LOOKING BACKWARD 12 YEARS

Interesting items from Tribune files of 12 years ago this week.

When the census enumerator comes to your home answer his questions frankly and fully. Remember that everything you tell him is in strict confidence and that he has taken an oath not to divulge any information you may give him.

"Should we not let our light shine as a city set upon a hill?" The people of Elkin are giving liberal support and patronage to its water and light department. In return we would appreciate better lighting facilities for our streets. The present lighting system is wholly inadequate. We have a large surplus of power and the purchase of modern street lighting equipment for the business district would be a splendid investment for our town.

Miss Mattie Reid Doughton and father, Dr. Doughton, of Sparta, passed through Elkin enroute to Washington, where Miss Doughton will enter the Corcoran school of arts.

Mrs. W. F. Weir and daughter, Barbara, left Tuesday for Morven, N. C., to visit Mrs. Weir's uncle, Mr. G. A. Martin. They will spend two months in South Carolina visiting friends and relatives before returning home.

Mr. T. G. Trivette has purchased an interest in the firm of Tucker-Ward Hardware company of Winston-Salem, and will move his family to that city in the near future. Mr. Trivette has a host of friends in this section who are wishing every success in his new enterprise.

The home of Mr. J. W. Mathis, in Jonesville, was completely destroyed by fire about 8 o'clock Monday morning. It is thought the fire was caused by a defective flue. The fire started in the attic and when discovered, the flames were beyond control. Insurance partially covers the loss.

The Woman's Missionary Society met with Mrs. Mason Lillard, at her home on Gwyn Avenue on last Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. There were 19 members present. Interesting papers were read by several of the members, chief among them being one by Mrs. Lillard, entitled, "How I Learned Giving." The society extended a cordial welcome to the new member, Mrs. W. M. Evans. After the regular program, the hostess served sandwiches and coffee. The society adjourned until the next regular meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. R. M. Chatham.

The Sue Tharpe Auxiliary of the First Baptist church, met at the home of Mrs. E. B. Lawrence on Gwyn Avenue Tuesday evening, with seventeen members present. Four new members, Misses Dorothy Hampton, Marguerite Lowery, Martha Maguire and Hattie Norman, were welcomed into the society.

Miss Myrtle Norman was program chairman for the month. The subject of the lesson was "The Church of Tomorrow". Those assisting Miss Norman were Misses Gaynell Phillips, Blendon Byrd, Martha Maguire and Hazel Byrd.

At the conclusion of the program a tempting refreshment course was served.

The stock market axiom seems to be that there is always room at the bottom.—Arkansas Gazette.

CYCLE NEWS

Having just a little touch of winter. Ordinarily the farmers would be sowing plant beds but nothing doing yet and the way some of them talk there will not be much done in the tobacco business this year. Amen.

Miss Jettie Groce is on the sick list, we are sorry to note.

Granny Wid Shore is also on the sick list but is some better we hope. Granny Wid, as everybody calls her, is one of the out-standing characters of our community. It was through her earnest efforts mainly that Mountain View church was built. There is never a night too dark nor a day too cold for her to visit and nurse the sick. She is in the seventies, and until recently would go to the field and work like a young girl.

Mr. Church, of Boonville, and daughter, were visiting our Sunday school at Mountain View Sunday. There were 80 present.

Miss Blanch Mason, of Yadkinville, is visiting in the homes of Misses Halle Brown, Eva Dobbins and Hettie Myers.

Mrs. Jennie Spann, of Jonesville, who before her marriage was Miss Jennie Pardue, and Mr. Spann, were visiting Mrs. Spann's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Pardue Sunday.

Mr. Cap Stutts and family, have moved from the farm of Mr. John Boles.

Mr. Isom Brown has moved to the McNight house on his farm and Mr. Walter Johnson will occupy the home vacated by Mr. Brown.

Follow Eight "C's" To Better Chicks

The eight "C's" for better chicks may be grouped as clean eggs, clean incubators, clean chicks, clean litter, clean brooder houses, clean range, clean feed and clean management.

"Right now, the North Carolina Poultryman is entering his busiest season and is looking for the best methods to use in growing healthy, hardy chicks which will pay him a profit," says C. F. Parrish, extension poultryman at State College. "We do not know the best way to grow healthy chicks, but we do know a program to follow which will almost invariably make for success in the industry."

No one can produce healthy chicks without clean eggs produced by hens that have been blood-tested and found free of bacillary white diarrhea, Mr. Parrish believes. These eggs must be placed in incubators that have been thoroughly cleaned and dried before the eggs have ever been put into them. Then, every poultryman should be careful about the chicks which he brings to his place from some other breeder or practical poultryman. Only strong, clean chicks from disease-free stock should be purchased.

To Play at Lyric

Mae Marsh, as the mother, and James Dunn as the son in the Fox drama, "Over the Hill", which is coming to the Lyric for a two day's run January 28 and 29.

North Carolina chicks from blood-tested flocks are better than anything that can be imported into the state at this time.

The next step is to have clean brooder houses and place these on ground where chicks have not been reared before. Good range is also important. It is wise, says Parrish, to grow out the chicks on range where no poultry droppings have been spread and where some green crop has been planted. Clean litter on the floor is needed. Straw shavings or pea moss is good for chicks. Sawdust is poor.

The dote system does not work in feeding chicks. Give them all they will eat in such containers as the chicks cannot foul or waste the food. Feed for maximum results, Mr. Parrish recommends.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our appreciation to our many friends and neighbors for the great kindness and courtesy shown us during the illness and death of our husband and father, J. A. Burch.
