

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

Washington, July 15.—How far will the House of Representatives go in its revolt against the President? That is, by all odds, the most widely-discussed question in Washington these days. The lower House of Congress, having overwhelmingly voted down one of the President's "must" orders, the "death-sentence" clause in the Utilities Holding Company bill, is feeling its oats. It may take the bit in the teeth and run wild. The boys have been taking orders without open protest, though with a good deal of gambling, for the sake, mainly of party harmony and their own chances of reelection. Now they are beginning to wonder whether it is good politics to keep on as they have been going. A lot of them, particularly from the South, are getting word from back home that the folks are getting tired of having new projects sprung on them, and wish Washington would slow down for a while.

There was pretty general resentment in Congress of the President's effort to have his new "share the wealth" tax program rushed through on five days' notice, and that resentment was not materially cooled by his concession that they might take all Summer to consider it. Congress may or may not work out a new tax bill that will meet the President's views. Talk of adjourning and letting committees study the tax matter, for report and action at the next session, is heard on many sides. What is more likely is that the boys will stay here until Fall and maybe try to put over some things which the President does want.

It is more than likely that, instead of a bill to tax only huge incomes, enormous estates and wealth corporations, such as President Roosevelt asked for, Congress may give him a general revision of income and inheritance tax laws, running all the way down the scale. Also a few greenback, silver and bonus bills for good measure.

Lobby Investigation

Another thing that has got the boys on Capitol Hill all stirred up is the open charge that the Administration sought to buy votes for the "death-sentence" measure, by promise of patronage and threats of withholding work-relief funds. Representative Ralph Brewster (R.) of Maine made the flat statement that one of the "brain-trusters" who drew up the Holding Company bill, Thomas G. Corcoran of the R. F. C. staff, had warned him that if he voted "wrong" the funds for the Passamaquoddy power project would be held up. The result is a Congressional investigation of lobbying by both outsiders and insiders.

The President's latest bombshell is his letter to Representative Sam B. Hill, of Washington, urging Congress to disregard the Constitution in considering the Guffey Bituminous Coal Miners' Regulation bill. Mr. Hill is chairman of the subcommittee having the bill in charge. Mr. Roosevelt wrote:

"I hope your committee will not permit doubts as to constitutionality, however reasonable, to block the suggested legislation."

The President explained in his letter that the only way to find out whether coal-mining was subject to Federal regulation, was to try to regulate it and so bring the question to the Supreme Court. "A decision by the Supreme Court relative to this measure would be helpful," he said, "as indicating, with increasing clarity, the constitutional limits within which this government must operate."

The Constitution Issue

Now the boys are asking each other whether that would be good politics—for them individually and for the Democratic Party. The Opposition would like nothing better than to fight on the battleground of the Constitution. Indeed, it becomes more nearly a certainty, from week to week, that the question of Constitutional amendment to permit the Federal Government to do a lot of things this Administration has been trying to do, but which the Constitution, as interpreted by the Supreme Court, says it has no power to do, will be a major issue between the two parties next year.

Some of the President's closest friends are wishing that his wise old political strategist, Col. Louis McHenry Howe, were not disabled. Nobody else has the complete confidence of Mr. Roosevelt; from nobody else does he recognize political advice as uncolored by personal ambition.

THE WEARERS OF SPECTACLES

Do your glasses fit? It would seem, in these days of superabundant service right at our elbows, that ill-fitting spectacles could seldom be found. Personal experience, however, leads me to write this letter on this very important subject.

For years I struggled with "bi-focal" lenses. Every time I descended stairs, or walked up and down terraced steps outdoors, I groped through the reading segment of these lenses, and I can assure you, it was quite a cross to bear. Looking at the steps through segments of glass that were made for a 17-inch reading distance, converted for me a fitted lens into a most ill-fitting one.

Ill-fitting spectacles have a most marked effect on the gait and general comfort of wearers of glasses. I have seen a chronic dizziness and even severe headaches set up by badly-corrected eyes. These were in patients who had neglected to visit the optician, and who had resorted to all sorts of medical means for relief.

I have seen many headaches and much other nagging distress relieved by simple correction of the lenses worn by the sufferer. I often send the dizzy patient to the optician, instead of giving him a packet of liver pills to possibly sicken him more.

If you are a wearer of glasses, try to see that they are perfectly adapted to your eyes. It will repay you in comfort to do so. The eye is, perhaps, your most delicately-poised fixture—do not neglect it. And, to older patients—do not hurry into a pair of "bi-focal" lenses; a pair for distance and one for reading are better.

Rusk News

The people of the community are very grateful for the fine rains we are having.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Barker and daughter, Miss Vera, with Miss Nell Wall and many others, attended the birthday dinner of Mrs. Baker's brother, Luther Venable, of near Trap Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Wilmoth spent the week-end with Mrs. Wilmoth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Isaacs, near Zephyr. They were accompanied home by Miss Mary Isaacs, who will spend a few days here.

J. H. Norton, of Idaho, is spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. Gilmer Dobbins.

Revival services, conducted by Rev. L. B. Murray, of State Road, are in progress here this week.

Miss Lucile Martin is visiting her uncle, Tom Martin, and family, at Salem Fork.

Mrs. Amos Connelly, of Morganton, is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Charlie Dockery, in the Union Cross community.

G. R. Jenkins, of Winston-Salem, was a visitor here Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Jenkins, of Winston-Salem, were Sunday guests of his mother, Mrs. R. A. Jenkins. They were accompanied home by their daughter, Little Miss Bessie Ruth Jenkins, who has been spending some time here with her grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Southard and family, with Mr. and Mrs. E. Collins, motored to West Jefferson Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Norman and children, of Winston-Salem, with Miss Rebecca Dockery, of Union Cross, spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Swanson Southard.

Miss Mattie Ruth Wilmoth is spending a few days in Winston-Salem.

Mrs. H. S. Olsen and small daughter, Joan, visited her mother, Mrs. W. S. White, at Elkin during the week-end. She was accompanied home by Mrs. White and Little Peggy Jo Martin.

Misses Lillian and Dorothy Southard, of the Mulberry section, spent Sunday with Misses Maurice and Kathleen Dobbins.

N. E. Wilmoth and Raymond Jenkins spent Monday in Winston-Salem.

When Spanish settlers in the South spoke to negro children they used the phrase "Pequini Nino" which meant little child. It sounded to Americans like "pickaninny" and this mispronunciation of the Spanish words has become part of the language.

What is the yardstick for a cigarette...

Take mildness for one thing—how does it measure up for mildness?

Chesterfields are milder—not flat or insipid, of course, but with a pleasing flavor.

Then take taste for another thing—does it have plenty of taste?

Chesterfields taste better—not strong but just right.

In other words, They Satisfy—that's my yardstick for a cigarette.
