

A. J. MAXWELL IS GUEST SPEAKER

Elkin Kiwanians Go to North Wilkesboro for Joint Meeting of Clubs

SCHOOLS ARE DISCUSSED

Sixteen members of the Elkin Kiwanis club met at North Wilkesboro last Thursday evening in joint meeting with the North Wilkesboro and Lenoir clubs.

State Revenue Commissioner A. J. Maxwell was the principal speaker, his address being devoted mainly to discussion of the state school and highway system, stating that one weakness of the school system is in not teaching North Carolina history, except in the sixth grade, where he said an old text book written 30 years ago is used.

Mr. Maxwell said that not until the highways were constructed did the masses get out of isolation, and he cited the big growth of the state during the past 20 years. He also attributed to the construction of the highways the vast increase of state revenue.

At the meeting, in addition to the Elkin Kiwanians were 33 from Lenoir and 49 of the North Wilkesboro club. Words of welcome were spoken by A. H. Casey, lieutenant governor of division three, and response was by E. C. James, of the Elkin club. Rev. Watt Cooper, of the North Wilkesboro club, was in charge of the program.

Methodist Woman's Missionary Society Meets at Boonville

Zone No. 3 of the Methodist Woman's Missionary Society met with the Boonville Methodist church Wednesday. Twenty-one Methodist churches were represented from three counties, Surry, Yadkin and Forsyth. A large delegation attended from all three counties.

Mrs. A. B. Macon, of Mount Airy, was in charge of the meeting.

The feature of the morning session of the all-day meeting was a playlet, "A Dream Comes True," written and directed by Mrs. I. L. Sharpe, of Mt. Airy. Mrs. Sharpe is the wife of Rev. I. L. Sharpe who for several years was pastor of the Yadkin Methodist circuit. Special music was furnished by a sextette from Boonville.

At 12 o'clock dinner was served on the ground.

The afternoon session was opened by devotional rendered by Rev. Grady Hardin, pastor of Rockford Street Methodist church, Mt. Airy. Mrs. Lon H. West, of Yadkinville, rendered a solo. She was accompanied by Mrs. Blanche Dunnagan at the piano. A reading "I Met the Master Face to Face," was given by Miss Emily Brendle.

Of particular interest in the afternoon session was a brief inspirational talk by Mrs. J. G. Sterling, district secretary. Mrs. Sterling spoke on "The Work of the Woman's Missionary Society." The meeting adjourned to meet later in the fall with Salem Methodist church near Mt. Airy.

Boonville School Opens with Record Enrollment

Boonville high school opened yesterday with the largest enrollment that it has ever had, according to the statement of Prof. Albert Martin, principal of the school. There were 679 students packing every available inch of space in the large auditorium when the school was formally opened at 9 o'clock Monday morning. Of these students, 174 are now registered in the high school ranks; 502 are in the elementary department.

The largest increase in students has been recorded in high school. The present enrollment is sufficient to give the high school an extra teacher provided attendance does not drop off in the next two weeks. An extra teacher has been added for the current term on the record of last year's attendance. This gives the school 20 high school and elementary instructors combined.

East Bend School Opens with Good Attendance

East Bend high school opened Monday morning with an attendance of 479 for both the high school and the grades, according to a report issued by Lawrence H. Todd, principal of the school. The attendance, according to past figures, was one of the best first days that the school has experienced in the past few years.

The system has 16 teachers. Nine of these are in the grades, and 7 are high school teachers.

Fall Creek school, located five miles west of East Bend, opened with an attendance of 360.

Dwight D. Martin is principal of this school which does only elementary work.

Principal Martin made a short talk in which he announced general school plans and welcomed patrons who were present.

MULBERRY

Mr. Ray Wall, of Mulberry, gave a marshmallow roast to the young people of the community last Thursday night, the guests including the following: Misses Maurice and Kathleen Dobbins, Mabel, Mary Lee and Edith Eldridge, Mary Isaacs, Emily and Wilda Holder, Nell, Kate and Viola Wall, Messrs. Arvil Snow, Arvil Lundy, Bill Isaac, Garvey and Alfred Southard, Henry and Billy Wall, Clarence Southard, Rossie Dezer, Artis Stanley and Ruben Renegar. After the roast many games were enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Baker and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Southard and little daughter are attending the revival meeting at Pleasant Ridge Methodist church in Zephyr.

Mr. Arvil Snow, of this section, visited his mother last Sunday near Dobson.

Miss Versie Collins returned to her home near Zephyr last week after spending the summer in Westfield.

The farmers of this community have been very busy getting their tobacco ready for market. They have taken several thousand pounds to Sanford and Timmonsville within the last two weeks.

EAST BEND

The Fall Creek home demonstration club met at the home of Mrs. Claude Hobson Saturday evening for a picnic supper. Outdoor games were enjoyed prior to the picnic supper, which was served at seven o'clock.

A large number of the members were present and several guests were also invited.

The October meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. A. Russell on October 7, with Mrs. Willie Macey associate hostess.
