and through still another almost equally as long—the St. Gotthard.

After nine weeks spent in Switzerland she traveled to Cannes in southern France, going from there to Genoa where she boarded the steamer for home. The Mediterranean proved itself quite rough and after calling at Naples, the vessel passed out through Gibraltar, unfortunately at night, and reached the harbor at New York one day late due to the adverse weather.

Elkin 40 Years Ago Got Its Mail But Once a Week and Was Carried on Man's Back

Elkin people who go to the postoffice thrice daily and get their mail from a box, know very little of the hardships of receiving mail as was had here a half century ago and even less.

Mr. A. G. Click and Mr. R. G. Chatham, were recalling this week the days when Rev. James Minniss was postmaster and the mail came here but once a week and was carried on horseback from Salisbury. A crowd always gathered at the postoffice which was then in the store, owned by Chatham Manufacturing Company on the creek, when the mail arrived the postmaster would call out each letter, postcard and parcel and paper to the eager crowd.

For years Frank Day of Jonesville, carried mail from Hamptonville to Elkin, walking the entire distance and carrying the mail which was then scanty, on his back. Oldtimers recall that in the early days, Elkin had two postoffices, one called Elkin Valley postoffice which was located near where the shoe factory is now located and the other the Elkin office near the bridge over the creek on Main street. The Elkin Valley office was not discontinued until the Chatham plant was moved to its new location.

The commissioners aver they will hire out all prisoners whenever possible to make the county a quarter a day and save the board bill.

From eighteen to twenty homes will be built in Arlington Heights alone this year, Mr. Martin stated. Practically all of the homes to be built will be constructed by persons who will live in them themselves although several rental properties will probably be constructed, it is said.

The church building is of frame construction however the flames were prevented from spreading to the auditorium.

FUNERAL RITES HELD SUNDAY FOR CLEMENT HENDREN

THORNS PACK CHURCH TO PAY LAST RESPECT TO
WELL KNOWN YOUTH

ENDED HIS LIFE

Clement Hendren, 20 year old son of Judge and Mrs. J. F. Hendren, who ended his own life by shooting himself through the brain with a 32 calibre revolver last Friday afternoon, was laid to rest in Hollywood Cemetery Sunday afternoon following brief funeral rites at the Elkin Methodist Church. Rev. L. B. Abernethy and Prof. Zeno Dixon conducted the services. Rev. Abernethy read several scripture lessons and the obituary while Prof. Dixon offered a prayer. The choir sang several beautiful numbers. The church edifice was filled to overflowing by friends of the young man who was held in such high regard.

Hardly anything of recent years has shaken the community as the tragedy Friday afternoon. Taking the family car, the youth drove to a lonely place on the old Dobson road a few miles north of Elkin, parked his car to the side of the road and fired a shot from a 32 calibre revolver through his brain. The shot passed just above the right ear passed completely through the head and buried itself in a snow bank twenty feet away. Death was instantaneous.

He had borrowed the revolver from Harold Click, saying that he wanted it to shoot some cats which were molesting his home. Mr. Click states that young Hendren seemed to be in good spirits when he called and the two played a game of pool on Mr. Click's table.

The body was found shortly before four o'clock by two local plumbers Ray Gilliam and Ransom Smith who happened to be passing. The men saw the body in the car and thought the man sleeping but upon second glance saw the blood about the car and investigated and at once called Coroner Lee Snow who pronounced death suicide.

The dead boy had evidently carefully planned the whole tragedy and wrote the following note to his mother:

Dear Mama:
"I'm not as well as I seem to be. In fact I couldn't go back to work at all. So rather than be a burden as an invalid it is best to die. Please try to understand that everyone isn't as brave as you are. It is for the best. My whole life has been full of mistakes. It's goodbye."
Love
Clement

After writing the note the boy carefully folded it, placed a package of cigarettes upon it by his side, lay the pencil with which he had written it by its side and put the gun to his temple and fired. The gun was still in the hand when passersby found the body which was in a sitting posture on the driver's side of the car. The head was bent back over the seat. It is said that young Hendren had worked at the Elkin Furniture plant in the morning and was seen on the streets in the afternoon a short time before the tragedy.

Added grief to the tragedy came because the father is in a hospital at Richmond, Virginia and a sister is at another sanitarium while another brother is in a tuberculosis hospital at Asheville.

Few of the younger people of Elkin were held in so high regard as Clement Hendren. He attended the local schools and later spent some time in the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Honorary pallbearers were close friends of the deceased, John Evans, Robert Kirkman, Ralph Cooke, Glen Evans, Harold Click and Lee Neaves, while the flowerbearers were teachers in the city schools, Misses Elizabeth Anderson, Arlette Puitt, Gertrude Michne, Maria Baird, Bertelle Linberry, Ola Angell, Loline Payne, Emma Cooke, Blanche Dixon and Mesdames D. C. Martin, Fletcher Harris, J. H. Beeson and Hugh Royall.

Surviving are the parents, Judge and Mrs. J. F. Hendren, three sisters Misses Mary, Irene and Frances and four brothers, J. F. Jr., Mayhew, Linville and Thomas.
