

GRADING BEGINS ON HIGHWAY 601

Link Between Boonville and Crutchfield to Be Hard Surfaced

TO FOLLOW NEW ROUTE

Boonville, April 17 — Grading started on the final link of highway 601 between Boonville and Crutchfield last Friday, April 14. This link is one of the most talked of stretches of highway to be found anywhere in the state of North Carolina, and its building is of great interest to this and other states as well.

T. M. Strider, a road builder from Tennessee, has the contract for the construction of this link which is two and seven-tenths miles in length. All grading work is being done by machinery, there being two large motor graders, or automatic loaders and dumpers that carry 12 cubic yards of dirt each trip. These machines are pulled by caterpillar tractors having 105 horsepower motors, and built on the diesel style. The only other machinery necessary for this grading job is a third tractor of the same type and horsepower, a large grader, and a heavy plow.

Members of the construction crew estimate that it will take something like two months to complete the grading. After the grading is done, it is expected that the road bed will be coated heavily with coarse gravel and allowed to pack before the final surfacing is applied.

When this road is completed it will give northern and southern states a hard surfaced, through route from Ohio to Florida, and will greatly facilitate travel between these as well as local points.

Boonville will especially be benefited by its building since it affords the town a hardsurfaced highway to every town of importance in this section. The completion of this highway link is expected to be somewhat of a boon to the Mt. Airy market since it will afford a safe road for large trucks.

The old road will not in any way be blocked by the new construction and travel will go on unimpeded over the old route until the completion of the new.
