The Young Women's Missionary Society of the Boonville Methodist church met at the home of Mrs. Geo. Williams for the February meeting. A very interesting and enlightening program on the religious conditions the world over was given by different members.

The program opened with a song by the group. A brief business session was held. The secretary, Miss Kate Williams, read the minutes of the last meeting. Mrs. Elizabeth Fletcher, the president, rendered the devotionals. Then the general topic of the program, "The World Conference At Madras, India," was discussed.

Those discussing parts of the material were Miss Grace Hayes, who gave "Outstanding Features of the World Christian Community"; Mrs. Ruth Fletcher, Mrs. Kate Key, and Mrs. James Amburn.

It was revealed that at the Madras Conference missionaries from practically every country of the world came together to discuss their kindred problems. Some of the missionaries from countries at the present time at war with each other declared that they were common friends in Jesus Christ.
