It's up to You—and to Me!

The government can't put over the NRA program of recovery.

Industry can't put it over.

Labor can't put it over

Unless you and I do our part.

My part and your part, if we are employers, is to sign and live up to the NRA code that applies to our business.

My part and your part, if we are consumers, is to buy from stores that display the NRA emblem and live up to its requirements; to buy as much as our incomes allow, so that the stores and factories, the employers of labor, can pay the increased wages and give the larger employment that will bring a return of better times.

Money is useless except when it is in motion—passing in exchange for goods to the storekeeper, who in turn pays it out both to his own store-workers and to the factory worker, which again in turn passes it on to the factory worker and to the producers of raw materials which go into factory products.

In this way, money goes from one individual to another, each of whom is benefited.

Only when money keeps flowing in this free and profitable manner, from one worker to another, can the people prosper.
