LUNCHROOM IS AID TO KIDDIES

NYA Provides Real Service to Undernourished Children at Dobson

250 RECEIVE FOOD DAILY

A real service is being provided to a group of at least 150 undernourished school children at Dobson by the lunch room at Dobson high school, which is operated by the Surry county NYA. It has been revealed by Principal Clyde M. Forrest.

Forrest said the lunch room was feeding about 250 students daily. Of this number 100 are in a paying group and the remainder receive free lunches. The paying group aids in providing operating expenses through the money they pay into the lunch room treasury.

The lunch room is supervised by Mrs. Tom Folger, of Dobson, who understands well how to prepare nourishing foods for the children, and at the same time make the pennies go the farthest. The service is sponsored by the home economics department of the high school. Mrs. Folger has a rotating group of 12 girls working in shifts of six at a time. This method provides for the use of six girls every two weeks, which enables each girl to get her maximum number of hours every month.

The lunch room, outside of the wages of the operators, is practically self-sustaining. Most of the food that is to go into nourishing soups and vegetable dishes during the winter months is prepared by canning during the summer. The school has a two-acre plot of land adjoining the school that is used for a garden. This garden was donated by one of Dobson's civic-minded citizens. Every vegetable that is generally found in a garden is raised on this big garden plot. Last summer nearly 1,000 cans were filled.

Commodities that have to be bought are purchased by wholesale. The biggest items are milk, sugar, butter, and salt. The usual procedure is for the paying group to exchange various commodities, such as canned goods, chickens, or other meats for tickets.

Principal Forrest also stated that they were feeding a group of 52 primary children two meals daily. In the morning at 9:30 these children who average about seven years of age are given a good sized dish of oatmeal and cream. At lunch they are given another meal. Forrest explained that this small meal took care of many small children who didn't have time to eat a good breakfast before catching the school buses which run very early. He also ventured to say that since starting this plan, a decided step-up in attendance among this primary group had been noticed. In almost every case their weights have increased, too.
