

CONVICT HELD ON 5 CHARGES OF ROBBERIES

Claude King Admits Breaking and Robberies in Three Counties

WAIVES ANY HEARING

Yadkinville, July 26—(Special)—Claude Edward King, alias Jake King, escaped convict, has confessed to Sheriff A. L. Inscore and Winston-Salem officers that he robbed the filling station of Harvey Peoples, six miles east of Yadkinville, and the Auto Service Co. in Yadkinville, although not the same night. He also admitted stealing an automobile in Winston-Salem and breaking into a store belonging to Mr. Staley at Roaring River, the latter breaking occurring the same night of the Peoples robbery.

According to Sheriff Inscore, King said he spent a few days with John Spillman, near the Peoples place, and Spillman told the sheriff that King said he was going to do a breaking job. According to the sheriff, King also admitted stealing a set of license tags in Yadkinville, from the car belonging to Paul Warden. It was a broadcast description of these numbers that led to King's arrest by North Wilkesboro police. Sheriff Inscore has spent some time working with Wilkes and Forsyth officers on the case.

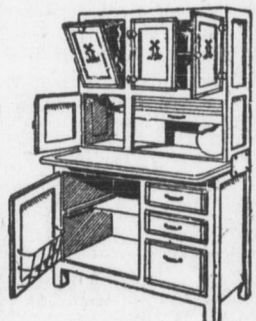

Although King told the sheriff he got only two tires from the service company here, Charlie Vestal, the owner, says three were missing and also several tubes, five cases of oil and a flashlight. One case of the oil and the flashlight were in the car when he was arrested. Also the money, $20.00 taken from the Roaring River store and the cigarettes, shirts and pennies taken from the Peoples store. The sheriff believes he had an accomplice in the Yadkinville job and the other goods went to him.

Several packs of Camel and Chesterfield cigarettes were taken from the Roaring River store. King said he threw the Chesterfield's in the Yadkin river and kept the Camel's because he was a Camel smoker. He says he sold the two tires he got from the Yadkinville place to a man near Brooks Cross Roads for $4.00, and that the man had a Virginia license plate.

King was arraigned in police

J. T. REECE IS MODERATOR OF BAPTIST ASS'N

Has Served Since 1933; Election Was Unanimous

OPTIMISM PREVAILS

J. Thad Reece, well known Yadkinville man, was reelected Moderator of the Yadkin Baptist Association on the opening day of their meeting yesterday at Sandy Springs Baptist church. Mr. Reece was first elected Moderator in 1933 and has served since that time. The election yesterday was unanimous.

Mr. Reece is a son of the late Attorney D. M. Reece. He is a lawyer himself, but has devoted the past several years to the school system of Yadkin county as school superintendent.

The Yadkin Association is composed of 5,000 members and the election of Mr. Reece to the post of Moderator again bespeaks the high esteem in which he is held by the association.

One of the highlights on the speaker's program yesterday was the address in the afternoon of Dr. Smith Hagaman, superintendent of Baptist hospital, Winston-Salem. Topping a long list of speakers today was an address by Dr. I. G. Greer, Superintendent of Mills Home, Thomasville.

The association closed its annual meeting yesterday afternoon after two days of work and it was pleasing to note the optimistic trend of all who took part in the convention.

Are to Appeal School Ruling

district were inadequate for the needs of the children.

"But that the house bill 247 is a local act as it applies to Yadkin county and by means of such the legislature has undertaken to set up indirectly a school district.

"That the bill conflicts with provisions of Article 2, section 29, of the constitution, prohibiting General Assembly from passing any local, private or special act or resolution establishing or changing the lines of a school district.

"Therefore, the act of the legislature is void and the Yadkin county board of commissioners have no power in law to issue bonds and levy property tax."

Judge Ervin took the case under advisement following a hearing July 5 on the temporary restraining order obtained in Yadkin county superior court by six residents of the Jonesville school district. These citizens, J. S. Hinson, Carl Rose, John Colbert, R. S. Walters, H. L. Evans and J. S. Lyons, alleged that the bond issue election was not conducted in conformity with the North Carolina laws; that the board of education failed to give the county board of commissioners sufficient information on the taxable value of the Jonesville property; and that some officials appointed to assist in the election were neither residents, freeholders, taxpayers nor qualified voters of the district.

The election, to issue $40,000 in bonds for the district, part of the cost of constructing the school, carried by a vote of 635 to 355.

At the present time Jonesville district grammar and high school students are attending the same school, which is crowded, according to officials, and becoming more so each year. The proposed new building was to have been erected near the present school for use of high school pupils.
